

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE

The town of Oakham was fortunate in having during the most important periods of its early history clerks who kept full and clear records. It is not probable that those who made the records had any thought of their future value as historical documents. They made them complete that there might be no doubt about the responsibility of those who were chosen to public office; but in their effort to make everything plain, they left us very detailed information about the early history of the town. The records of the first forty-four years fill two large volumes, containing together seven hundred and ninety-one pages. The eight years of the Revolutionary War cover two hundred and four pages. Fortunately, also, during the one hundred and fifty years when the town documents were not safeguarded as they are to-day, not a page of any of the record books was lost or destroyed.

By the wise action of the State authorities, there are kept, in the libraries of the town officers and in the Free Public Libraries of all Massachusetts towns, many works of great value that are too little appreciated. In these libraries may be found printed copies of many important early colonial and state documents; the military record of the soldiers from the State in the Revolutionary War and in the War of 1812; the Adjutant General's reports during the period of the Civil War; and also vital records of Massachusetts towns and cities. With such material at hand to supplement the records of the town clerks, it is possible to prepare a history of the men from any Massachusetts town who have served the country as soldiers.

When in 1866 the Oakham Soldiers' Union proposed to keep in permanent form brief biographies of the soldiers from the town in the Civil War, it was not expected that these sketches would be printed, much less that they would form part of a printed volume. But during the half-century that has since elapsed, the soldiers who survived the war have lived as private citizens engaged in their several occupations, have filled out their family history, and have taken an active part in the public life of the communities in which their work has been done. No sketches of their lives could be thought of now which did not include what they have accomplished since the war, and what they have stood for as citizens and as men.

The men that constituted the Union Army were the best that the country produced. An army in time of war is no place for men weak physically or morally. The Union soldiers were not only men of strength and courage, but also men of character. In no war ever waged were the soldiers of better quality. The enormous debt incurred on account of the war was repaid, but the loss to the nation of hundreds of thousands of such young men can never be made up.

If there are any men who deserve to be remembered for what they have sacrificed for the sake of others, it is those who have served in the army in time of war. Only those who have seen actual service can fully realize what it means for a young man to give up home and friends, and to endure the hardships and the undermining influences of army life, and to face the dangers of a protracted war. If he returns uninjured, no soldier who has been long in the service can ever be repaid for what he has lost, physically, mentally, and morally. And what a multitude of young men in the Civil War either did not return, or came back crippled for life!

When I remember how much life has brought to me since the close of the war; in my home life; in the opportunity for service; in the joy of interest in the world's progress for half a century; and in the privilege of having even a little share in the work that has been done; and remember also that every one of our soldiers who were killed in battle or died by disease lost all this, I begin to appreciate what the sacrifice of so many young lives meant.

In the preparation of this book I have not only been living again among old friends, but have sometimes seemed to myself to be renewing an acquaintance with men brought back upon the stage from former generations. I knew personally the greater part of the soldiers from Oakham in the Civil War.

One-fourth of them had been my pupils, and a large proportion had been my playmates and friends. I had seen the greater part of the men from the town who were in the War of 1812. From early childhood I had heard much about the soldiers in the Revolutionary War from my grandmother, by whom I was brought up, who was the widow of a Revolutionary soldier and the daughter of John Crawford, Captain of the Oakham company from 1775 to 1783.

It has been a pleasure to gather, from the records of the town and the state, the history of the Oakham men who served in the War for Independence, but it has been especially gratifying to bring to light in a neighboring town a Revolutionary document supposed to have been irrecoverably lost. The fortunate discovery of a pay roll of Captain How's company for service on the Hudson in the latter part of 1776 gives encouragement to hope that copies of other such supposedly lost muster or pay rolls will yet be found.

Miss Mary A. French, of North Brookfield, into whose keeping a package of manuscript regarding the French family had come by inheritance, was greatly surprised to find that among these papers there was this list of Revolutionary soldiers made more than one hundred and thirty years before by her ancestor, Lieutenant French. The roll seems to have been either unnoticed or thought of no importance by those who had previously possessed these documents after the death of Lieutenant French in 1832. Though a portion of it was once thrown into the wastebasket, it was fortunately recovered, and the roll is preserved entire, with every name legible.

The possession by one of his descendants of this copy of a pay roll made by Lieutenant French, and also the discovery among the papers of Captain William Crawford of a copy of the roll of his Company in the War of 1812, shows that an officer may have kept the first draft of his report, having made a better written copy to send in.

Great care has been taken to make the statements in this book correct, and the authorities are cited for most facts to which the writer himself cannot testify. But there must still be errors and omissions. Sometime a fuller history of the town will probably be written, and a more complete genealogy of Oakham families. With this in view, I earnestly request those who read any part of this book to send me corrections of errors found in it, and to give any additional information which they possess regarding the Oakham families to which they belong, or from which they are descended.

Many have helped to gather material for the biographical sketches, to all of whom the author acknowledges his obligations. He is especially indebted to Miss Emily K. Fobes of Worcester, for searching the Worcester County Records; to Mr. Ernest L. Hayward of Taunton, for the preparation of the Index; and to Professor Henry Burt Wright of New Haven, who has verified the authorities for the Soldiers of the Revolutionary War, and given valuable assistance in every part of the work.

THE SOLDIERS' UNION

THE SOLDIERS' UNION

The Oakham Soldiers' Union grew out of a meeting of a few returned soldiers, in the vestry of the Congregational Church, on the evening of August 17, 1866. Major Fairbank, Andrew Spooner, and Sergeant Temple were requested to prepare a constitution, and, a week later, the Union was organized. Any resident of the town who had served in the Army or Navy of the United States and had been honorably discharged, and any person who had enlisted from the town and had been honorably discharged, was eligible for membership.

The annual meetings of the Soldiers' Union became at once the important social event of the year for the town, and were continued regularly for nearly a quarter of a century. A part of each meeting was given to addresses on war subjects and to other suitable exercises, and a part to social entertainment, which included a supper served by the ladies of Oakham. The proceeds of the annual meetings were deposited in the North Brookfield Savings Bank, and the deposits were increased by various entertainments planned by joint committees of the citizens and soldiers.

The association from the beginning had before it two plans: (1) the erection of some form of a monument to the soldiers who lost their lives in the Civil War; (2) the preservation of a brief biography of all the men who enlisted from the town in that war.

When the Union had reached its sixth year, it had accumulated funds which justified it in beginning to make plans for a soldiers' memorial. At the annual meeting in 1872, two propositions were presented by a committee which had been appointed at the previous annual meeting:

- (1) A hall for town and public uses, with memorial tablets.
- (2) A monument erected on the Village Green.

The attendance at this meeting was large, and the majority of those present expressed their preference for a hall.

On January 1, 1873, the Treasurer's report showed a balance of $1,232.48 in the treasury. At this meeting the Union appointed a committee, consisting of two soldiers and five citizens, "to see what can be done by the citizens and by the town toward building a hall, and to present plans of a building suitable for memorial purposes, and an estimate of the cost of building." The committee were instructed to make their report within three months. No report was ever received from this committee.

On the part of several prominent citizens there was strong opposition to an appropriation toward the erection of a memorial hall. The town was already heavily burdened by the expenses of the war, and by the railroad debt. In order to get a definite decision from the town and the citizens, the following resolution was presented by Andrew Spooner, at a meeting of the Union on December 31, 1873:

"Whereas, a committee was chosen at the last annual meeting of this association, on January 1st, 1873, to consider and report upon plans, specifications, and cost of building a suitable memorial hall, with instructions to report within three months, and no report from said committee has been received, and whereas it is desirable that the matter of a soldiers' memorial be finally disposed of, therefore

Resolved, that a committee be chosen at this time whose duty it shall be to proceed to the erection of a suitable soldiers' memorial, and that if no feasible plan for building a suitable hall be presented to them previous to the first day of January, 1875, they be instructed to erect a suitable monument, to be completed before September 1st, 1875, the cost of which shall not exceed twelve hundred dollars, and that they be empowered to draw on the treasury for the payment of the same."

After much discussion, action on this resolution was postponed, that those in favor of a memorial hall might have opportunity to ascertain what contributions of money, building material, and labor would be made by citizens, and what the town would vote to do. A canvass of the town showed that twelve hundred dollars could be raised from the citizens. The question was then presented to the town, at a meeting held March 17, 1874. At this meeting the town

"Voted to appropriate two thousand dollars, when the soldiers and the voluntary contributors shall guarantee the balance of the four thousand and four hundred dollars required to build the proposed hall."

Upon further consideration it seemed best for the interests of the town to erect a building which should contain both a hall for town and memorial purposes, and two or more rooms for a center school. Another town meeting was called, to be held March 31, to see whether the town would appropriate five hundred dollars more. At the beginning of this meeting it was voted that no one be allowed to speak on the question more than three times, or more than five minutes at a time. After a lengthy and exciting debate the town by a large majority

"Voted, that the town raise and appropriate the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, including the two thousand dollars already appropriated by the town on the 17th of March current, for the purpose of erecting a town hall and two school rooms in one building."

The Soldiers' Union held a meeting on April 11, and passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the Soldiers' Union will give to the town for the purpose of erecting a schoolhouse and town hall the sum of Twelve Hundred Dollars ($1,200), upon the following conditions, namely:

(1) That the town and citizens furnish a sum sufficient to complete the building proposed.

(2) That suitable tablets shall be placed therein for a soldiers' memorial by the Soldiers' Union, and maintained for all time by the town.

(3) That the Soldiers' Union have the free use of said Hall for all such meetings as they may desire to hold from year to year."

The Soldiers' Union appropriated $260 in addition, for memorial tablets.

A Building Committee was appointed consisting of nine members, three to represent the town, three the Soldiers' Union, and three the citizens:

For the town: Alanson Prouty, Avery C. Bullard, Alonzo Lincoln.

For the Soldiers' Union: Dr. J. G. Shannon, George W. Stone, Stephen Boyden.

Memorial Hall was completed before the close of the year and was dedicated on Friday evening, January 1, 1875.

The building contains two school rooms and a Selectmen's room on the first floor, and a hall, called Memorial Hall, on the second floor. The hall is used for town meetings, for public lectures, and for entertainments of all kinds. The school rooms are for the use of the Center School District, and also for pupils in the higher grades from any part of the town.

Few of the soldiers who organized the Union or were members of it are now living, but their work for the town abides in this building, which has been for nearly forty years of incalculable value to the citizens of the town and to their children. May it long remain a monument to the soldiers of Oakham in the Civil War.

The second purpose of the Soldiers' Union—the preservation of brief biographies of the soldiers from Oakham in the Civil War—is fulfilled by the publication of this book. The plan has been enlarged so as to include also the soldiers from the town in the Revolutionary War and in the War of 1812.

ADDRESS OF HENRY P. WRIGHT

It has been thought appropriate that a few words be said concerning the part taken in the erection of this building by the Soldiers' Union.

During the year following the close of the war, the returned soldiers of the Union Army residing in this town formed themselves into an association called the Oakham Soldiers' Union. Its object, as set forth in the constitution, was "to cherish the memory of our fallen comrades, to preserve the friendships of camp and field, and to cultivate a sentiment of love and devotion to our country." At the beginning, the organization was designed to be of a social character. Its first meetings were attended only by soldiers, who passed the time chiefly in relating incidents of the war of which they themselves had personal knowledge. It was soon proposed to collect materials for a historical sketch of each soldier who enlisted from Oakham, and thus to preserve in permanent and accessible form a history of the town in the war. This has been partly done and will be completed. Another design was the erection, at some future time, of a suitable memorial to perpetuate the memory of those who fell in their country's service.

Annual reunions were established, to be held on the first day of January of each year, to which all friends of the soldiers were invited. Their purpose was to keep alive the friendships formed in the war and to interest the people in our organization and its objects. These meetings, always well attended, have constantly increased in public favor, and it is to this, our ninth annual reunion, that you are welcomed for these dedicatory exercises.

But something more was thought of than social entertainment. It seemed desirable to begin some movement, as early as possible, to perpetuate the memory of the sacrifices of this people in the war. The returned soldiers were few in number, and when a memorial was first suggested we saw no way of raising money sufficient even for a humble monument. A little was saved from the annual meetings, a little added now and then from a social gathering; yet the sum of these littles was still small. The most timely aid rendered to our cause was by Mr. John B. Gough, who on so many occasions has placed the people of this town under lasting obligations to him, and whom we must ever hold in grateful remembrance. The proceeds of his lectures were added to our little fund, and it at once began to be respectable. The citizens of the town made our object their own, and by fairs and social entertainments the cause was helped on. By these means and by judicious investment, our accumulations became such that, two years ago, we began seriously to consider how they could best be used. After a very careful consideration of different plans, it was agreed to give the greater part of our fund to the town for the purpose of erecting a memorial building, providing the town and citizens would furnish enough to complete it. The town and citizens accepted the offer, and we united with them in the erection of this Hall, for which we were able to contribute one-fourth of the amount expended upon it. In itself, perhaps, the sum may seem small, but our gift was of great value for this reason, at least, that, without it, the building would not have been erected.

In reviewing the success of this organization, we remember that it owes more than we can express in words to the citizens of this town. Many of you have been more active in helping than the members of the association themselves. We do not forget your services, and I wish here, in behalf of the Soldiers' Union, to express our deep gratitude to all of you who have in any way encouraged and assisted us during the last nine years.

This is to be a Memorial Hall. The Soldiers' Union has erected here two plain marble tablets, on which are inscribed the names of the twenty-two soldiers from this town who fell in the war, and the four who have died since its close. Of this number, twenty died by disease; five fell in battle, two at Drury's Bluff, two at Cold Harbor, and one; just at the close of the war, at Petersburg; another, a captive, weakened by wounds, laid down his life, a neglected sufferer, in a Confederate prison. They left peaceful homes, to which they were bound by the tender ties of domestic affection. At their country's call they went forth, in the vigor of youth, and with patriotic ardor, to maintain the honor of our government and defend the nation's flag. When the war closed and the troops returned in triumph, they came not with them. The homes from which they had gone forth were clouded with grief, when other homes were joyous with victory. Here are names of sons and brothers, husbands, fathers and friends, familiar names of the companions and playmates of our childhood, who fifteen years ago were so active among us in all that interests young men. To the memory of these fallen ones we dedicate these tablets, that they may be to us, as we gather here from time to time, a visible memorial of our departed comrades, and may perpetuate their names to other generations, when we who knew them have passed away.

To you, gentlemen, the official representatives of the town, and to your successors in office, we commit the keeping of these memorial tablets, in order that they may be preserved and protected. We ask you to guard them sacredly, remembering the beloved names which they bear and the heroic sacrifices and deaths which they record.

ADDRESS OF REV. F. N. PELOUBET

When at the close of the war Gen. Anderson went back to Fort Sumter with the same old flag which had been taken down at its evacuation four years before, and raised it once more over Sumter redeemed, he took his children with him to witness the ceremony. For his wife was a Georgian, and all her friends were secessionists. And both he and his wife being in feeble health, they knew not, if they should die, to what influences those children would be exposed. "But," said he, "if they see their father raise their country's flag, and witness these ceremonies, all the influences which can be brought to bear upon them will never make them false to the old flag."

We have gathered here this evening to dedicate this comely Memorial Hall, which sits with its sister church, twin stars, patriotism and religion linked together, a double crown upon your hill seen from afar.

Soldier hands with those of their fair sisters have helped to gather the means. Every farm has paid its proportion. Willing hearts have poured out their contributions to erect this beautiful building, where, below, the education of your youth shall fan the flame of love to country, and embody it in noble character, and, above, the names of those recorded on these tablets shall beckon them upward. And thus this building with its citizen and soldier builders, and the names recorded here, shall be enduring witnesses to children and children's children, so that no influences shall make them false to their country's flag, or their country's weal. It shall keep in mind that true interpretation of the old motto, "Our country, right or wrong—if right, to keep her right; if wrong, to make her right."

The words of a Massachusetts colonel to his regiment as he fell wounded in battle, "State colors to the front, Massachusetts forward," were heard through every town and village of our state, and the young men of this town Oakham, i. e. Oakhome, with hearts of oak as well as name of oak, listened to the call.

Being pastor of the Oakham church, and citizen of the town before the war and remaining till it was ended, I was personally acquainted with most of these men. Sixteen were members of my church, three more of the Methodist church then existing here, and twenty-seven were members of the Sabbath School. It was with great pleasure that in my address of welcome to those who returned at the close of the war, I could say with truth that "so far as we can learn, you have to a man returned at least as good as you went away, and many we know, and all we hope, a great deal better. Many backsliders were made in the army, but not one hails from Oakham; there were cowards, but none were nurtured among these hills; there were deserters, but no Oakham man failed in the hour of trial."

Since then the returned soldiers have been scattered far and wide. One is now a pastor in the second largest city of New England; one is a professor in a college which, with only one peer and no superior, stands highest in this western world; one is a Christian lawyer in a rising western state; others are merchants, or mechanics, or farmers in this and other towns. But to-night in spirit and memory we are all here again.

We record the names of our fallen heroes in marble, but we engrave them more deeply on our hearts and memories. Sweetly they sleep in our cemeteries, where every year you decorate their graves with flowers, those beautiful emblems of resurrection, every one of which, growing out of the same ground in which our heroes sleep, says resurgemus, "we shall rise again."

Those that lie in the valleys of the south, that sleep in unknown graves, God himself decorates with green and with flowers;

"Covers the thousands who sleep far away,
Sleep where their friends cannot find them to-day;
They who in mountain and hillside and dell
Rest where they wearied, and sleep where they fell.

Softly the grass blades creep round their repose,
Sweetly above them the wild flowret blows;
Zephyrs of freedom fly gently o'erhead,
Whispering prayers for the patriot dead."

How we felt here the absence of those men! What a change it made in every department, to have so much young life flow out never to return! We missed them at home, in the church, in the Sabbath School, in the prayer meetings, in the social circles, in the literary lyceums, in the schools. We missed them everywhere. And yet we would not have them do otherwise than they did. We see now that to send forth loyal children to save their country is better than to keep ten thousand disloyal cowards at home. We see that the spirit of self-sacrifice for freedom leaves an unfading legacy as the years roll on. We should have been false to our town and its history, had we refused to hear the call for men. We should have been false to our church, and our fathers, and our God, had we been false to freedom. We should have been false to our education and our schools and our national institutions, had we allowed them to produce cowards and not men.

There are two kinds of monuments which we can rear to our soldiers' memory. One is such a monument as this in which we are now assembled, a building in which the youth shall be educated with better advantages than they have had, with this hall above in which lectures, lyceums, public meetings, and the transactions of town business shall continue through life the education begun in the rooms below. How much more appropriate and touching, more expressive and beautiful, is this than a shaft of stone however elaborate, for it not only points upward, but it is steps upward. It not only helps us to remember the dead, but plants in us the virtues for which they died. It is a Jacob's Ladder, not in a dream, by which the whole town may join in "stepping heavenward."

And there is something peculiarly fitting in the method by which it was built. The soldiers who returned safe from the war began to collect the funds; and we should never forget that they were as brave and true soldiers, and offered as much to their country, as those whose names are recorded here. Then the citizens with free hand, and the town by taxation, have completed the amount. Then also our mothers and wives and sisters have had no small part in this building, taking their full share of the sacrifice and the work; and worthily, for they bore their full share of the burden and the sorrows of the war. Mother and wife balanced at home the sufferings of husband and son in the field. If ever we see, in heaven, the glorious army of earthly heroes, as many women will be in it as men, and soldiers' wives, and soldiers' mothers, and soldiers' daughters, though unnamed on tablets of stone, will be heard in the roll call of heroes and martyrs, and no crowns will be brighter, and no *well done*s worthier than theirs.

This Hall, then, built by the living in honor of the dead, we dedicate to the memory of those soldiers who have given their lives for their country, and to the spread of that Liberty and Loyalty, Righteousness and Peace, for whose sake they died.

And may the Good Father gather them and us around his throne in heaven, and say to all, Well done, good and faithful soldiers, enter into the joy of your Lord.

THE REVOLUTION

THE REVOLUTION

During the first half-century after the incorporation of Oakham, it was the custom of the Town Clerks to make note, on their books, of public business done by any officer of the town. The Treasurer's report of monies received and paid out by him was copied entire in the minutes of the meeting at which the report was presented. Sometimes the receipts for money were written in the Town Records and there signed by the persons to whom the money was paid. The names of school-teachers, and of those who boarded school-teachers; the names of those who came to preach as candidates when there was no settled minister, and of the persons who cared for them and for their horses, were entered on the records, with the amount paid for such services. That the Town Clerk, therefore, should copy in his reports the names of soldiers furnished by the town for any campaign, was to be expected, especially since the town gave its soldiers bounties, larger or smaller, in proportion to the difficulty of the service. The town records contain nearly complete lists of the men sent in answer to the many demands of the Provincial Legislature, and of the Continental Congress, but, since the bounties were often allowed as credit on the tax bills of the soldiers or of their fathers, the names of some soldiers do not appear on these lists.

The State of Massachusetts has made accessible all the material which it possesses regarding the Revolutionary soldiers from the state, in the monumental work, in seventeen large volumes, Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War. In most cases the account of service given in these volumes confirms that given on the town records; but it is to be noted that the rolls of some companies have not been preserved, and that a man may have served in a company before or after the time covered by any existing roll. In general the presence of a man's name on the muster roll or pay roll of a company only, must be taken as evidence that he served in that company, and the statement, on the town records only, that the Town Treasurer paid a man a certain sum as bounty for a given campaign, is evidence that he served as a soldier in that campaign. But when the two records agree the proof is beyond question.

At the beginning of the Revolutionary War, the able-bodied men of Massachusetts of military age (that is, between sixteen and sixty) had already been drilled as soldiers, and detachments of them could be sent wherever they were needed, without waiting for the organization and discipline of companies and regiments which was necessary at the breaking out of the Civil War. A committee of the First Provincial Congress recommended, December 10, 1774, that one-fourth at least of the soldiers of each town should equip themselves as minutemen, ready to march on the shortest notice for the defence of the province. These were to be provided "with effective Fire arms, Bayonet, Pouch, Knapsack and Thirty rounds of Cartridges and Ball," and were to drill three times a week. Each company was to elect its own officers. The Oakham militia company was probably under the command of Captain Jonathan Bullard. The men detailed to serve as minutemen, about thirty in number, chose John Crawford Captain and drilled regularly every other day, according to the recommendations of the Provincial Congress.

The towns were advised to pay the minutemen a reasonable consideration, but the members of the Oakham company, like those in most other towns, were satisfied to equip themselves and drill without pay, provided the other soldiers of the town were also equipped and drilled; as is evident from a vote passed in town meeting March 6, 1775: "Voted that the Militia company & alarm men shall be equipt as well as possible & meet in the field and exersisé, et cetera, which appears to satisfy the minutmen without any pay."*

On the night before the attack on Lexington, an alarm was sent out by messengers to the several towns which appears to have reached Oakham on the afternoon of April 19. On the receipt of this alarm, Captain Crawford, with his company of minutemen, set out immediately for Cambridge, where they joined the Worcester County Regiment under the command of Colonel Jonathan Warner of Hardwick. On the town records there is no list of names of the minutemen, but the following names of Oakham men who marched on the alarm of April 19 are on the muster roll of Captain Crawford's company in the Massachusetts archives:*

* On April 16, 1776, the town "Voted to give the Minute-Men the Ten Dollars they received [from the province] at the alarm on the 19th of April last (£3. os. od)."

Captain, John Crawford.

First Lieutenant, Isaiah Parmenter.

Second Lieutenant, Alexander Bothwell, 3d.

Sergeants, George Black, Samuel Metcalf, Benjamin Joslyn, Daniel Henderson.

Corporals, Silas Bullard, James Bell, John Boyd.

Drummer, Aaron Crawford.

Privates, Samuel Bell, Joseph Berry, Stewart Black, William Black, John Bothwell, William Bothwell, John Butler, George Caswell, Daniel Deland, William Harper Dunn, Joseph Eager, Nathan Edson, John Forbes, Joel Hayden, James McHerrin, Jacob Parmenter, William Stevenson, Isaac Stone, 2d.

On Sunday, April 23, 1775, the Provincial Congress at Watertown resolved that thirteen thousand six hundred men be raised by the province for eight months' service. Each company was to consist of fifty-nine men, including three officers. A week later the Committee of Safety ordered that one-half of the militia be sent immediately to Roxbury and Cambridge, and that the other half hold themselves in readiness to march at a minute's warning. On July 5 it was voted to provide each non-commissioned officer and soldier raised under this resolve with a bounty coat, or, if he preferred, to allow him its equivalent in money.

In April and May, thirty-five Oakham men enlisted for a term of eight months. Ten of the minutemen reënlisted on April 27 in the 5th Company (Captain Simeon Hazeltine) of the 8th Regiment, commanded by Colonel John Fellows:

*Lexington Alarms, Vol. XII, p. 15.

Joseph Berry, George Black, Stewart Black, William Black, Daniel Deland, William Dunn, Joseph Eager, James McHerrin, Jacob Parmenter, Isaac Stone, 2d. George Black was made Lieutenant, and Stewart Black, Ensign. Daniel Deland was Fifer. Fourteen others from Oakham enlisted later in the same company: Jacob Ames, Samuel Bullard, James Boyd, Daniel Crawford Deland, Stephen Foster, Joseph Gilles, David Henderson, Oliver Jackson, Aaron McCobb, Nehemiah Packard, Zephaniah Perkins, Asa Snell, Amos Temple, and Joshua Turner. James Conant and Luther Conant enlisted at the same time in Captain Soul's company of the same regiment. The names of Henderson, McCobb, Snell and Temple are not on the Oakham town records.

Lebbeus Washburn enlisted on May 27 in Captain John Packard's company of the 9th Regiment, commanded by Colonel David Brewer; George Caswell and James Swinerton of Oakham, and William Johnson of New Braintree, whose name is on the Oakham town records, joined Captain Grainger's company, in Colonel Ebenezer Learned's regiment.

Silas Bellows, George Dunn, Thomas Gill, Robert Harper, Alexander McFarland, Jr., and Kerly Ward enlisted in Captain Seth Washburn's company of Colonel Jonathan Ward's regiment. Kerly Ward was made Corporal. The name of Silas Bellows is not on the town records for this campaign. This regiment was at the Battle of Bunker Hill, but only a few of the companies were actively engaged; Captain Washburn's company was one of these. Silas Bellows, George Dunn, Alexander McFarland, Jr., and Kerly Ward were in the Battle of Bunker Hill, and Kerly Ward was wounded. Thomas Gill and Robert Harper did not join the company till fourteen days after the battle.

These eight-months' regiments were encamped at Roxbury and formed part of the right wing of the army under General Ward that besieged the British in Boston.

Captain Samuel Dexter of Hardwick raised a company for six months' service from Hardwick, New Braintree and Oakham, which formed part of Colonel Ebenezer Learned's regiment. Five Oakham men were in this company: Sergeant Isaiah Parmenter, Corporal Timothy Conant, Privates Archibald Forbes, Bartholomew Green, Matthew McGilligan (for James Dean). This regiment was in camp at Roxbury January 1, 1776.

Thirteen men served two months at Roxbury in the company of Captain Barnabas Sears: Sergeant Daniel Parmenter, Privates Samuel Stone, James Banks, Sergeant Ebenezer Woodis, Privates Sheers Berry, James Blair, James Hunter, Arch Forbes, Moses Gilbert, Bartholomew Green, Joseph Green from Rutland, Timothy Conant and Zephaniah Perkins. The last ten receipted, February 15, 1776, for ammunition to Captain Sears; the names of the others are found on the town records only, but these records give no credit to Perkins for this campaign.

The British evacuated Boston March 17, 1776. April 9 a resolve was passed to raise eight companies of ninety men each "for the defence of Boston," to serve till December 1, 1776. On the pay roll of the company of Captain Ezekiel Knowlton of Templeton, dated Dorchester, November 28, 1776, are found the names of Sergeant Asa Partridge, Privates George Harper, William Parmenter (for Solomon Parmenter) and Timothy Shaw (for Thomas White). William Smith of Oakham enlisted in this company, December 14, 1776, to serve till March 1, 1777, but he was credited to the town of Barre.

Early in 1776 measures were taken by the General Court to organize and train the militia, that soldiers might be ready to respond promptly to calls for reinforcements, especially for the Continental Army. By an Act of January 22, the number of Worcester County regiments was fixed at eight. On May 14, 1776, the Fourth Worcester County Regiment was organized at Brookfield. Ebenezer Foster of Oakham was chosen Adjutant of the regiment. The officers elected for the 8th or Oakham company were:

Captain, John Crawford.

First Lieutenant, Alexander Bothwell, 3d.

Second Lieutenant, Asa French.

These officers received their commissions May 31, 1776, and continued in service till the close of the war.

At a town meeting held May 21, 1776, six weeks before July 4, the town "Voted without Contradiction that if the Honl. Congress should for the Safety of the Colonies declare them Independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that they [that is, the people of Oakham] solemnly engage, with their lives & fortunes to support them in the measure."

The town furnished four men for the Ticonderoga campaign but it is not easy to decide just who the men were. John Boyd, Benjamin Foster, Joel Hayden and Jacob Parmenter, on July 29, 1776, were voted £12 bounty from the town for this campaign. The names of Hayden and Parmenter are on the town records only. Boyd, Foster, and also Stewart Black were enrolled in Captain Nathaniel Hamilton's company, which consisted mostly of Brookfield men and was in service at Ticonderoga Mills and Fort Edward from August 3, 1776, till February 1, 1777, in Colonel Samuel Brewer's regiment. David Henderson and John Harper were enrolled for the same service, in Captain John Howard's company of the same regiment, and Daniel Deland went in Captain Noah Allen's company of Colonel Asa Whitcomb's regiment. Eleven citizens (Isaac Stone, Joseph Hudson, James Ames, William Green, Mat. Galt, Ebenezer Foster, James Blair, Skelton Foster, Jacob Adams, John Butler and Heman Bassett) promised to advance to the Treasurer one hundred and sixty dollars "to replace the Money paid by him to the four Canady Soldiers who Inlisted in July last as soon as may be."*

June 25, 1776, it was resolved to raise two thousand men to serve in New York till December 1, 1776. As far as is known to the writer, no muster rolls have been preserved for this, and for the following campaign to New York. All names here given on these two lists are found on the town records only. In addition to the State bounty of £3, a town bounty of £6 each was promised to those who should enlist in response to this call. The men named below agreed to be responsible for the ten soldiers needed for this campaign: Ensign Isaiah Parmenter, Captain Jonathan Bullard, Ensign William Banks, Edward Partridge, 2d, Silas Partridge, Joseph Craige, George Caswell, *Town Records, Vol. I, pp. 152 ($160), and 171 (£48).

James Brown (half a man), John Brown (half a man), Aaron Crawford (half a man), William Crawford (half a man), Nathaniel Weeks. Ensign Parmenter probably went in charge of the men sent on this service.

Robert Wilson, Alexander Wilson, Jonathan Cunningham, Samuel Davis, Isaiah Butler, John Harmon, John Bothwell and William Smith agreed to be responsible for eight soldiers to be sent to New York for three months' service. The two Wilsons, Bothwell and Smith, without doubt, went themselves on this campaign.

On account of the critical situation of the Continental Army in New York in September, 1776, one-fifth of all the able-bodied men under fifty were called for to serve two months. Lieutenant Asa French, with Corporals Samuel Metcalf and William Bothwell, and Privates Abraham Bell, James Bell, Jr., Silas Bullard, Nathan Edson, James Forbes, John Forbes, Benjamin Knight, and a recruit, Jacob Brooks, hired by Deacon Allen and Nathan Edson, were detailed for this campaign and joined Captain Abner How's company of Colonel James Converse's regiment, which was in service at Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown and North Castle. James Banks was detailed to go but did not join the regiment. Ichabod Packard also has credit on the town records for this campaign. The recently-discovered pay roll of Captain How's company made out by Lieutenant French, Commandant, is printed among the Addenda in this book.

Joseph Osborn, Jr., was a soldier and probably lost his life in one of these campaigns, as appears from a vote of the town April 18, 1777, "that Joseph Osburn's Campagn rate of £3-5-10 be allowed him for his son Joseph's Service in the war, who is now deceased."

It is not possible to tell in every case whether the man who received credit on the town records went himself or secured some one to go in his place. There is very little on the town records about soldiers until September 19, 1776, when the question was raised about the claims of those who had already served. When Captain Crawford received a call for soldiers to serve within the state he detailed the men to go, or called for voluntary enlistment. When the service was beyond the limits of the state, citizens would sometimes come forward and guarantee to be responsible for the number of men required. Some of them would go themselves; some would secure other men to go. The committee that made, in 1777, the lists of men who had served before the call for Continental soldiers, was "chosen to receive and adjust the Claims of the Persons in Town for any service done in the present war, whether by themselves or other ways." This committee reported March 11, 1777.

It is probable, also, that some citizens who received credit, even on the muster rolls, for militia service in the campaigns of 1777 and 1778, were represented in the army by substitutes who enlisted under their names. It was considered as creditable for a citizen to send a good man in his place as to go himself, and when the citizen was past middle age, it was better for the service. The country was in an unsettled state. There was no executive head, and the Continental Congress was often not able to pay the soldiers. The Provincial Legislature raised money by taxes on the several towns, and no service was more important than that of securing the funds necessary to enable the town to do its part in the war. It is beyond question also, that the citizens who sent substitutes, generally paid them much more than the bounty which they themselves received back from the town.

Early in 1777, Massachusetts was called upon by Congress to furnish her quota of fifteen battalions for three years' service in the Continental Army. Each soldier was to have from the province twenty shillings per month and a bounty of £20 in addition to the Continental pay. Land bounties were also promised to those who enlisted to serve during the war. Oakham offered an extra bounty of £20. Some of the nearby towns offered a bounty of £30, and even £40. One-seventh of all the male population not already in the service, of sixteen years of age and upwards, were to be taken. Seventeen Oakham men in Captain Crawford's company responded to this call; seven enlisted in Captain Reed's company of Colonel Alden's, later Colonel Brooks's, 8th Massachusetts Regiment: Sergeant Luther Conant, Corporal Enos Hudson, Privates Israel Hill, Isaac Parmenter, James Parmenter, Zephaniah Perkins, Thomas Taylor; and ten went in Captain Holden's company of Colonel Nixon's 6th Massachusetts Regiment: Sergeant Isaac Stone, 2d, Privates Joseph Berry, Sheers Berry, Timothy Conant, Daniel Deland, Jabez Fuller, Matthew McGilligan, William Oliver, Alpheus Stone and Joshua Whitcomb. The names of Thomas Taylor, Timothy Conant, and Joshua Whitcomb are on the muster rolls as serving for the town of Oakham, but not on the town records. This was the first quota of men furnished for three years. The date of the enlistment was March 11, 1777. These regiments were actively engaged in the campaign which resulted in the surrender of General Burgoyne. Both were probably in action in the battles of September 19 and October 7.

The following men served for the town of Oakham in the Continental army, for a term of three years, in other regiments: James Conant in Colonel Lee's regiment, Joshua Turner in Colonel Henry Jackson's regiment, Richard Sternes in Colonel Crane's artillery regiment, William Harper Dunn and John Green in Captain Goodale's company of Colonel Rufus Putnam's regiment, Jonathan Henderson in Captain Amos Cogswell's company, Colonel Wesson's regiment. Of these only Conant, Dunn and Henderson have credit on the town records.

Shubael Wilder, Moses Doty, Elisha Pike and John Wheeler engaged for the town of Oakham in Captain Daniel Shay's company of Colonel Rufus Putnam's regiment, but the last three were without doubt credited to the town of Hardwick where they resided.

In the Massachusetts Spy of July 24, 1777, John Hooker of Rutland announces that he "proposes to ride post from Col. Nixon's regiment to Boston, once every month, for one year." Letters for soldiers in the regiment from their friends in Oakham were to be left at Ebenezer Foster's tavern, by the 19th of every month.

Some of the casualties among the Oakham men in the Continental army are recorded, but probably not all. Timothy Conant died April 15, 1777; Israel Hill was killed August 25, 1777, on the expedition for the relief of Fort Schuyler; Zephaniah Perkins was killed September 15, 1777; Jabez Fuller died October 16, 1777, probably as a result of wounds received in the battle of September 7. Isaac Parmenter was wounded in battle with the Indians and Tories and was in the hospital several months. He and James Parmenter were taken prisoners at Cherry Valley November 11, 1778. Isaac Parmenter was kept a prisoner nearly two years, and James Parmenter is supposed to have died in captivity.

Israel Hill's bounty of £20 was paid to Widow Beriah Hill by vote of the town April 13, 1778. On the same day it was voted also to pay to Zephaniah Perkins £20 as town bounty, but this was paid to Widow Mary Perkins, who had been appointed administratrix of his estate in December, 1777.

By a resolve passed May 1, 1778, gratuities were to be paid to all three-year men in the Continental Army who could bring certificates that they were in camp before August 15, 1777. Each non-commissioned officer and private was to receive $100.

Under a call of April 12, 1777, a regiment was raised in Worcester, Middlesex, Bristol, and Barnstable Counties to serve in Rhode Island from May 5 to July 5, 1777. This regiment was commanded by Josiah Whitney and was stationed at North Kingston. Oakham furnished six men for the regiment, who were placed in the company of Captain Hodges: Corporal James Boyd, Privates James Forbes, Robert Forbes, John Kenny, Timothy Shaw (for Thomas White), and Nahum Whipple. John Kenny and Nahum Whipple have no credit on the town records. Robert Forbes's name is found on the town records only.

The muster rolls show that Samuel Bullard and Nehemiah Packard served at the Northward in Captain Hodges' company, from July 27 to August 29, and the town records give credit to Ebenezer Nye for fifteen days in April, on an alarm at Williamstown.

On an alarm at Providence, Captain Crawford marched July 23, 1777, with forty-five men, including officers. The following names are found on the muster roll of Captain Crawford's company in this campaign:

Captain, John Crawford.

Lieutenant, Alexander Bothwell, 3d.

Sergeants, Aaron Crawford and William Crawford.

Corporals, William Bothwell, John Forbes, Benjamin Foster, and Samuel Stone.

Privates, Jacob Adams, Jesse Allen, James Banks, William Banks, Heman Bassett, Abraham Bell, James Bell, John Bell, Silas Bellows, Alexander Bothwell, 2d, John Bothwell, James Boyd, John Brown, Nathaniel Bullard [Bolton], Samuel Bullard, Isaac Bullard, Joseph Chaddock, Thomas Chaddock, James Dunbar, Nathan Edson, Charles Forbes, James Forbes, George Harper, John Harper, Robert Harper, James Hunter, Abraham Joslyn, Nehemiah Packard, Rufus Parmenter, Edward Partridge, 2d, Ebenezer Rice, Jonas Rich, Benjamin Spooner, William Stevenson, Joshua Turner, William Washburn, and Ebenezer Woodis.

John Boyd also has credit on the town records for this campaign, and James Bothwell went, at the same time, in Captain Whipple's New Braintree company.

On arriving at Worcester, the company received orders to return to Oakham.

The exposed position of Rhode Island caused the passage of a resolve, June 24, 1777, for one thousand five hundred men to serve till January 10, 1778. The names of twenty-four Oakham soldiers are found on the roll of Captain Ralph Earl's company of Colonel Danforth Keyes's regiment: Lieutenant Isaiah Parmenter, Sergeant John Forbes, Corporal John Hill, Privates Nathan Adams, Jacob Ames, James Ames, William Banks, William Black, James Boyd, Isaac Bullard, Archibald Forbes, Charles Forbes, James Forbes, Bartholomew Green, Robert Hair, Zaccheus Hall, Jr., Benjamin Harper, Joseph Harper, Daniel Henderson, John Moore, George Rich, Jonas Rich, Samuel Stone and James Upham. Joel Hayden served in Captain Joseph Sibley's company of the same regiment.

William Bothwell, John Boyd and George Harper also have credit on the town records for this service.

On an alarm at Bennington, August 20, 1777, Captain Crawford marched with thirty-one men, including officers. The following names are on the muster roll:

Captain, John Crawford.

Lieutenant, Alexander Bothwell, 3d.

Sergeants, William Crawford and Samuel Metcalf.

Corporal, Benj. Foster.

Isaac Stone also has credit for this service on the town records.

On arriving at Hadley, news was received of the retreat of the British from Bennington, and the company was ordered to return home. On the town records this is called the campaign to Hadley.

James Blair, James Bell, and Nehemiah Packard received from the town £8 each, and Eleazer Spooner £2 10s. for a campaign to Bennington and Half Moon, in 1777, in Colonel Job Cushing's regiment, but the names of Bell and Spooner are on the town records only. The first three marched July 30, and all served till September 2.

The critical position of the American forces after the capture of Ticonderoga by General Burgoyne caused a resolve, August 9, 1777, directing that one-sixth of all the able-bodied men not in the service should march without delay to reinforce the army at the Northward and continue in service till November 30, unless sooner discharged. Captain Crawford set out September 7 in command of a company of forty men from Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree, and joined Colonel Job Cushing's regiment. The Oakham quota consisted of Sergeant Samuel Metcalf, Corporals James Bothwell and Benjamin Foster, Privates Alexander Bothwell, 2d, Asa Briggs, Nathan Edson, Jonathan Glazier, John Harper, Daniel Parmenter, and William Washburn.

On September 24 Lieutenant Alexander Bothwell, 3d, marched to join General Gates at the Northward, with Sergeants Asa French and Alexander Wilson, Corporals James Blair and James Hunter, Privates Jesse Allen, John Bothwell, Silas Bullard, Aaron Crawford, Robert Forbes, William Green, Nehemiah Packard, and Thomas White, in a company raised in Western (Warren) and Oakham, commanded by Captain Joseph Cutler of Warren. Nehemiah Packard's name is on the town records only. Ebenezer Nye and Silas Nye served in this campaign for Oakham, from September 26 to October 18, in the company of Captain Benjamin Nye.

The army of General Gates was greatly strengthened by the troops sent from New England and New York, and after two unsuccessful battles (September 19 and October 7) Burgoyne was forced to surrender on the 17th of October. Active hostilities after this time were mostly in the Middle and Southern colonies. A part of General Burgoyne's surrendered troops were quartered in barracks at Rutland.

During the next three years several men, in some cases, those too old or too young to be liable for service in the field, were sent by the town to serve as guards.

At Rutland: Alexander Bothwell, 2d, and John Crawford, Jr., in 1778, 1779, and 1780, Jacob Kubler, Marshall Walker, Archibald Forbes in 1778, James Black, Francis Maynard, Ebenezer Foster in 1779, George Caswell, Alexander Crawford, Jonathan Forbes, Thomas Gill, Samuel Hunt, in 1780, Daniel Deland, one year, beginning January 10, 1781.

At Brookfield: James Blair and James Brown, to guard stores, in 1778.

At Castle and Governor's Island: John Crawford, Jr., and Alexander Crawford, 2d, for a term of six weeks in 1779.

At Boston, Cambridge, Charlestown and Winter Hill: Sergeant Nehemiah Allen, Jr., from November 12, 1777, to April 5, 1778. Seven other men were sent April 1, 1778: Jacob Adams, William Crawford, Asa Partridge, Silas Partridge, Jacob Kubler, John Butler, William Stevenson. Jacob Adams was hired September 21, 1778, by James Brown and William Bothwell for further service, and probably continued at Boston till November. Nathaniel Weeks served from July 22 to December 14, 1778.

It was determined in June, 1778, to send the prisoners to the Southern states, and Corporal James Boyd, with Privates Jacob Adams, John Butler, John Crawford, Jr., Benson Dunbar, John Forbes, Robert Harper, Reuben McFarland, Samuel Metcalf, Ebenezer Nye, and Timothy Shaw were detailed by Captain Crawford to form a part of the one thousand men who were detached from the militia to serve as guards on the march in November to Enfield, Connecticut.

On the 20th of April a resolve was passed to raise two thousand men to serve in the Continental Army for nine months from the time of their arrival at Fishkill. Four men were called for, but as the town had not received the credit due for the men who had already enlisted, only three were sent: Caleb Church, Thomas Darling, and Loved Lincoln. The last was hired by the four Bells.*

Bowman Chaddock, James Shaw, and William Smith also served in the Continental Army nine months, from July 10, 1779, to April 7, 1780. Chaddock and Shaw were in Captain Wadsworth's company of Colonel Gamaliel Bradford's regiment.

The prospect of an attack on Rhode Island led to a call June 16, 1778, for five hundred and fifty-four men to be forwarded without delay to the headquarters of General Sullivan and to serve till the force previously ordered should be available, but the term was not to exceed twenty-one days. The names of Lieutenant Alexander Bothwell, 3d, Privates Alexander Bothwell, 2d, Benjamin Harper, Joseph Harper, Marshall Walker, and Robert Wilson are found on the rolls of Captain Gilbert's company of Colonel Josiah Whitney's regiment in this campaign. The names of Jesse Allen, Jonathan Bullard, Jr., Reuben McFarland, Benjamin Perkins and Eleazer Spooner are on the town records for six weeks' service in Rhode Island, but do not appear on the muster rolls. Stephen Lincoln was sent to Rhode Island to serve for six months from August, 1778. June 29, 1779, Benjamin Dunbar and James Dunbar enlisted for six months in Captain Fisher's company, Colonel Nathan Tyler's regiment, for a campaign in Rhode Island. James Blair served as Sergeant in Captain Gilbert's company of Colonel Whitney's regiment, from August 2 to September 13, 1780.

Jacob Adams, John Butler, Ebenezer Nye, John Boyd, George Harper, Asa Partridge, David Shaw, and Thomas White enlisted October 14, 1779, to serve three months at Claverack-on-the-Hudson, in response to an urgent call from the Commander-in-Chief for two thousand men to reinforce the army there. The last five received £13 each mileage money and £30 as bounty, and were attached to Captain Joseph Richardson's company in Colonel Samuel Denny's regiment.

June 5, 1780, a resolve was passed to raise three thousand nine hundred and sixty-four men to serve in the Continental Army for six months from the time of their arrival at the place of rendezvous. In response to this call, the town sent ten men: Elias Bolton, Archibald Forbes, Thomas Gill, Benjamin Harper, John Harper, Joseph Harper, John Hitchcock, Leavitt Perkins, Jonas Rich, and Joseph F. Thompson.

There was a call during the same month for nine militiamen for three months' service at West Point. The men raised to meet this call were: Corporals James Boyd and William Washburn, Privates Sheers Berry, Apollos Bolton, John Crawford, Jr., Josiah S. Nye, James Shaw, James Shaw, Jr., and a recruit hired by Nehemiah Allen, whose name appears to be Ignatos Adams. They were enlisted July 5, and discharged October 10, and were in Captain Timothy Paige's company of Colonel John Rand's regiment.

December 2, 1780, another resolve was passed to raise four thousand two hundred and forty men for the Continental Army, for three years or during the war. The town offered a bounty of three hundred silver dollars to each man who should enlist in this campaign. The amount paid in bounties was to be credited to the town on the next State tax. The citizens were divided into seven "classes," and each class was obliged to secure one man. The men engaged were: Benjamin Harper, Thomas Gill, George Perkins, George Walls, James Bigelow, Leavitt Perkins and Jonas Rich, the last hired by Joseph Chaddock.

Ebenezer Whitman enlisted August 18, 1781, for a term of five months in Rhode Island but was discharged November 17. He was in Captain Joseph Elliot's company of Colonel William Turner's regiment.

June 30, 1781, a call was issued for two thousand seven hundred militiamen for three months, for temporary reinforcement of the Continental Army at West Point. Four men were called for from Oakham, and Nehemiah Allen, Jr., James Boyd, James Forbes and Robert Harper were sent. All marched August 27, 1781, joined Colonel Luke Drury's regiment at West Point September 3, and were discharged December 3, 1781.

Cornwallis surrendered his whole army of seven thousand men at Yorktown October 19, 1781, and no further soldiers were called for from this town.

The town not only paid large bounties to its Continental soldiers, but in some cases guaranteed their wages. It was required also to provide them with clothing and to supply their families with provisions while they were in the service. During the last years of the war it was called upon to furnish the Continental Army with beef, and also with horses. The money for all these expenses was secured without borrowing from any person out of town. Some of the money raised for the benefit of the Continental soldiers was paid back by the State. In 1786 the town was able to settle a minister, and after advancing him nearly enough on his settlement to pay for a farm, it was soon out of debt and had money in the treasury. We cannot praise too highly the wisdom of the men who managed the financial affairs of the town during this long period of hardship and disaster.

The following citizens held the important town offices during the nine years 1775-1783, inclusive:

SOLDIERS IN THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

Jacob Adams.

Served in five campaigns: (1) on the alarm at Rhode Island, July 23, 1777; (2) in the defence of Boston beginning April 1, 1778; (3) further service in the defence of Boston, in 1778, for which he was hired by James Brown and William Bothwell; (4) fifteen days with the company that guarded Burgoyne's troops on their march from Rutland to Enfield, Conn., in 1778; (5) three months at Claverack in 1779.

Jacob Adams had a farm of eighty-five acres, fifteen of which were on East Hill, above the Clampherd Meadow, and south of the farm of Joseph Osborn. His wife was named Lydia. He had children, but no record of them has been found. February 15, 1805, he gave up to John Glazier a warrantee deed of his farm, the said Glazier agreeing "to maintain and support him and his wife during their natural lives, to provide for them a comfortable house on the premises, and a sufficient supply of firewood cut fit for the fire and brought into the house, and to provide and deliver to them eleven bushels of Indian meal and five bushels of rye meal, eleven score of good pork yearly, and to keep one cow summer and winter for their use, and to care for them both in health and sickness." He resided in Oakham till his death November 27, 1809. His widow died June 20, 1811.

Nathan Adams.

Enlisted from Oakham, July 10, 1777, in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Keyes's Regt., for the term of six months, and was discharged January 4, 1778, service, five months, twenty-five days.

Nathan Adams was the son of Nathan Adams of Medway, and, March 3, 1774, received from his father one hundred acres in the southeasterly corner of Barre and in the southwesterly part of Hubbardston. He had already purchased, September 7, 1770, "from John Hucker" (Hooker) of Rutland, for £60, eighty acres in Barre, in Great Farm No. 7. A part of his land was just across the Rutland line and not far from the Craige farms.

Jesse Allen.

Born in Bridgewater in 1744, son of James Allen, grandson of Nathaniel Allen, and great-grandson of Samuel Allen, of Braintree.

He marched in Capt. John Crawford's Co., Col. James Converse's Regt., (1) on the alarm at Rhode Island, July 23, 1777, and (2) on the alarm at Bennington, August 20, 1777. He enlisted also, September 24, 1777, in Capt. Joseph Cutler's company of volunteers and marched to join General Gates at the Northward, service twenty-four days. In addition he has credit on the town records for six weeks in Rhode Island, in 1778.

Jesse Allen came to Oakham from Bridgewater in 1770, and purchased the farm owned by the late Lewis N. Haskell. He was seventeen times Assessor, twenty-two times Moderator, nineteen times Selectman, ten times Treasurer of the Town, seven times a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety; was Deacon of the Congregational Church from its origin in 1773 till his death, a period of forty-three years; was member of the Massachusetts Legislature in 1805, and Justice of the Peace from 1802 till his death, April 11, 1816.

Jesse Allen was married to Abigail, daughter of Dr. Stoughton Willis, in 1768. Children, all born in Oakham: Olive, October 26, 1770, died April 11, 1805; Parnal, November 7, 1772, married Timothy Nye of Oakham; Lucinda, December 25, 1774; Hannah, February 7, 1777, married in 1805, Capt. ### Nehemiah Allen, Jr.

Born in Middleboro, March 12, 1765, son of Captain Nehemiah and Abigail (Thomas) Allen. The father, Captain Nehemiah Allen, was brother of Deacon Jesse Allen and was born in Bridgewater, December 10, 1733; removed to Middleboro before 1758 and remained there till April, 1778, when he came to Oakham and purchased from William Banks the farm in Lot No. 32, on which he lived till his death, December 28, 1799. Before coming to Oakham in 1778 he had served in the Revolution as captain of the Third Company of the Fourth Plymouth County Regiment, being in the field for four months, in the fall and early winter of both the years 1776 and 1777, on campaigns in Rhode Island. He later received credit on his assessment for taxes in Oakham for this Middleboro service. He served the town as Moderator in 1783 and as Selectman in 1787.

Children, the first five born at Middleboro: Lois, April 10, 1759; Mary, September 22, 1760; Abiah, February 24, 1763; Nehemiah, Jr. (see above); Susanna, May 2, 1767; Bathshebe, July 16, 1769; Jedediah, January 28, 1774; Washington, February 16, 1776.

Nehemiah Allen, Jr., served from August 27, 1781, to November 7, 1781, in Captain Cutler's Company at West Point.

He removed to Pawlet, Vermont, after 1790 and lived alternately there and in Granville, N. Y. He was in Rochester, N. Y., when the present site of that city was offered him for one shilling per acre. He died in 1852, aged 87.

In 1787 he was married to Moley Bothwell, who died in 1841, aged 73. Children: Lucy, born in 1796; Jane, born in 1800.

Jacob Ames.

Enlisted soon after the Battle of Bunker Hill, with other Oakham men, for a term of eight months, in Capt. Hazeltine's (5th) Co., Col. Fellows' (8th) Regt., and served at Roxbury. He reënlisted August 10, 1777, in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Danforth Keyes's Regt., for service in Rhode Island, from which he was discharged January 4, 1778.

Jacob Ames was probably nephew of James Ames.

Oakham T. R., i, 165. M. S. R., i, 218 (5), v, 141 (13) [Eames].

James Ames.

Served in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Keyes's Regt., from August 27, 1777, to January 4, 1778, four months and eight days, in a campaign at Providence.

He was by trade a blacksmith. In 1770 he purchased of George Harper, for £337 6s. 8d., one hundred and forty-nine acres, one hundred and forty rods, lying on both sides of the county road leading from New Braintree to Worcester, and extending from the College Lot on the east beyond the town road on the west; also a pew in the meeting-house "betwixt the east door and women's stairs." The farm was later owned by Governor Levi Lincoln and was a part of his "Oakham farm." James Ames kept an inn here from 1776, and perhaps earlier, to 1783. He was Selectman of Oakham in 1780 and 1781, and member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775.

December 8, 1761 he married Elizabeth Hall. Five of their children were born in Oakham: Hannah, February 16, 1771; Abner Craft, May 31, 1773; James, February 22, 1775; Lucy, December 3, 1777; Elizabeth, June 5, 1779.

William Banks.

Enlisted as Private in Capt. Ralph Earll's company to serve at Providence from July 2, 1777, to January 4, 1778. Before joining the company, he marched, July 23, 1777, on the Rhode Island alarm, and August 20, 1777, on the Bennington alarm. He has credit also on the town records for five months' service in New York.

William Banks was one of the first ten settlers of Oakham. In 1756 he purchased from Robert McMains, his father-in-law, for £200, seventy-three acres, being one-half of three-sevenths of Lot No. 32. He lived with his father-in-law in a house on this lot and purchased more land during the next twenty years. In 1778 he sold one hundred and eighty acres to Nehemiah Allen. He was Assessor in 1764, Warden in 1764, and six times Selectman.

He was married to Azubah, daughter of Robert McMains, June 7, 1750. Children, all born in Oakham: James, September 19, 1751, O. S.; Mary, September 28, 1756, O. S.; William, February 29, 1760; Elizabeth, December 13, 1761; Sarah, February 27, 1766; Noble, October 26, 1767; Ann, September 9, 1771.

The Bell Family.

James Bell was born in Belegaley, in the county of Tyrone and kingdom of Ireland, in the year 1706. At an early age he came to America and settled in Rutland, from which place he removed to Oakham in 1749, being one of the first ten settlers. In 1745 he purchased for £160, one hundred acres in Lot No. 30, on which he and his descendants lived for more than a hundred years. He was Warden in 1762, Assessor in 1764, and Selectman in 1760 and 1764.

May 24, 1733, he was married to Martha Crawford (born 1706), eldest daughter of Aaron and Agnes (Wilson) Crawford. Their children were seven sons and four daughters.

James Bell died March 25, 1793, in the eighty-eighth year of his age. His wife died September 20, 1795, at the age of eighty-nine.

Joseph Berry.

Born in Rutland, December 29, 1752, son of Sheers and Esther (Woodward) Berry.

Joseph Berry was one of the Oakham minutemen in Capt. Crawford's company who marched on the Lexington alarm. April 27, while still at Roxbury, he reënlisted in Capt. Hazeltine's company of men raised in the towns of Hardwick, New Braintree, and Oakham, for the siege of Boston, and was entitled to a bounty coat or its equivalent in money, as is shown by a statement dated at Hardwick November 2, 1775. On March 11, 1777, he enlisted for a term of three years in the Continental Army, in the same regiment and company with his father. He was claimed by Rutland, the place of his birth; but a committee for settling disputes between towns as to soldiers claimed by them, sitting at Barre, June 25, 1778, credited him to Oakham. He was reported sick in hospital in July, 1779, but returned to duty the following month. He was discharged March 11, 1780.

He was married August 5, 1782, to Sarah Powers.

Sheers Berry.

Enlisted for a campaign of two months at Roxbury in the early part of 1776, and receipted for ammunition to Capt. Barnabas Sears, on February 15. March 11, 1777, he enlisted in the Continental Army for the term of three years, in Capt. Abel Holden's Co., Col. Nixon's Regt. After his discharge from the Continental Army, he reënlisted on July 5, 1780, for a three months' campaign at West Point, from which he was discharged October 10, 1780.

Sheers Berry's name appears on the Rutland town records in 1750, when he was chosen Field Driver. His wife joined the church in Rutland, March 8, 1752. In 1759, he enlisted, at the age of thirty-three, "in his Majesty's service within the Province of Massachusetts Bay in the Regiment whereof Tim<sup>o</sup> Ruggles, Esq., is Colonel, for the invasion of Canada."

He came from Rutland to Oakham in 1765, and was "warned out" by the Selectmen, not because they had anything against him, but on account of their unpleasant experience with the Widow Gordon, who became a town pauper after having lived in Oakham a very short time. For many years he lived on the farm owned by the late James S. Foster.

He was married in Rutland, June 15, 1750, to Esther Woodward of Holden, and had eight children, the first five born in Rutland: Eunice, June 22, 1751; Joseph, December 29, 1752; Ephraim, November 25, 1754; Esther, December 5, 1757; Lydia, September 8, 1760; John, April 4, 1772; Woodward, September 2, 1774; Benjamin, baptized August 17, 1777.

Sheers Berry was living in Oakham in 1790, but died before October 8, 1800, when his wife is called "Widow Esther Berry" in the Spy.

George Black.

Was Sergeant in Capt. Crawford's company of minutemen who marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775. On May 1, 1775, he reënlisted for eight months in Capt. Simeon Hazeltine's company, which served at Roxbury. He was appointed Lieutenant in that company, and received his commission June 7, 1775.

He was on the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1776.

May 19, 1774, he married Bethiah Allen, daughter of James Allen, of Bridgewater, and sister of Deacon Jesse Allen, of Oakham. Mrs. Bethiah Allen Black died April 19, 1836, aged eighty-six years. Her daughter, Bethiah Black, died September 29, 1873. Lieut. George Black lived on the farm owned by the late Reuben Dean.

William Black.

Marched with Capt. John Crawford's company of minutemen on the Lexington alarm, April 19, 1775, and was one of those who, before the minutemen were discharged, reënlisted in Capt. Hazeltine's company, on April 27, for a term of eight months, and was entitled to a bounty coat or its equivalent in money. July 2, 1777, he reënlisted in Capt. Ralph Earll's company and served six months at Providence. In 1779 he enlisted in the Continental Army for three years for the town of Northfield, giving his residence as Oakham.

Oakham T. R., i, 165. M. S. R., ii, 100 (10), 138 (2), (3), (6) [Blake].

James Blair.

Son of James Blair, who was born in Scotland, went at the age of five with his parents to Ireland, and two years later came to America. The father was a coachman and married an English girl named Pepper. Three sons, James, Asa, and Joseph, served in the War of the Revolution. Asa died as a result of wounds received in the battle of White Plains.

James Blair served as Private for a term of two months at Roxbury under Capt. Barnabas Sears, and again in a campaign to Bennington and Half Moon in August, 1777. He was Corporal in Capt. Joseph Cutler's company of volunteers, which marched to join General Gates at the Northward, September 24, 1777. On July 9, 1778, he was sent to guard stores at Brookfield. In 1780 he served as Sergeant in Col. Whitney's Regt. in Rhode Island.

April 16, 1776, he purchased of Benjamin Joslyn, for £293, one hundred and ten acres on the road leading from George Black's to Silas Frost's in New Braintree; this was the Charles Keith place. Mr. Blair was one of the early signers of the church covenant, but was not in town in 1773 when the Congregational Church was organized.

He married Sarah Joslyn of New Braintree, April 26, 1770. Children: Lucy, born June 24, 1771; Sally, born November 27, 1772; Katey, born November 18, 1774; Joseph, born April 10, 1777; Asa, born May 13, 1780; James, born November 4, 1782; Polly, born December 10, 1784; Hosea, born August 3, 1787.

November 22, 1793, Sally Blair married George Black, 2d, and in 1800 was living in Wardsboro, Vt. George Black, 2d, died November 24, 1810, at Watervliet, N. Y. His widow, Sally Blair Black, died October 23, 1863, near Castle Creek, N. Y.

After the death of his first wife, James Blair married, December 23, 1799, Annie Hagar, widow of Isaac Hagar, and removed to the Wilbur place, which had been given her by her father, Capt. Jonathan Bullard.

Nathaniel Bolton, Jr.

Probably son of Nathaniel and Deborah (Washburn) Bolton of Bridgewater, who were married March 24, 1740.

He marched with Capt. Crawford July 23, 1777, on the Rhode Island alarm.

Nathaniel Bolton was a school-teacher and a local poet. At least three of his poems were printed. In the Massachusetts Spy of April 8, 1779, was the announcement:

"On Saturday next will be published, and to be sold at the Printing-Office, A Poem on the Surrender of Gen. Burgoyne &c, composed by Nathaniel Bolton of Oakham, the week after that glorious conquest obtained by Gen. Gates."

Some verses written by him on the "Death of Dr. Spencer Field" are preserved in the Fobes Memorial Library, and "A Poem on Infidelity," Greenwich, 1808, is in the Boston Public Library. An acrostic (MS.) on the Death of Mrs. Hannah Foster is in the possession of Miss Laura G. Burt. Mr. Bolton lived on the county road from Rutland to Brookfield, about a half mile south of Ware Corner.

He married Jane, daughter of Thomas and Jane (Washburn) Thompson of Bridgewater, in 1777. She was born in Bridgewater, in 1749, and died in Oakham, May 8, 1814. Only one son, Oliver, lived to grow up.

Alexander Bothwell, 2d.

Son of Alexander Bothwell, who with his wife was among those who had been communicants in Ireland and who in 1729, "producing letters testimonial and consenting to church covenant, were admitted to full communion" with the church in Rutland.

Alexander Bothwell, 2d, served in six campaigns: (1) on the alarm at Rhode Island, July 23, 1777; (2) in Capt. Crawford's Co., September 7 to November 29, 1777, at Stillwater, in the army that captured General Burgoyne; (3) in the company that guarded Burgoyne's troops at Rutland from March 30 to July 2, 1778; (4) in Col. Whitney's Regt. from July 30 to September 13, 1778; (5) as guard at Rutland in the summer of 1779; (6) again as guard at Rutland, April 20 to December 20, 1780. He was Corporal in the Stillwater campaign.

He was one of the first ten settlers of Oakham, and in 1748 purchased from Jonas Clark of Boston, for "Five Pounds in Bills of Credit of ye Last Emission," seven hundred and four acres, as follows: the whole of Lot No. 20, seventy-nine acres in Lot X, and four triangular pieces of land called gores, lettered P, Q, R, S. He built a house at what is now Rice Corner, and kept an inn here from 1758, when his name first appears on the list of licensed innholders.

Alexander Bothwell, 2d, was Precinct Moderator in 1760, and Selectman of the Precinct in 1759 and 1762. He was the father of eight children, the first four born in Rutland: Rachel, August 8, 1742; Alexander, 3d, January 7, 1744; Mary, March 8, 1746, married in March, 1787, to Nehemiah Allen, Jr.; William, May 19, 1748; Prudence, July 20, 1750, married July 8, 1790, to Valentine Bullard; John, May 14, 1752; Sarah, October 15, 1755; James, September 1, 1758.

Alexander Bothwell, 3d.

Born in Rutland, January 7, 1744, eldest son of Alexander Bothwell, 2d, who was one of the first ten settlers of Oakham.

He marched as Second Lieutenant in Capt. John Crawford's company of minutemen on April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm. When the 4th Worcester County Regiment was organized in Brookfield, May 14, 1776, he was chosen First Lieutenant in the 8th Company, under the command of Capt. John Crawford, and received his commission May 31, 1776. He served as Lieutenant in Capt. Crawford's company on the alarm at Rhode Island, July 23, 1777; on the alarm at Bennington, August 20, 1777; also in Capt. Joseph Cutler's company of volunteers which marched to join General Gates at the Northward, September 24, 1777, and in Capt. Daniel Gilbert's Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's Regt., from July 30 to September 13, 1778, at Rhode Island.

Little is known of his family. His wife's name was Mary. He lived in Oakham till his death, which occurred in 1813.

John Bothwell.

Born in Oakham, May 14, 1752, third son of Alexander Bothwell, 2d.

He was one of the Oakham minutemen who marched with Capt. Crawford on the alarm of April 19, 1775. In the following year he served three months in New York. He was a member of Capt. Crawford's company which marched in 1777 on the Rhode Island and Bennington alarms, and of Capt. Cutler's company of volunteers sent September 24, 1777, to join General Gates at the Northward.

John Bothwell lived on the present Bothwell farm. In 1778 he purchased of Thomas Mann the grist mill on the Five Mile River, which has since remained in the possession of the Bothwell family.

He married Rebecca McFarland, daughter of Alexander McFarland, one of the first ten settlers of Oakham. Children, born in Oakham: Susannah, July 8, 1773; John, Jr., September 25, 1775; Rebecka, May 23, 1780; Lucretia, October 1, 1784; Reuben, April 9, 1788; Cheney, October 17, 1790.

Cheney Bothwell married (1) Electa Rockwood of New Braintree in 1810. After her death, January 14, 1825, he married (2) Charlotte Rockwood. He was the father of Sylvander Bothwell, who served in the 42d Mass. Inf. in the Civil War.

John Bothwell died in Oakham, January 12, 1814. His widow, Rebecca, died October 28, 1848, aged ninety-seven years.

James Boyd.

Served in seven campaigns. He enlisted (1) May 2, 1775, for eight months' service at Roxbury under Capt. Hazeltine; (2) May 5, 1777, for two months at Rhode Island under Capt. Hodges; (3) August 27, 1777, for four months under Capt. Earll; (4) July 5, 1780, for three months under Capt. Paige at West Point; (5) August 27, 1781, for service of three months at West Point under Capt. Cutler. He was also detailed (6) to go with the company which guarded Burgoyne's troops on their march from Rutland to Enfield, Conn., November 3, 1778; and (7) marched with Capt. Crawford on the Rhode Island alarm. In the second, fourth and sixth campaigns he served as Corporal.

He married Janet Bell in 1780, and had three sons, William, John, and Cheney, and four daughters, Mehetabel, Mary, Rebekah, and Lucretia, all born in Oakham.

Cheney was born in 1797, and married Susan Flint of Oakham. His son, Isaac M., born in Oakham, July 7, 1821, was the father of John Flint Boyd, a soldier in the Civil War.

Mrs. Janet Boyd was buried in the south part of the burying ground in the center of the town. The new meeting-house, which was erected in 1814, covered her grave, and this led her husband to lay out the Boyd cemetery, in which he and seven of his family were buried.

James Boyd died October 14, 1824, aged seventy-two years.

Jonathan Bullard.

Born in Watertown, March 29, 1727, son of Jonathan and Ruth (Harrington) Bullard and descendant in the fifth generation of George Bullard, who died in Watertown, January 14, 1688.

He was commissioned in 1771 First Lieutenant in the militia company of Oakham, of which James Craige, Jr., was Captain. In 1775 he had the title of Captain on the town records, and had no doubt by that time received his commission as Captain. He has credit on the town records for five months' service in the Revolutionary War, in New York in 1776.

About 1750 he removed from Weston to Rutland, where he was innholder. His house was near White Hall, and on the county road from Rutland to Brookfield. In 1757 he removed to Oakham and purchased from Thomas Allen of Dorchester, for £54, the northerly half of Lot No. 13, containing one hundred and forty-five acres, the farm which is still occupied by Henry Bullard and on which seven generations of Bullards have lived. He increased his landed estates till he became the largest landholder in Oakham, owning a tract extending from near the northern boundary of the town to the road which runs from the present village of Oakham to New Braintree. He built a house on his original purchase, set on high land and commanding a fine view toward the north and northwest. This house stood practically unchanged till 1865, when it was remodeled by his great-grandson, Avery Bullard.

Jonathan Bullard held all the important offices in the gift of his fellow-citizens. He was often Assessor, Collector, and Treasurer; served twenty-three times as Moderator and fourteen times as Selectman, having been chosen on the first Board elected after the incorporation of Oakham; was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775 and 1776; represented the town in the Great and General Court in 1787, 1788 and 1789; and was Delegate to the Provincial Congress which convened at Salem, October 7, 1774.

He was married to Anna Harrington in 1745. After her death in 1753, he was again married, May 22, 1755, to Lydia.

daughter of Ebenezer Foster of Rutland, and sister of Lieut. Ebenezer Foster, the well-known innholder of Oakham.

Children of Jonathan and Anna (Harrington) Bullard: Silas, born in Weston, May 24, 1746; Isaac, born in Weston, April 2, 1749; Sybilla, born in Rutland, November 3, 1750; Hannah, born in Rutland, February 3, 1752; Samuel, born in Rutland, November 20, 1753.

Children of Jonathan and Lydia (Foster) Bullard: Dorothy, born in Rutland, October 26, 1755; Ruth, born in Rutland, February 21, 1757; Jonathan, Jr., born in Oakham, December 24, 1758; Abigail, born in Oakham, March, 1761; Patty, born in Oakham in 1763; Phineas, born in Oakham in July, 1764, baptized August 14, 1764; Moses, baptized April 4, 1767; Valentine, born in Oakham in 1769; Ebenezer, baptized August 8, 1773; Hepsebeth, born in Oakham in 1776; Lydia, born in Oakham in 1778. There were two daughters, Anna and Sarah, the dates of whose birth are not now known. Anna married Col. Isaac Hagar in Waltham, April 26, 1770; her son, David Hagar, born October 14, 1781, was father of Mrs. Horace Wilbur.

Capt. Jonathan Bullard died in Oakham, November 26, 1796, aged seventy years. He was buried either on his own land or in the churchyard in the center of the town. His monument stands in Pine Grove Cemetery, but this was not laid out till 1812. On his monument are the following inscriptions. That of his widow was added several years after the stone dedicated to his memory was erected, and is cut mostly between the lines of the original inscription:

Jonathan Bullard, Jr.

Born in Oakham, December 24, 1758, the fourth son of Jonathan Bullard, and the eldest son of his second wife, Lydia Foster.

He marched with Capt. Crawford on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777, and has credit on the town records for six weeks in Rhode Island in response to the call of June 16, 1778.

Jonathan Bullard, Jr., was a farmer and lived in a house at the Fairbank place from 1791 till 1800. This farm belonged to his father till November, 1796, when the son purchased from his father seventy acres of the farm, with the buildings thereon. February 4, 1800, he sold this property to Artemas Howe. Sometime after 1800, he removed to Maine and lived for many years in the town of Turner, and later in Foxcroft.

He was married June 13, 1781, to Ruth Whittemore of Spencer, Mass., and had twelve children. The eldest was Jonathan, born in Oakham September 18, 1800, married October 3, 1824, to Nancy Bradford. He died June 4, 1879, in Foxcroft, Maine.

The other children were: Isaac, Hepsebeth, Ruth (died young), Asa, Ebenezer, Ruth, Nathan, Joseph, Marshall, Lucy, Sally.

Jonathan Bullard, father of the above children, died in Foxcroft, Maine, December 28, 1854, aged ninety-six years.

Silas Bullard.

Born in Weston, May 24, 1746, eldest child of Jonathan and Anna (Harrington) Bullard.

He was Corporal of the Oakham company of minutemen which marched April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm; served two months in 1776 with Lieut. Asa French at Tarrytown, N. Y., in Col. James Converse's Regt.; marched with Capt. Crawford on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777; and with Lieut. Alexander Bothwell, 3d, September 25, 1777, to join General Gates at the Northward.

He was a farmer and large landholder. He built the original house, and owned the farm where the late Sanford H. Bullard lived and which is still in possession of his descendants. He subscribed £1 10s. toward building the house of Mr. Tomlinson in 1786, to be paid in brick, probably of his own manufacture. He was Selectman of Oakham for twelve years, and Treasurer of the town eight years.

Silas Bullard was married, April 4, 1770, to Mary Furness, daughter of Benjamin and Sarah Furness, who came to Oakham from Lynn in 1765. Children, all born in Oakham: Bettey, June 7, 1771; Benjamin, March 16, 1773; Alpha, March 22, 1775, Ruth, December 5, 1777; Adin, October 11, 1779; William, January 3, 1782; Moley, May 9, 1784; Silas, Jr., April 15, 1787; Editha, June 11, 1789; Melissa, June 11, 1792; Calvin, September 26, 1794; Joel, October 7, 1796.

Two great-grandsons of Silas Bullard, Sergeant George A. Bullard and his brother Silas, were soldiers in Co. E, 4th Michigan Cavalry, and shared in the capture of Jefferson Davis and his party on May 10, 1865, near Irwinsville, Ga., Sergeant Bullard being the second, and Silas being among the first six that entered his camp.

Silas Bullard died February 9, 1826, aged seventy-nine. His wife, born in 1751, died February 1, 1821.

Alexander Crawford, 2d.

Born February 12, 1765, second son of Capt. John and Rachel (Henderson) Crawford.

He enlisted October 3, 1779, and served till November 10, 1779, in Capt. William Henry's company of guards at Castle and Governor's Island. When he enlisted, he gave his age as eighteen years, but he was less than fifteen. He was the youngest of the three generations of Crawfords that served in the war for independence.

Alexander Crawford lived at the Thresher place, and was a gunsmith by trade. When David Ames, of the firm of Ames and Fobes, merchants in Oakham, was appointed by President Washington the first superintendent of the Springfield armory, he took with him Alexander Crawford, who made the first gunlock and shared with Richard Beebe the honor of stocking the first gun made by the United States.

He married, (1) June 26, 1788, Bethiah Willis, daughter of Jonathan Willis and granddaughter of Dr. Stoughton Willis; (2) September 6, 1813, his cousin, Mary Henderson of Oakham, granddaughter of Lieut. James Henderson of Rutland. Children, all born in Oakham: Salmon, July 23, 1789; Lucinda, March 12, 1791; Susan, March 2, 1793, grandmother of the five Macomers (John, George, Henry, William, and James) who served in the Civil War; Ruth, March 31, 1796; Vashti, August 8, 1798; Benjamin Franklin, August 10, 1800; Hosea Willis, August 25, 1802, father of the three Crawfords (Henry, John G., and Charles S.) who served in the Civil War; Galen Allen, November 17, 1804, father of Alfred Galen, who served in the Civil War; Mary Packard, November 5, 1807; Emeline Maria, September 30, 1814, mother of Gardner M. Dean, who served in the Civil War; Anson Alexander, January 17, 1817; William Amory, October 7, 1820.

John Crawford.

Born January 7, 1739, in Rutland, second son of Alexander and Elizabeth Crawford. He came to Oakham with his father in 1750.

John Crawford was Captain of the Oakham company of minutemen which marched from Oakham April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm. At the organization of the 4th Worcester County Regiment at Brookfield, May 14, 1776, he was chosen Captain of the 8th (Oakham) Company, and received his commission May 31, 1776. As Captain of the Oakham company, he had general charge of the military affairs of the town, and enlisted or selected by lot the men to go on the several campaigns. He marched at the head of detachments of his company on July 23, 1777, when he was ordered to Providence on an alarm; and on August 20, 1777, when ordered to reinforce General Stark at Bennington. From September 7, 1777, till the end of November, he was in command of a company of forty men raised in Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree to reinforce the army of General Gates, and had an active part in the engagements that resulted in the capture of General Burgoyne. October 15, 1779, Capt. Crawford and Lieuts. Bothwell and French, who had been in office more than three years and had each been engaged in several campaigns, asked the town to be relieved from further service. This request the town at first granted, but at a meeting held October 25, they were persuaded to continue in office, and they all served till the close of the war.

Capt. Crawford was a farmer, and spent all his active life on the farm owned by the late Deacon Horace W. Lincoln. He purchased this farm from his father, Alexander Crawford, in 1759, for £100. It was the southerly part of Lot No. 21 and contained two hundred and four acres. Capt. Crawford was Warden of the district of Oakham in 1767, Selectman of the town in 1775 and 1781, and a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1777.

He was three times married:

(1) February 9, 1759, to Rachel Henderson, daughter of Lieut. James Henderson, who held a commission in the colonial militia and had served in the French and Indian wars. Rachel Henderson was born July 1, 1739; died April 24, 1773.

(2) In 1773, to Phebe Green, born March 28, 1744, daughter of John and Dorothy Green of Brookfield.

(3) To Mary (Ford) Perkins, widow of Zephaniah Perkins, who was killed in battle, September 15, 1777. She died April 2, 1829, aged eighty-four years.

Children, all born in Oakham: Elizabeth, March 14, 1760; John, Jr., May 2, 1762; Alexander, 2d, February 12, 1765; Sarah, July 14, 1767; Samuel, August 9, 1768; Calvin, October 18, 1770; Rachel, April 2, 1773; Josiah, April 25, 1774; Polly and Patty, December 31, 1778; Lucy, December 30, 1780; Hannah, August 16, 1782, grandmother of Henry P. Wright who served in the Civil War; Eliakim, August 16, 1784; Nancy, March 10, 1786.

Capt. John Crawford died October 16, 1824, in the eighty-sixth year of his age.

Eleven of his descendants who were born or brought up in Oakham served in the Civil War: Henry W. Crawford, John G. Crawford, Charles S. Crawford, Alfred G. Crawford, John Macomber, George B. Macomber, Henry I. Macomber, William Macomber, James Macomber, Gardner M. Dean, Henry P. Wright.

John Crawford, Jr.

Born May 2, 1762, eldest son of Capt. John and Rachel (Henderson) Crawford.

He enlisted March 30, 1778, when under sixteen years of age, in Capt. Thomas Whipple's company for guarding General Burgoyne's troops at Rutland, and served till July 2. He was one of the men detached from General Warner's brigade, November 3, 1778, to guard troops of the Saratoga Convention from Rutland to Enfield, Conn. October 3, 1779, he enlisted in Capt. William Henry's company, raised in Worcester County, for service at Castle and Governor's Island, from which he was discharged November 10, 1779. From December 6, 1779, till April 22, 1780, he served in Capt. Ephraim Hartwell's company of guards at Rutland. July 7, 1780, he enlisted for a term of three months at West Point; age 18, stature 5 feet 10, complexion light.

John Crawford, Jr., was a school-teacher. Before 1790 he went to New York State, where he continued in his profession till his death in 1797.

William Crawford.

Born in Rutland, October 23, 1745, fifth son of Alexander and Elizabeth Crawford.

William Crawford marched as Sergeant of the Oakham company when it responded to the alarm of July 23, 1777, from Rhode Island, and also as Sergeant on the alarm of August 20, 1777, from Bennington. He has also credit on the town records for a campaign to Boston, beginning April 1, 1778.

He was a clockmaker by trade. A large number of clocks of his manufacture are still preserved in different parts of New England, and the most of these will be good time keepers a hundred years hence. He was Town Clerk of Oakham for twenty-one years, and Selectman fourteen years. He was the father of General William Crawford of the Massachusetts militia, who served as Captain in the War of 1812, and of Alexander Crawford, Chairman of the Selectmen of Oakham during the period of the Civil War.

In 1773 he married Mary Henderson, second daughter of Lieut. James Henderson and sister of the first wife of Capt. John Crawford. Children, all born in Oakham: Elizabeth, February 10, 1774; James, August 11, 1775; Lucy, February 7, 1778; William, February 25, 1780, died March 30, 1781; Sarah, January 30, 1782, died February 1, 1798; William, Jr., October 5, 1783; Rufus, November 13, 1785; Molly, October 6, 1787; Isabel, February 24, 1790; Alexander, April 16, 1792; Harriot, March 10, 1795, died March 19, 1795.

William Crawford died June 30, 1833, aged eighty-seven years.

Samuel Davis.

Born in Rutland, January 15, 1751, son of Simon and Hannah (Snow) Davis, and grandson of Lieut. Simon Davis, who with his wife, Dorothy (Heath), came from Concord to Rutland about 1720. Samuel Davis was uncle to John Davis, who was four times elected Governor of Massachusetts, and three times elected United States Senator.

He has credit on the town records for three months' service in New York in 1776.

Samuel Davis removed to Oakham from Paxton about 1773. He was one of the signers of the petition for a church in Congregational form, and was chosen Deacon in 1793 to succeed Deacon Fitts, who died December 9, 1792. He was chosen Selectman of Oakham in 1783, and was on the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1778.

His first wife's name was Katherine. Children: Ezra, born in Paxton, September 5, 1773; Lucretia, born April 2, 1778; Barak, born June 13, 1780; Nancy, born June 24, 1782; Adin, born March 25, 1784; Caty, born February 25, 1786; Polly, born August 11, 1788. His wife Katherine died December 1, 1794, and he was again married in the early part of 1796 to Mary, daughter of Joseph Osborn, who died May 19, 1834, aged eighty years.

Deacon Davis died July 12, 1817, at the age of sixty-six.

Daniel Deland.

Born May 10, 1736, son of Paul Deland, who removed from Newbury to Brookfield between 1725 and 1740.

Daniel Deland was one of the minutemen who marched with Capt. Crawford on the alarm of April 19, 1775. On May 22, 1775, he reenlisted in Capt. Hazeltine's company for a term of eight months at Roxbury and was enrolled as Fifer. In 1776 he served at Ticonderoga in Col. Asa Whitcomb's Regt. He enlisted in March, 1777, for a term of three years in the Continental Army, and was in Capt. Holden's Co., Col. Nixon's Regt. Reported invalided March 7, 1778, and transferred to Lieut. Osgood Carleton's company of invalids stationed at Boston. Beginning January 10, 1781, he served one year as guard at Rutland.

He was twice married: (1) in 1757 to Elisabeth Hatfield; (2) in 1780 to Elizabeth Anderson of Rutland.

Moses Doty.

Enlisted for the town of Oakham at Brookfield, September 15, 1777, for three years in the Continental Army; residence, Oakham. He was in Capt. Daniel Shay's Co., Col. Rufus Putnam's Regt., and was Fife Major. He was also claimed by the town of Hardwick, and it is uncertain to which town he was credited.

M. S. R., iv, 894 (6).

Benjamin Dunbar.

Born in 1749 in Bridgewater, son of James and Hannah (Benson) Dunbar.

He was engaged by Capt. Crawford for the town of Oakham, June 28, 1779, for a term of six months in Rhode Island, in Capt. Thomas Fisher's Co., Col. Nathan Tyler's Regt.; discharged December 17, 1779.

Benjamin Dunbar purchased on May 8, 1778, from James Dunbar, fifty-seven acres in Lot No. 21. In 1773, he was married to Wealthy Washburn, of Middleboro.

Benson Dunbar.

Born in Bridgewater in 1757. He was son of James Dunbar, who was born in 1721, and married, January 22, 1745, Hannah, daughter of John Benson. After her death he was again married in 1757 to Martha Packard. Mr. James Dunbar died in 1778.

Benson Dunbar was Drummer in the New Braintree company which served for a term of eight months at Roxbury, with Capt. John Grainger, beginning May 1, 1775. He failed to return a gun received by him at this time, which belonged to the town of New Braintree, and his wages were withheld till July 1, when Capt. Grainger gave him a certificate that the gun had been returned. He was one of the eleven men in the Oakham company detailed by Capt. Crawford in 1778 for fifteen days' service in the regiment which guarded Burgoyne's captured troops on the march from Rutland to Enfield, Conn.

Benson Dunbar purchased of James Dunbar, May 29, 1779, a house and sixty acres of land in Lot No. 21. He married Rebecka Darling in 1781. Children, born in Oakham: Ruth, July 27, 1782; Marcy, October 9, 1785; Benson, Jr., November 26, 1787; Benjamin, March 1, 1790; Orpah, October 26, 1793; Roxie, February 14, 1799.

George Dunn.

Enlisted May 10, 1775, for the term of eight months in Capt. Seth Washburn's Co., Col. Jonathan Ward's Regt.

He was a cordwainer. In 1761 he bought, for £48 6s., of Alexander Bothwell, eighty acres, ninety rods, "the gore of land that joynes southerly on Spencer line, bounded by the County Road and Five Mile River," the farm now owned and occupied by Herbert Dwelly.

January 31, 1754, he was married to Rachel Harper, daughter of William Harper. Children, born in Oakham: William Harper; Alexander, September 19, 1761; Rachel, March 14, 1763.

William Harper Dunn.

Son of George and Rachel (Harper) Dunn, and named for his grandfather, William Harper, one of the first ten settlers of Oakham.

William Harper Dunn was a Private in the company of minutemen who marched from Oakham, April 19, 1775, on the Lexington alarm. He reënlisted while still in service, on April 27, 1775, for eight months at Roxbury in Capt. Hazeltine's company. In 1777 he enlisted for a term of three years in the Continental Army, and joined Capt. Goodale's Co., Col. Putnam's Regt.

William Harper dictated in his will, dated September 7, 1774: "A three year old colt, and my saddle, I give and bequeath to my grandson William Dunn, also my gun."

Joseph Dwelly.

Engaged March 3, 1781, for a term of three years in the Continental Army for the town of Worcester; occupation farmer, age 17, stature 5 feet 8, complexion light. He was in the company of Capt. Mason Wattles in the 6th Mass. Regt., then commanded by Col. Calvin Smith.

In 1818 he was living in West Boylston, Mass., from which place he removed to Oakham and purchased, May 27, 1822, of John Glazier, the house in the southerly part of Oakham in which William Parmenter was then living, and with it fifty-eight acres of land. September 5, 1831, he bought of David F. Tenney, for $200, a piece of land containing fifty rods, with the buildings thereon, where he lived for the remainder of his life. This was the first residence south of the East Hill schoolhouse.

Joseph Dwelly was probably son of Joseph and Mary Dwelly. He was married in West Boylston May 25, 1815, to Triphosa Parmenter of Oakham. Children: Mary, born August 17, 1816; William, born December 8, 1818; Thomas Miles, born July 12, 1822; Joseph Benjamin, born December 21, 1833.

Mr. Dwelly was a Revolutionary pensioner. He died in Oakham, April 27, 1839, aged seventy-five years.

Joseph Eager.

Marched with Capt. Crawford in response to the Lexington alarm on April 19, 1775. While still in service as a minuteman, he reënlisted April 27, 1775, in Capt. Hazeltine's Co., Col. Fellows' Regt., and was made Corporal. On October 7, 1775, he was reported sick at Marlboro. He was entitled to a bounty coat or its equivalent in money, as by order dated Dorchester, November 27, 1775.

In 1776 Joseph Eager sold forty acres, being the southeasterly part of Lot No. 16, to Robert Forbes. This land was west of land owned by James Bell, Jr., and south of Edward Partridge, 2d's land.

His wife's name was Hannah. They had a daughter named Sarah Wood, born in Oakham, February 3, 1772. A Joseph Eager was living in Boylston in 1790.

Nathan Edson.

Came from Bridgewater. He was the eldest son of Ebenezer and Lucy (Packard) Edson, and was born in Bridgewater in 1753.

He was one of Capt. Crawford's company of minutemen that marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775. In the summer of 1776 he enlisted for two months' service with Lieut. Asa French, at Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown and North Castle. He also served in the Oakham company on the Providence alarm of July 23, 1777, and in the company raised in Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree for the Stillwater campaign of the same year.

In 1778 he married Susanna, daughter of Ephraim Allen, and went to Rehoboth.

Spencer Field.

Born in Northfield, Mass., September 26, 1754, son of Deacon Paul and Christian (Hubbard) Field, and descendant in the fifth generation of Zechariah Field who arrived in Boston in 1629, and settled in Dorchester.

On January 23, 1776, Spencer Field was chosen, by the House of Representatives with the concurrence of the Council, Surgeon's Mate in Col. Josiah Whitney's Regt. This was one of the six Worcester County regiments raised to serve before Boston till April 1, 1776.

Spencer Field studied medicine and practiced in Rutland and Oakham. He came to Oakham not later than 1778, and lived in a house on a private road leading from the Old Turnpike, a few rods east of the North Four Corners. This house was standing and in good repair in 1900. He was a celebrated physician, highly esteemed in this and neighboring towns. He was Town Clerk in 1778 and 1800, Moderator in 1786, served the town three times as Assessor and four times as Selectman, and was chosen Representative to the General Court in 1801.

September 28, 1776, he was married to Betsey, daughter of Dr. John Frink of Rutland. Children: John, born November 3, 1777; Betsey, baptized February 6, 1780; Isabella, baptized December 9, 1781.

John studied medicine with his father, married Rhoda Bowman of New Braintree, August 11, 1799, and removed to New Braintree some time after 1800, when he was Collector of Taxes in Oakham. He was drowned November 27, 1815, in Cedar Swamp [Demond's] Pond, Rutland.

Betsey married Rev. Daniel Beard, October 5, 1798. Among her descendants may be mentioned Rev. Augustus Field Beard, Corresponding Secretary of the American Missionary Association, and Member of the Corporation of Yale University; Dr. George Miller Beard, specialist in nervous diseases in New York City; and Rev. William Spencer Beard of Bridgeport, Conn.

Dr. Spencer Field died November 11, 1801, from injuries received in the early evening of October 5, on the road near where the house of the Misses Eunice and Louisa Ayres now stands. The road here ran then, for some distance, through a dense forest. While he was riding on horseback to visit a patient in the southwest part of the town, two men, returning from a muster in New Braintree and riding at great speed, ran against him and threw him from his horse upon a rock by the roadside. A monument was erected on the spot where the accident occurred, on which were these verses, written by Nathaniel Bolton:

STOP PASSENGERS
BEHOLD THIS FATAL ROCK.
HERE FROM THE WOUND
THE CRIMSON BLOOD DID FLOW
HERE DR. FIELD REC'D HIS FATAL SHOCK THAT HASTENED DEATH AND PROVED HIS OVERTHROW.

A poem on the Death of Dr. Field, written by Nathaniel Bolton, is preserved in the Fobes Memorial Library.

The Forbes Family.

Arthur Forbes came from Rutland and purchased in 1757, for £110 13s. 4d., two hundred and fifty acres, the whole of Lot No. 28. This was the lot in which the Perley Ayres farm was situated. The Forbes house was on the south side of the lot, at the corner where the Perley Ayres road joins the Bell road; the cellar hole is still to be seen. The name is spelled on the town records and on the muster rolls Forbes, Forbs, Forbus, Forbush, Furbush.

He was Treasurer of Oakham in 1762 and 1764, Collector in 1760, and Warden in 1765.

June 30, 1749, he was married to Ruth Lamond of Leicester. The following are names of eight children of Arthur Forbes, with the probable years of birth: John, 1750; Robert, 1751; Charles, 1753; Martha, 1754; Archibald, 1757; Margaret, 1758; Arthur, Jr., 1759; James, 1762.

Arthur Forbes died before 1773, when his wife was called the Widow Forbush. In 1773 guardians were appointed for his younger children.

Archibald Forbes.

Born in Oakham in 1757, fourth son of Arthur and Ruth (Lamond) Forbes.

He enlisted in Capt. Dexter's company, which was raised in Hardwick, New Braintree and Oakham and which went into camp at Roxbury May 19, 1775. He also served two months at Roxbury in the early part of 1776, and receipted February 16 for ammunition to Capt. Barnabas Sears. September 1, 1777, he enlisted in Capt. Earll's company for service at Providence, from which he was discharged January 4, 1778. Soon after his return from Rhode Island he was detailed, for a term of six months, as guard at Rutland. He enlisted also in the Continental Army in 1780 for a term of six months; age 24, stature 5 feet 10, complexion dark. He marched from Oakham July 6, 1780, and was discharged November 16, 1780.

In 1781 he married Sarah Moore. Children, born in Oakham: Archibald, Jr., May 7, 1782; William, February 29, 1784.

James Forbes.

Born in Oakham in 1762, sixth son of Arthur and Ruth (Lamond) Forbes.

In the summer of 1776, he enlisted for two months, at the age of fourteen, with Lieut. Asa French, at Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown and North Castle, and again May 5, 1777, for two months in Rhode Island, in Capt. Hodges's Co., Col. Whitney's Regt. July 2, 1777, he reënlisted for six months in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Keyes's Regt., and was discharged January 4, 1778. August 27, 1781, he enlisted for three months in the Continental Army, in Capt. Cutler's Co., Col. Luke Drury's Regt., at West Point; descriptive list; age 19, stature 5 feet 6, complexion dark. He was discharged December 3, 1781. James Forbes also marched on the Rhode Island alarm in 1777.

In 1773, after the death of his father, Ruth Forbes was appointed guardian of her son James, then eleven years of age.

James Forbes was married in New Braintree to Eleanor Brown of Oakham, September 12, 1782. Children, born in Oakham: Benjamin, February 15, 1783, married (1) Keziah Green of Barre in 1804, (2) Widow Huldah Prouty, January 31, 1821; Polly, February 11, 1785; Jonas, January 23, 1787; James, Jr., January 18, 1789, died October 16, 1846, aged fifty-eight; Lammond, September 1, 1790; Hannah, October 6, 1792; Jacob, April 4, 1794; Susey, February 26, 1796.

October 3, 1797, Eleanor Forbes was administratrix of the estate of James Forbes, late of Oakham, deceased. She had $12.09, so small a sum that the Judge of Probate said: "It would answer no valuable purpose if divided among the numerous creditors," and it was given to the widow to provide necessaries to support life. Mrs. Forbes died in Oakham in May, 1830.

Ebenezer Foster.

Born in 1733, in Salem, probably in the Middle Precinct, now South Danvers. He was son of Ebenezer and Lydia (Felton) Foster, and great-grandson of John Foster of Salem.

When the 4th Worcester County Regiment met for choice of officers at Brookfield, May 14, 1776, Lieut. Ebenezer Foster was recommended for Adjutant of the regiment. By official record of a ballot by the House of Representatives, June 5, 1776, he was chosen Adjutant. This action was concurred in by the Council the same day. His commission was dated June 4, 1776. The whole regiment was not at any time ordered into active service, but detachments from it were sent on the different campaigns, and the services of the field officers were indispensable in filling the quotas required of the several towns from which this regiment was made up.

He came with his father to Rutland in 1744; served as a soldier under Col. John Murray in the expedition to Crown Point in 1755; removed from Rutland to Oakham, and on March 26, 1756, purchased of Sheers Berry, for £85, one hundred acres, being the southern part of Lot No. 8. He was Moderator of the Precinct meetings in 1759 and 1761, and Moderator of the town meetings in 1780, 1781 and 1785, Clerk of the Precinct in 1759, and Selectman of the town for fifteen years. He kept the Foster tavern from 1761 or earlier to 1809. This was situated on the county road from Rutland to Hadley, later the Sixth Massachusetts Turnpike, at the place long occupied by David Nye and his son, William A. Nye.

Ebenezer Foster was married, December 1, 1757, to Hannah Parlin of Concord, who died February 22, 1808. Children, born in Oakham: Hannah, August 28, 1759, died March 9, 1761; Lydia, February 3, 1760; Joseph, March 25, 1762; Alpheus, May 23, 1764; Zadock, February 1, 1767; Ebenezer, August 12, 1769; William, March 8, 1774; Benjamin, August 14, 1776; Molly, January 4, 1779; Spencer, May 26, 1781.

William removed to New Braintree and later to New York State. His son Charles, who removed to Ohio, was father of Charles Foster, born near Tiffin, Ohio, April 12, 1828, Member of Congress from Ohio from 1870 to 1876, and Governor of Ohio from 1880 to 1884.

Ebenezer Foster died in New Braintree, March 19, 1811, aged seventy-nine years.

Asa French.

Born in Berkley, Mass., October 28, 1740, son of John French who died in Oakham, August 5, 1794, aged ninety-five years, and brother of John French, 2d, who married Hayden Shaw of Middleboro July 24, 1764, and came to Oakham after 1790. He served in the French and Indian War at Fort Henry in 1757 as a Private in Capt. Benjamin Pratt's Co., which was raised in Middleboro.

He was elected Second Lieutenant when the 4th Worcester County Regiment was organized at Brookfield, May 14, 1776; commission dated May 31, 1776. He was sent with ten men from the Oakham company in 1776, and served with them in Col. James Converse's regiment for two months at Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown and North Castle, N. Y. On account of the illness of Capt. How and Lieut. Packard, the command of the company devolved upon Lieut. French. In September, 1777, he served as Sergeant under Lieut. Alexander Bothwell, in Capt. Cutler's Co. at the Northward.

Asa French came to Oakham from Middleboro. September 6, 1768, he purchased of Jonathan Bullard, for £60, one hundred and forty-three acres in the northerly part of Lot No. 19, on which he lived till his death; this was the Charles Clark place. Mr. French taught in the schools of Oakham, and was Selectman of the town five years.

He was married (1) October 24, 1765, to Anne Smith of Middleboro, who died April 6, 1802; (2) in 1803, to Widow Thankful (Bangs) Thrasher of New Braintree, who died February 18, 1806; (3) in 1806, to Abigail Stone of Oakham, who died July 4, 1825, aged seventy-three years. Children: Samuel, born October 3, 1766, removed to Craftsbury, Vt., in 1795; Susannah, born February 22, 1769, married Samuel Brewer of Spencer; John, 3d, born December 16, 1771; Bathsheba, born February 17, 1774, married (1) Philo Sanford of Medway in 1835, (2) Daniel Moulton of Spencer; Asa, Jr., born March 17, 1777.

John French, 3d, son of Asa, married his cousin Betsy French, April 25, 1804. Children, born in Oakham: Ann, April 22, 1806; Erastus S., January 7, 1808; Mary, May 4, 1810; Anson H., August 6, 1813. He removed to North Brookfield in 1833.

Asa French, Jr., married Hannah Brimhall in 1801, and had four children, born at Oakham: Freman, June 5, 1805; Eliza, May 1, 1807; Cyrus, October 15, 1809, died August 12, 1844, at Brookfield; and one child, September 1, 1812, who died young.

Lieut. Asa French died in Oakham December 3, 1832, aged ninety-two years.

Robert Hair.

Robert Hair enlisted, on August 1, 1777, as a Private, age 15, in Capt. Ralph Earll's Co., Col. Danforth Keyes's Regt., for service in Rhode Island. A roll dated Camp Providence, September 1, and sworn to in Worcester County, gives him credit for one month's service. On November 21, the following advertisement appeared in the Massachusetts Spy:

"Deserted from my company in Col. Danforth Keyes regiment, Robert Hair, 15 yrs of age, 5 ft high, belonging to Oakham in the County of Worcester. Whoever shall take up said deserter and confine him in some Goal in the state or return him to his regiment shall have $5.00 reward and all necessary charges paid by me.

Ralph Earle, Capt.

Little Compton, Oct. 31, 1777."

That the young lad returned to the service, and did his best to live down his earlier reputation would seem to be established by a receipt dated at Springfield November 9, 1782, which states that Robert Hair had been accepted as a Continental Soldier for a term of three years from the town of Charlton.

M. S. R., vii, 41 (2), (3). Spy, Nov. 21, 1777.

Zaccheus Hall, Jr.

Enos Hudson.

Born in Oakham in 1759, the son of Joseph and Hepsibah Hudson. Joseph Hudson was a clothier who came from Rutland to Oakham in 1758, and bought of Joseph Craige four acres in what is now Coldbrook.

This piece of land was north of the county road, and between the Craige tavern and the Ware River bridge. He was Selectman of Oakham in 1770, 1775, 1776 and 1777, Assessor in 1762, 1763, 1765, 1770, 1772 and 1775, Moderator in 1764, Treasurer in 1783, and member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775 and 1776. His estate was settled in 1791, when he owned two hundred and twenty-seven acres of land, appraised at £336.

Enos Hudson was the best soldier furnished by the town of Oakham in the Revolution. He enlisted March 11, 1777, at the age of eighteen, for a term of three years in the 7th Mass. Regt., for service in the Continental Army. He was in the regiment commanded by Col. Alden and afterward by Col. Brooks. He was appointed Corporal. In March, 1779, he reënlisted, to serve during the war. He was engaged in the battles that resulted in the surrender of General Burgoyne in 1777, at Cherry Valley and Newtown in 1779, at Kingsbridge and in the battles around Yorktown that resulted in the surrender of Cornwallis in 1781. February 20, 1782, his descriptive list was taken: age 22, stature 6 feet, complexion dark, hair brown, occupation farmer, birthplace Oakham, residence Oakham.

February 7, 1783,<sup>9</sup> he was given leave by Col. Jackson to go from New Windsor to Worcester for forty days, to visit his home, and on March 3, while on furlough, his intention of marriage to Patie Brown was published in the Oakham meeting-house.

He was discharged June 8, 1783, by General Washington, the term of enlistment having expired. He was one of the men in Col. Brooks's regiment who were entitled to honorary badges for long and faithful service, having been in the Continental Army from March 11, 1777, to June 8, 1783. He received one honorary stripe.

After the war, he lived for about six years in Oakham. When Father Tomlinson was settled in 1786, he contributed one thousand feet of closing boards towards building his house.

On April 17, 1818, when he applied for a pension, he was living in Eaton, Madison Co., N. Y., and was fifty-nine years of age.

In 1820, his wife was sixty-seven years old, and there were two grandchildren, one eight years old and the other five.

Enos Hudson was married to Patie Brown in 1783, and had three children, two born in Oakham: Samuel Smead, March 23, 1784; Rebekah, March 16, 1788; and one in Rutland: Patience, May 20, 1790.

Silas Knight.

Born in Sudbury, May 5, 1757, son of Samuel and Anna (Eams) Knight.

He enlisted for the town of Sudbury June 28, 1776, and served till December 1, 1776, at Camp Hull and Castle Island. September 28, 1777, he again enlisted and served forty-one days with the Northern Army.

He came to Oakham about 1780 and lived in a house east of the Brimhall farm, on an old private road that ran in a northerly direction from the corner near the house of Isaac Stone, 2d. This road ran near a house on Bullard Hill, crossed the county road from Rutland to Hardwick near Phineas Bullard's and joined the Coldbrook road near the house of the late Capt. Sumner Barr. Silas Knight's house was burned in 1802. Deacon James Allen remembered going to this fire when he was ten years old.

He married Martha Goodenough, May 12, 1782. Children, born in Oakham: Silas, Jr., October 22, 1782; Mary, March 7, 1784; Perces, August 18, 1786; David, August 22, 1788; Pattie, January 26, 1790; Arathusa, November 29, 1791; Hiram, August 22, 1793; Ann, May 6, 1795; Prince, April 17, 1798; Benjamin Franklin, March 12, 1800; Thomas Jefferson, January 29, 1803.

Silas Knight died between July 30 and October 4, 1842. He was grandfather of Charles S. Knight and great-grandfather of James A. Knight, both of whom served in the Civil War in the 42d Massachusetts Infantry.

Loved Lincoln.

Born August 26, 1758, in Rehoboth, son of Nathaniel, Jr., and Elizabeth (Robinson) Lincoln, and brother of Stephen Lincoln.

He enlisted May 1, 1775, as a Private in Capt. Grainger's Co., Col. Ebenezer Learned's Regt. In May, 1778, he was enlisted by Capt. Crawford for the Continental Army for the term of nine months, agreeably to the resolve of April 20, 1778; age 19, stature 6 feet, complexion dark. It is stated on the town records that he was "hired by the four Bells." He was assigned to Capt. Cavenagh's company in the detachment under Major Weeks, and was later transferred to Capt. Jones' company of Col. Lamb's New York Artillery. He was probably an artillery driver. In his application for a pension, he stated that he "was at Terra Town when that place was attacked, and retreated to White Plain September 12, 1778."

Loved Lincoln came to New Braintree with his father in 1759. Sometime after the close of the war, he settled in Lewiston, Maine. He was twice married: (1) to a young woman in New Braintree, who died January 19, 1805; (2) to Betsey, daughter of Jonathan Hodgkin of Lewiston, who was born in 1774. Children: Charlotte, married a Mr. Thompson, died August 7, 1812; Nathaniel, lived in Bath, Me.; Cyrus; Betsey, born 1797; Lurany; Sally; Levi; Rufus. Six other children died young.

Cyrus was a Lieutenant in the War of 1812, and was taken prisoner when on board the Growler in June, 1813, on the Sorrel River, near Lake Champlain. He was kept a prisoner at Quebec and Halifax until the close of the war. He lived in Bath, Maine, and had four children.

Loved Lincoln died in Lewiston April 9, 1850, aged ninety-two years.

Stephen Lincoln.

Born in Rehoboth, December 3, 1751, son of Nathaniel, Jr., and Elizabeth (Robinson) Lincoln. His mother was daughter of Increase, Jr., and Mehitabel (Williams) Robinson. His father, Nathaniel, Jr., was a descendant in the fifth generation of Thomas Lincoln, who came from England in 1635, settled in Hingham, and removed before 1650 to Taunton.

He has credit on the town records for six months' service in Rhode Island, beginning in August, 1778.

He came from Taunton to New Braintree in 1759, and removed a few years later to Oakham. He built a log house on Bogle Hill, in which his first two children were born. March 6, 1783, he purchased of the estate of Silas Hill, for £201, ninety-two acres, with house, barn, shoemaker's shop, bark house and tan yard, to which he added by subsequent purchase one hundred acres more. About 1800 he built the large house now belonging to Arthur and Francena Spooner. Here he lived till his death, March 16, 1840. He was chosen Chorister June 17, 1779, was Warden in 1784, and Selectman in 1791 and 1798.

April 29, 1779, he married Lydia Foster, daughter of Lieut. Ebenezer Foster. Children, born in Oakham: Abner, February 11, 1780; Hannah, September 25, 1781; Lydia, March 2, 1784; Lucy, October 23, 1786; Betsy, September 7, 1788; Levi, November 3, 1790; Stephen, Jr., November 29, 1792; Sally, May 19, 1795; Justus, May 20, 1797; Mary, December 17, 1799; Louisa, February 3, 1803. A full account of his ancestry and descendants was published by John E. Morris in 1895. At that time his descendants numbered nearly four hundred.

John Macomber.

Born May 18, 1760, in Taunton, Mass., son of John and Abigail (Padelford) Macomber, and descendant in the fifth generation of John Macomber who was in Taunton in 1643.

In the autumn of 1776, he was a private in Capt. Joshua Wilbore's Co., Col. Ebenezer Francis's Regt. He probably served from March 1 to May 1, 1778, at the Fort at Dartmouth, and also in the summer of 1780 in Rhode Island, in Capt. Barnabas Doty's Co., Lieut. Col. White's Regt. He is said to have been made deaf in the war.

John Macomber came from Taunton to Oakham before 1795, and removed from Oakham to Westford, Vt., not later than 1821, when he and his wife united with the Congregational Church in that place.

August 25, 1785, he was married to Mary, daughter of Calvin Dean. She was born March 23, 1767, and died at Westford, November 29, 1823. After her death he was again married, December 8, 1825, to Betsey Robinson. He was the father of twelve children, the first four born in Taunton, the others in Oakham: Calvin Dean, June 7, 1786, died in Oakham, October 30, 1829; Betsey, September 3, 1788; Mary, August 16, 1790, married Samuel Thresher, Jr., of New Braintree, March 14, 1815; Abigail G., June 17, 1792; Harriet, February 11, 1795, married (1) Harvey Fales, March 26, 1816, who died in Oakham, April 3, 1836, (2) Levi Howe of Shrewsbury, February 11, 1845; John Jarvis, November 11, 1786; Lydia, December 11, 1798, died September 11, 1815; Pliny, October 13, 1800, died December 11, 1815; Lewis, June 2, 1803, died May 25, 1825, at Millidgeville, Ga.; Philip, October 15, 1805, died December 13, 1813; Luther, December 13, 1808, married Eliza Crawford, April 11, 1833; Sumner, June 17, 1811.

John Jarvis was married, January 17, 1828, to Abigail, daughter of Jonathan and Susan (Crawford) Packard, and had thirteen children, five of whom were soldiers in the Civil War.

John Macomber, the Revolutionary soldier, died in Westford, Vt., October 11, 1841, at the age of eighty-one years.

Matthew McGilligan.

Was living in Oakham at the beginning of the war, and was probably in the employ of Deacon James Dean.

Matthew McGilligan was enlisted by James Dean in Capt. Samuel Dexter's company of men raised in Hardwick, New Braintree and Oakham for six months' service in the siege of Boston, and was in camp at Roxbury in January, 1776. March 11, 1777, he was again enlisted by James Dean in the Continental Army for three years, and was in Capt. Holden's Co., Col. Nixon's Regt., which served in the Northern Army and took part in the capture of General Burgoyne. April 1, 1781, he enlisted in the Continental Army for the town of Warren, for a term of three years. A descriptive list in 1781 gave his age 22, stature 5 feet 11, complexion light, occupation farmer.

Oakham T. R., i, 165. M. S. R., vi, 450 (13), 451 (1) [Gilligan], x, 492 (8) [McGillagen].

James McHerrin.

Private in Capt. John Crawford's company of minutemen which marched on the Lexington alarm, April 19, 1775. While still in service as a minuteman, he reënlisted April 27, 1775, for eight months in Capt. Hazeltine's Co., Col. Fellows' Regt., and was made Corporal.

James McHerrin was married to Fanny, fifth daughter of William and Mary (Crawford) McCobb. Children, baptized in Rutland: Peggy, May 25, 1777; Elizabeth, August 5, 1781; Mary, April 27, 1783. He removed with his family to Vermont before 1790.

Samuel Metcalf.

Son of Ebenezer and Margaret Metcalf, born in Rutland in 1739.

He was Sergeant in Capt. Crawford's company of minutemen who marched on April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm. September 19, 1776, he enlisted for two months as Corporal with Lieut. Asa French at Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown and North Castle. He was also Sergeant in the detachment from the Oakham company that marched on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777, and in Capt. Crawford's company raised in Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree, that marched September 7, 1777, and was engaged in the battles that resulted in the surrender of Burgoyne. In 1778 he served again in the regiment that guarded Burgoyne's troops on their march from Rutland to Enfield, Conn.

Samuel Metcalf came from Rutland and bought in 1763 of Edmond Goodenough, for £70, ninety acres in the northerly part of Lot No. 2, with a dwelling-house thereon. This farm had been purchased by Mr. Goodenough of John Sollen in 1761, and was the farm on which David Fuller was living in 1870, when Beers' Worcester County Atlas was made.

He was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of the Congregational Church, and was on the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775.

He was married in Rutland, March 11, 1762, to Hannah Richardson, and had eleven children, all born in Oakham: Thomas, August 9, 1764; David, September 15, 1766; Ester, September 14, 1768; Samuel, October 18, 1770; John, December 30, 1772; Joseph, August 24, 1774; Jane, July 30, 1776; Elisabeth, March 14, 1779; Alpha, October 27, 1780; Hannah, June 15, 1782; Abigail, May 30, 1784.

Ebenezer Nye.

Born in Barnstable, Mass., February 2, 1739, son of Caleb and Hannah (Bodfish) Nye, who were married October 28, 1731. Hannah Bodfish was daughter of Benjamin and Lydia (Crocker) Bodfish. She was born in Barnstable, February 12, 1712, and died March 7, 1779. Caleb Nye was born in Sandwich, Mass., June 28, 1704, the son of Nathan Nye, and grandson of Benjamin Nye, of Sandwich. In 1736 Caleb Nye removed to Barnstable, and in 1756 to Hardwick, Mass. His will was written in Hardwick December 13, 1775, and proved June 5, 1787.

Ebenezer Nye enlisted for the town of Barre, April 20, 1775, in Capt. John Black's Co., Col. Jonathan Brewer's Regt., and was made Corporal. He was in the battle of Bunker Hill, and received compensation for a bayonet and belt lost in the battle. He went also for the town of Barre in Capt. Benjamin Nye's Co. on the Bennington alarm, August 21, 1777, and again in the same company, on September 26, sent to reinforce the Northern Army. He served for the town of Oakham in Capt. Jotham Houghton's Co., Col. Samuel Denny's Regt., from October 24 to December 1, 1779, at Claverack, and has credit on the Oakham town records for fifteen days in April, 1777, on an alarm at Williamstown. His name is on the roll of Capt. Newell's Co. for fifteen days' service, on the march to Enfield, Conn., November 3 to November 18, 1778.

Ebenezer Nye came from Barre, and bought in 1778 of John Moore, for £700, two hundred and five acres with buildings thereon, still known as the Crocker Nye farm. He was Selectman of Oakham for nine years, and was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1779.

Deacon Jesse Allen bought at the auction of Timothy Nye's property the gun which Ebenezer Nye carried in the Revolution. It was with the barrel of this gun used as a retort that Rev. David Burt made some of his chemical experiments when he taught the Oakham High School. The explosion of an ancient charge of powder left in the gun from flintlock days somewhat lessened the enthusiasm of the students for that kind of laboratory practice. The gun is now in the possession of William A. Nye.

Ebenezer Nye was married, July 8, 1759, to Meletiah Sturges of Hyannis, who was born in 1740 and died in March, 1826. Children:

Josiah Sturges, a soldier in the Revolutionary Army.

Temperance, who married Jonathan Richardson of Barre, November 12, 1778.

Lucretia, who married Alpheus Stone in 1781.

Marcy, who married Bowman Chaddock, September 5, 1782.

Timothy, baptized June 5, 1768, married November 25, 1790, to Parnal, daughter of Deacon Jesse Allen.

Meletiah, baptized July 8, 1770, married November 29, 1792, to Rev. Calvin Chaddock, Dartmouth, 1786.

Crocker, born July 4, 1772, married May 23, 1799, to Dulcinia, daughter of Major Artemas Howe. He was the father of David H. Nye and the grandfather of William A. Nye.

Achsa, called in her father's will the youngest daughter, baptized August 28, 1774, married Eli Haskell of Middleboro November 1, 1797.

Salmon, born in 1778, who was graduated from Dartmouth in 1803, studied law in Barnstable, Mass., was admitted to the Common Pleas Court in Barnstable in 1809, and to the Supreme Judicial Court in Plymouth in October, 1812. He was County Attorney for Barnstable County from 1811 to 1813. He went South in 1818 and died in 1823 in North Carolina.

John, born in 1780, who was graduated from Dartmouth in 1801, in the class with Daniel Webster, studied law in Providence and practiced in New Bedford, Mass., where he died in 1826.

Ebenezer Nye died in Oakham in 1793.

Silas Nye.

Born in Barnstable in 1744, son of Caleb and Hannah (Bodfish) Nye, and brother of Ebenezer Nye.

Silas Nye enlisted for the town of Barre, April 20, 1775, in Capt. John Black's Co., and was in the battle of Bunker Hill. He received compensation for a coat lost in that battle. He went also, for the town of Barre, on the Bennington alarm, August 21, 1777. From September 26 to October 18, 1777, he served for the town of Oakham in Capt. Benjamin Nye's Co., which marched to reinforce the Northern Army.

November 27, 1766, he was married in Hardwick to Patience, daughter of Nathan and Patience Carpenter. She was born April 14, 1744. Children: Sarah, born January 13, 1768; Hannah, born November 22, 1769; Nathan, born January 5, 1772; Caleb, born July 5, 1774; Prudence, born September, 1776; Silas, born December 1, 1780; Amos, born July 31, 1784, died April 9, 1789.

At the close of the war, Silas Nye removed to Salem, Washington County, N. Y., and in 1791 to Pittsford, Monroe Co., N. Y., where he died. In 1796, 1797, and 1799, he served on the Board of Supervisors of Monroe County.

William O'Brien.

William O'Brien was a British soldier who had served in the 9th Regiment under General Burgoyne, and was taken prisoner at Saratoga in October, 1777. He had either escaped or been paroled from the prison barracks at Rutland and, in the fall of 1778, he and George Perkins, a member of the 33d Regiment, came to Oakham, where they found employment as nail-makers with Thomas Mann. They were accepted as citizens and married. When the Council at Boston, on October 12, 1779, ordered that all escaped or paroled prisoners should be returned, he and Perkins petitioned the Massachusetts Legislature to be allowed to remain, and, on December 20, 1779, were given liberty to reside in the state during the Court's pleasure.

January 11, 1781, he enlisted in the Continental Army for the town of Paxton, for three years, under Resolve of December 2, 1780; age 28, stature 5 feet 6, complexion dark, occupation nail-maker. He was first in Col. Benjamin Tupper's (10th) Regt., and later in Capt. Matthew Chamber's Co., Lieut. Col. Calvin Smith's (6th) Regt.

William Oliver.

Joined Capt. Holden's Co., Col. Nixon's Regt., for a term of three years in the Continental Army. He enlisted for the town of Oakham, March 11, 1777, and was in camp near Peekskill, February 16, 1779. In May, 1779, he was reported with the Paymaster General, and on July 1, 1779, was appointed A. D. P. General. An order on Capt. Heywood, payable to Phineas Heywood, dated Shrewsbury, June 7, 1779, was signed by said Oliver, for $100 gratuity, which had been granted by the General Court in May, 1778.

William Oliver was a school-teacher, and taught in the northeast and southwest plots in Oakham before his enlistment. His wife, Sarah Oliver, received aid from the town while her husband was in the army.

Oakham T. R., i, 171, 199, 207. M. S. R., xi, 646 (4).

Joseph Osborn, Jr.

Baptized in Hopkinton, March 23, 1755, second child and eldest son of Joseph and Jennett (Hodge) Osborn, who were married December 31, 1751. His father, Joseph Osborn, was son of John and Jenat Osborn, and was born in Hopkinton, September 27, 1722. He had eight children, all born in Hopkinton.

Joseph Osborn, the father, came to Oakham in 1770, and October 18, purchased of James Craige, Jr., for £88 6s. 8d. one hundred and thirty acres in Lot AA. This land was above Clampherd Meadow (now Walter Dean's reservoir) and his house was near the residence of Jacob Adams. He died March 22, 1800, aged seventy-seven years.

Joseph Osborn, Jr., was a soldier, perhaps the Joseph Orsborn "listed for Quebeck" in Capt. Agrippa Well's Co., Col. Asa Whitcomb's Regt., but more likely the man enrolled as John Osburn in Capt. Joseph Thompson's Co. of Col. Thomas Nixon's Regt. who died at North Castle, September 21, 1776. On April 18, 1777, the town "Voted that Joseph Osburn's Campaign rate of £3-5-10 be allowed him for his son Joseph's Service in the war, who is now deceased."

Ichabod Packard.

Born in Bridgewater, August 1, 1738, son of George and Mary (Edson) Packard. George Packard was son of Nathaniel Packard, and a descendant on his mother's side of that branch of the Eliot family to which belonged John Eliot, "the Apostle of the Indians."

Ichabod Packard was a soldier in the French War. He was with General Winslow in 1755, when that officer was sent by Governor Shirley to Annapolis (Port Royal), Nova Scotia, to remove the Acadians, and served again under General Winslow in the following year at Fort William Henry.

He has credit on the town records for two months' service in New York in 1776. August 20, 1777, he marched with Capt. Crawford on the Bennington alarm.

He came to Oakham from Bridgewater in 1770 and purchased from Thomas Whipple of New Braintree, for £26 13s. 4d., a farm with the buildings thereon, in the northwest corner of Lot X, on the county road leading from Rutland to Brookfield (the Parley Packard farm). In 1777 he purchased of his brother-in-law, Jesse Allen, land in Lot No. 22, the farm lately owned by James Shearn, and on this place he lived till his death, November 23, 1813. He was admitted to the Presbyterian Church in Oakham on profession of faith, but was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of a church in Congregational form.

On May 3, 1757, he was married to Ruth Allen, sister of Jesse Allen, who came to Oakham with him in 1770. Children, born in Bridgewater: Nehemiah, October 27, 1760; Ichabod, Jr., May 27, 1763; Lydia, March 6, 1766; Isaac, February 9, 1769; born in Oakham: Caleb, February 7, 1771; James, 1775; Martha, 1782.

Nehemiah Packard.

Born in Bridgewater, October 27, 1760, son of Ichabod and Ruth (Allen) Packard.

Nehemiah Packard enlisted May 16, 1775, when fourteen years of age, in Capt. Simeon Hazeltine's Co., Col. Fellows' Regt., for eight months' service at Roxbury. He marched with the Oakham company on the Rhode Island alarm, July 23, 1777, and served in a campaign to Bennington and Half Moon under Capt. Edmund Hodges in Col. Job Cushing's Regt., from July 27 to August 29, 1777. He was also in Capt. Cutler's company, which was raised in Western (now Warren) and Oakham, and which marched September 24, 1777, with Lieut. Alexander Bothwell to join the army under General Gates.

In 1780 he married Lucy Nye of Barre. Children: Hannah, born May 14, 1780; Ruth, born October 26, 1783; Susanna, born November 7, 1785; Rebecca, born December 21, 1786; Nathan, born June 29, 1789; Sally, born April 27, 1792; Parley, born March 30, 1794.

Nehemiah Packard died in Oakham, January 24, 1830, aged sixty-nine years.

Daniel Parmenter.

Born in Sudbury, November 30, 1740, son of William and Mary (Pepper) Parmenter. His mother, Mary Pepper of Framingham, was married to William Parmenter September 25, 1740.

Daniel Parmenter was Sergeant in a company that served two months at Roxbury in the early part of 1776, and marched as Private on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777. September 7, 1777, he enlisted as Private in Capt. Crawford's company which was raised in Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree and sent to reinforce the army of General Gates at Saratoga.

He came from Sudbury to Oakham, and purchased in 1764 of James Craige, Jr., for £30, ninety-one and one-half acres in Lot No. 25 (the farm occupied one hundred years later by Orlando Russell), and thirty-two acres in Lot O. He was Selectman in 1781, 1792, and 1793, and was on the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1780.

September 20, 1764, he was married to Mary Knight, and had seven children, born in Oakham: Anne, February 18, 1767; Samuel, August 29, 1768; Daniel, Jr., February 27, 1771, died January 19, 1810; Mary, May 23, 1773; Tamer, August 8, 1775; William, March 29, 1778; Spencer, May 12, 1785.

Isaac Parmenter.

Born in Oakham, March 30, 1756, son of Solomon and Elizabeth (Craig) Parmenter.

He enlisted in the Continental Army, March 11, 1777, for three years in Capt. John Reed's Co., Col. Alden's Regt., and received £20 bounty from the town of Oakham. He was wounded in the action at Cobleskill, May 31, 1778, when the small American force under Captains Brown and Patrick were drawn into an ambushade by a large party of Indians under Brant. After five months in hospital at Schenectady, he rejoined his regiment. November 11, 1778, he was taken prisoner in the Indian raid at Cherry Valley. In his application for pension, dated April 20, 1818, he thus describes his service:

"Marched from Oakham to Peekskill, to Albany, to Fort Ann, and met Burgoyne. Marched to Saratoga, then to Albany. Next spring in command of Capt. Patrick at Cooniskill, there met the Indians of the enemy, was wounded and put in hospital at Skanantoda. After recovery, went to Cherry Valley, joined Alden's regiment, and there met Brant and Butler of the enemy, and the place was practically destroyed. Said Parmenter taken prisoner by Indians and kept eleven months and taken to Canada. Then given up to the British and kept by them thirteen months. Then exchanged with Col. Butler and a Miss Campbell of Cherry Valley."

He received by will from his father a farm of sixty-three acres, being the northeasterly part of Lot No. 8, situated between the homestead given to his brother, William Parmenter, and the farm of Ebenezer Foster.

October 4, 1781, he was married, in Hardwick, to Lydia Furness. In 1818 he was living at Cohocton, Steuben Co., N. Y. He died April 26, 1826.

Isaiah Parmenter.

Born in Sudbury, July 16, 1742, son of William and Mary (Pepper) Parmenter.

He was First Lieutenant in Capt. Crawford's company of minutemen who marched April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm; and Sergeant in Capt. Samuel Dexter's company, which was raised in Hardwick, New Braintree and Oakham for six months' service in the siege of Boston. This company formed part of Col. Ebenezer Learned's regiment, and went into camp at Roxbury, May 19, 1775. He served also, with rank of Ensign, in New York, in the latter part of 1776, and again as Lieutenant in Capt. Ralph Earll's Co., Col. Danforth Keyes's Regt., from June 27, 1777, till July 27, 1777, at Providence.

Isaiah Parmenter was Selectman of Oakham in 1778 and 1779, and was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1777. He was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of a Congregational Church in Oakham.

January 28, 1762, he was married in Sudbury to Lydia, daughter of Uriah and Hannah Hayden. Children: Thaddeus, born July 27, 1762; Winsor, born March 27, 1766.

Jacob Parmenter.

Son of Aaron and Jean (Craige) Parmenter, was born in Oakham, January 3, 1754.

He was one of the minutemen in Capt. Crawford's company that marched April 19, 1775, in response to the Lexington alarm. While still in service as a minuteman, he enlisted, April 27, in Capt. Hazeltine's Co., Col. Fellows' Regt., for a term of eight months at Roxbury. September 13, 1777, he enlisted as a Private in the Continental Army, residence Oakham. He appears to have been in Col. William R. Lee's regiment, when in 1780, at Morristown, this and three other Massachusetts regiments were incorporated into one regiment, under command of Col. Henry Jackson, agreeable to the arrangement of April 9, 1779. Said Jacob Parmenter appeared among men belonging to Col. Lee's regiment who had been discharged from the rolls prior to this agreement. He had been reported deserted September 6, 1778, his family living in Oakham. By the report of a committee for settling disputes between towns as to soldiers credited to them (year not given), said Parmenter of Oakham was allowed to Northfield. He has also credit on the Oakham town records for service at Ticonderoga in 1776 and 1777.

He was married to Ruth Bellows August 12, 1776.

James Parmenter.

Born in Oakham, July 3, 1760, son of Aaron and Jean (Craige) Parmenter.

He enlisted in the Continental Army March 11, 1777, for a term of three years, in Capt. Reed's Co., Col. Alden's, afterwards Col. Brooks's Regt., and received £20 bounty from the town of Oakham. He was in the battles of Saratoga that resulted in the defeat of General Burgoyne. In the massacre at Cherry Valley, November 11, 1778, he was taken prisoner by the Indians, and is supposed to have died in captivity.

Rufus Parmenter.

Born in Sudbury, July 4, 1752, eldest son of Samuel and Mary (Tower) Parmenter, who were married November 14, 1751.

He marched with Capt. Crawford's company on the Rhode Island alarm, July 23, 1777.

Rufus Parmenter lived in a small house at Lincolnville which was occupied by Stephen Lincoln, Jr., from 1834 to 1857. The jury-box still used by the town of Oakham was made by him.

In 1778 he was married to Hannah Mann of Paxton. Children, born in Oakham; Elijah, December 26, 1779, died of spotted fever, March 21, 1810; Edmund, March 26, 1782; Elisabeth Mann, October 21, 1784, died November 20, 1822; Luke, April 29, 1787, died September 17, 1787; Lucy, August 11, 1788; Ezra, April 30, 1792, died September 5, 1794.

Mr. Parmenter died in Oakham, February 16, 1814, aged sixty-one years.

Solomon Parmenter.

Born in Sudbury, September 14, 1721, son of Solomon and Deborah Parmenter.

He has credit on the town records for four months' service at Boston in 1776. As he was then fifty-five years old, he evidently sent for this campaign his son William, whose name appears on the pay roll of the company of Capt. Ezekiel Knowlton of Templeton, dated Dorchester, November 20, 1776. This was one of the eight companies raised "for the defence of Boston," in accordance with the Resolve of April 9, 1776.

Solomon Parmenter came from Sudbury at the time of the first settlement of Oakham and bought of James Craige in 1758 two hundred and fifty acres of land and two-fifths of the Craige saw-mill. He was Assessor in 1760, and a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1780.

May 10, 1748, he was married to Elizabeth, daughter of James and Rachel (Wallis) Craige. Children, born in Oakham: William, in 1752; Betty, in 1754; Lois, who married Timothy Underwood; Isaac, March 30, 1756; Lucy, who married Elijah Holt of Fitchburgh, April 17, 1781; Betty, October 24, 1761; Grace, August 17, 1763, married Richard Dean in 1788; Moley, March 24, 1769, married Amasa Maynard in 1793.

Betty Parmenter died March 29, 1761, aged seven years. Her grave is the only one in the old cemetery, on the hill south of Coldbrook, that is marked by a tombstone. This was the first lot set apart for a burial ground in Oakham.

Solomon Parmenter died in Oakham, December 19, 1789, aged sixty-nine years.

William Parmenter.

Born in Oakham in 1752, the eldest son of Solomon and Elizabeth (Craige) Parmenter.

He was sent by his father to serve for four months in 1776 as a Private in Capt. Ezekiel Knowlton's Co., Col. Dike's Regt., and was stationed at Dorchester Heights. Pay abstract for travel home (67 miles) was dated Dorchester, November 20, 1776. He also marched with Capt. Crawford on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777.

William Parmenter received by will from his father the homestead farm, including the whole of Lot No. 9, with all his tools, cattle, horses, and sheep; also one-half of the saw-mill standing near the said homestead.

In 1776 he was married to Jenney Boyd, probably a daughter of Samuel Boyd. A daughter, Mahittable, was born March 3, 1778. His wife Jenney died in Oakham, June 13, 1783, aged twenty-eight years, and he was again married to Kathrin Dean in 1783.

Mr. Parmenter died in Oakham, February 10, 1827, aged seventy-five years.

Asa Partridge.

Born May 23, 1736, in Medfield, son of Edward and Sarah (Jones) Partridge. Edward Partridge was grandson of William Partridge who settled in Medfield, where he died in 1692.

He was Sergeant in Capt Ezekiel Knowlton's Co., Col. Dike's Regt., which was at Dorchester Heights. Pay abstract for travel home, sixty-seven miles, was dated November 20, 1776. He served also from October 19, 1779, to November 23, 1779, at Claverack, as Private in Capt. Joseph Richardson's Co., Col. Samuel Denny's Regt. He has also credit on the town records for a campaign to Boston, beginning April 1, 1778.

He came to Oakham from New Braintree and bought at Public Vendue, June 23, 1767, for £78 19s. 7d., one hundred and seventy acres of land in Oakham, being the northerly part of Lot No. 26, belonging to Robert Wilson and sold for unpaid taxes.

Asa Partridge was Selectman of Oakham in 1778, and member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775. He was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of a church in Congregational form, and was chosen "Quorister" at a church meeting, October 26, 1775.

December 25, 1758, he married Rachel Banister of Brookfield. Children, the first four born in Brookfield and the last four in Oakham: Pamela, December 17, 1759; Katherin, January 16, 1762; Calista, October 7, 1763; Rachel, August 2, 1765; Mary, August 2, 1767, in New Braintree; Lurana, August 23, 1769; Asa, October 15, 1771; Frederick, December 5, 1773; Sarah, March 6, 1779. His wife was admitted to the Congregational Church in Oakham August 8, 1773, on letter from the Third Church in Brookfield.

Edward Partridge, 2d.

Born in Medfield, May 23, 1738, son of Edward and Sarah (Jones) Partridge, and brother of Asa and Silas Partridge.

He has credit on the town records for five months' service in New York, ending December 1, 1776, and marched July 23, 1777, with Capt. Crawford on the Rhode Island alarm.

Edward Partridge purchased of Jesse Allen, in 1772, the farm on which Charles H. Trowbridge now lives. He was one of the petitioners, June 23, 1773, for the organization of a church in Congregational form, and was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1780.

In 1770, he was married in Franklin to Hannah Legg, who was born March 11, 1749, and died in Oakham, April 25, 1832. Children, the first born in Franklin, the others in Oakham: Chloe, November 1, 1771; Bernard, November 1, 1773; Hannah, November 21, 1775; Elias, August 11, 1778; Adin, October 19, 1780; Olive, July 29, 1783; Edward, 3d, December 17, 1785; Reuben, January 31, 1788; John, March 10, 1790; Sarah, May 12, 1794.

Edward Partridge, 2d, died October 19, 1815, aged seventy-eight years.

Benjamin Perkins.

Born in Bridgewater, July 9, 1735, son of Solomon and Lydia (Sprague) Perkins, and great grandson of David Perkins who came from Beverly to Bridgewater before 1688. His brother, Solomon Perkins, served in 1755 in the French war, under General Winslow.

He has credit on the town records for six weeks' service in Rhode Island, beginning July 1, 1779.

In 1779 he purchased from Ichabod Packard, for £40, thirty-seven acres in the south part of Lot X, which Mr. Packard had purchased of Robert Harper. This was probably on the road that leads from Lover's Lane, near the old Bothwell mill.

July 28, 1761, he married Hepzibah Washburn of Middleboro. Benjamin Perkins, who was residing in Oakham in 1790, and Leavitt Perkins, were probably his sons.

His estate was settled in 1781. James Dean, Joseph Chad-dock and William Bothwell took inventory. Hepzibah, his widow, was administratrix. His small farm of thirty-seven acres was valued at £97 10s.

George Perkins.

George Perkins was a British soldier who had served in the 33d Regiment under General Burgoyne, and was taken prisoner at Saratoga in October, 1777. He had either escaped or obtained a pass to go at large from the prison barracks in Rutland, together with William O'Brien, a member of the 9th Regiment, and, in the fall of 1778, the two men came to Oakham, where they found employment as nail-makers with Thomas Mann. They were received as citizens and married. George Walls, probably a Hessian, who had also escaped or been paroled from Rutland, joined them later. The people of Oakham were glad to get skilled workmen and encouraged them, and others like them, to remain in town. At a meeting of the citizens on July 13, 1779, the following resolution was passed:

"Voted as the mind of the people at this adjournment that the assessors should strike out the last of the rates now in Mr. Green's and Mr. Brown's hand, the rates for the polls of George Walls and George Perkins, two [British] regulars."

On October 12, 1779, the Council at Boston, on the ground that the privileges allowed the prisoners were "big with mischief," gave a general order that all escaped or paroled prisoners should be returned to the Commissary of Prisoners. Perkins and O'Brien petitioned:

"That the said O'Brien & Perkins Deserted from sd Convention Troops about fourteen months since with a full design to become inhabitants of this Country & not to return to the British Troops any more, and have ever since laboured with the good People of this State in a peaceable manner in the usefull Business of nail making, having each of us been Rated & paid Taxes the year past—And that your humble Petitioners are very Desirous of being true and loyal Subjects of this State, of taking the Oath of Allegiance & fidelity, & of paying & doing our part for the support of the war & all other Taxes—Therefore pray Your Hon<sup>d</sup> to grant us the favours as above, and such protection as you Shall see meet, and that we may not be taken up or sent to the British troops to be punished for Appearing in the Cause of American Liberty, and as in Duty bound ask leave to pray.”

The Selectmen and Assessors of Oakham, and Thomas Mann, certified to the sincerity and industry of Perkins and O'Brien, and on December 20, 1779, the House of Representatives resolved:

“That the said George Perkins & William O'Brien, who have produced Certificates from the Select men of the Town where they reside, that they appear attach<sup>d</sup> to the Government of this state and bid fair to be usefull members of society, have liberty to reside in this State during the Courts pleasure.”

George Walls was probably included in the general order of December 21, 1779, welcoming to American citizenship, without formal action by the Legislature in individual cases, any person or persons who made a part of the German Troops of Burgoyne.

All three men later enlisted, in 1781, for a term of three years in the Continental Army under Resolve of December 2, 1780, Perkins and Walls from Oakham, and O'Brien from Paxton. Perkins enlisted January 20; age 22, stature 5 feet 11, complexion light, occupation blacksmith. He received from the town of Oakham a bounty of three hundred silver dollars, was assigned to Capt. Elnathan Haskell's Co., Col. William Shepard's Regt., was at York Hutts in December, 1781, and at Verplanck's Point in January, 1782.

Zephaniah Perkins.

Born in Bridgewater in 1742, son of David and Alice (Leach) Perkins, and grandson of David Perkins who came from Beverly and settled in Bridgewater before 1688, and who was the first Representative of Bridgewater in the General Court in Boston after the union of the two colonies in 1692. John Perkins, whose name appears on the Oakham Town Records, April 10, 1780, was probably his brother.

He enlisted May 16, 1775, for service of eight months at Roxbury, in Capt. Hazeltine's Co., Col. Fellows' Regt. He evidently reënlisted in the early part of 1776, as he was in camp at Dorchester February 15, 1776. March 11, 1777, he engaged for three years in the Continental Army, in Capt. Reed's Co., Col. Alden's Regt. He was killed September 15, 1777.

February 25, 1766, he married Mary Ford of Pembroke, probably the daughter of John and Mary (Cushing) Ford, who was baptized April 18, 1742. In December, 1777, his widow, Mary Perkins, was appointed administratrix of his estate, which consisted of a few acres of land and small buildings lying in Oakham, valued at £23. April 8, 1778, she was the wife of Capt. John Crawford, but the exact date of marriage is not recorded.

Elisha Pike.

Enlisted for the town of Oakham April 9, 1777, for three years in the Continental Army, and was in Capt. Daniel Shay's Co., Col. Rufus Putnam's Regt. He was in the service till April 2, 1780. His residence is given as Oakham and Hardwick, and it is uncertain to which town he was credited.

M. S. R., xii, 397 (1).

Asa Pope.

Enlisted for the town of Oakham, August 18, 1781, in Capt. Joseph Elliot's Co., Col. William Turner's Regt., and served three months and fourteen days at Rhode Island.

M. S. R., xii, 564 (9).

Ebenezer Rice.

Marched with the Oakham company on the Rhode Island alarm, July 23, 1777, and on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777.

M. S. R., xiii, 150 (9).

George Rich.

Enlisted September 1, 1777, with his father, Jonas Rich, as Private in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Keyes's Regt., for service in Rhode Island, from which he was discharged January 4, 1778.

He and his brother Jonas, by the will of their grandfather, John Rich, of Brookfield, were to inherit, after the death of their father and mother, thirty acres of the farm on which their father was living in 1767.

Jonas Rich.

Marched with Capt. Crawford July 23, 1777, on the Rhode Island alarm, and enlisted September 1, 1777, in Capt. Earll's Co., Col. Keyes's Regt., for service in Rhode Island, from which he was discharged January 4, 1778. Under the Resolve of January 5, 1780, he enlisted for six months in the Continental Army, and marched to camp July 12, 1780. Agreeable to the Resolve of December 2, 1780, he reënlisted January 1, 1781, in the Continental Army for three years in an artillery regiment; age 56, stature 5 feet 10, complexion light, occupation farmer; reported rheumatic and unfit for duty.

Jonas Rich came from Brookfield and lived on a farm of sixty acres, west of James Bell. The easterly half of this farm he purchased from his brother, John Rich, September 9, 1767, for £30. This he sold September 23, 1767, to William Smith of Barre for £10. This was probably the place where Samuel Tucker was living in 1850.

He was married in 1760 to Elizabeth Trask, and had two sons, Jonas and George.

Jonas Rich (probably the son) was living in Oakham in 1790.

The Stone Family.

Isaac Stone was born in Lexington, Mass., in 1731. In 1751 he removed from Lexington to Rutland, where he built the west part of the tavern and kept an inn for several years. In 1765 he removed from Rutland to Oakham, and on September 16 of that year purchased from Thomas Hubbard of Boston for £75 one hundred and seventy-five acres, one-half of Lot No. 12, now known as the Austin Adams farm. This deed, recorded October 21, 1765, was the first deed recorded of property said to be in Oakham instead of in Rutland West Wing. To this he added, on March 25, 1766, 128 acres in Lot No. 22, by purchase from John Murray.

Isaac Stone was one of the most prominent citizens of Oakham during the next thirty years. His name first appears on the town records March 4, 1766, when he was chosen Moderator, Town Clerk, Selectman, and Assessor. He served the town nine times as Moderator, thirteen times as Assessor, seven times as Town Clerk, and six times as Selectman. He was chosen unanimously to represent the town in the Provincial Congress at Cambridge in 1775, and was a prominent member of that body. Mr. Stone was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775, 1776 and 1777, and has credit on the town records for the Bennington alarm.

September 8, 1748 he was married to Martha Munroe of Weston, and had nine children: Abner, born in Lexington, December 11, 1748, O. S.; Pattee, born in Rutland, March 12, 1751, O. S., married Rev. John Strickland, the first minister of the church in Oakham, October 29, 1767; Isaac, 2d, born in Rutland, June 2, 1753, O. S.; Abigail, born in Rutland, May 20, 1755, married Heman Bassett in 1776; Alpheus, born in Rutland June 6, 1757; Luke, born in Rutland April 11, 1763, died June 25, 1763; Frederick Munroe, born in Rutland February 6, 1765, married Pattie, daughter of Jonathan Bullard in 1784; Electa, born in Oakham December 16, 1766; Lucretia, born in Oakham November 22, 1772, married Henry Kelley May 23, 1793.

Mr. Stone died in Oakham December 3, 1794, aged sixty-three years.

Alpheus Stone.

Born in Rutland, June 6, 1757, the son of Isaac and Martha (Munroe) Stone and brother of Isaac Stone, 2d.

He armed himself at his own expense and enlisted March 11, 1777, in the Continental Army for three years, in Col. Nixon's 6th Mass. Regt., which served in the Northern Department. He was in Capt. Toogood's company, and later in the company of Capt. Heywood. Like his brother, he was not absent, except on furlough, between August 15, 1777, and February 16, 1779. In his application for pension dated April 22, 1818, he wrote:

"Served most of his time in the State of New York, was in skirmish at Danbury when our stores were burned by enemy, was in escort of Gen. Lincoln from Ticonderoga in 1777, in skirmish at Kingsbury with Indians at same time, was in whole siege, features and hardships at taking of Burgoyne's army."

He was discharged at Soldier's Fortune, N. Y., March 11, 1780, by Major Heywood.

Alpheus Stone was Town Clerk of Oakham in 1788, and Selectman in 1789, 1790 and 1799. In 1786 he subscribed £2 toward the building of a house for Father Tomlinson.

He was married in 1781 to Lucretia Nye, daughter of Ebenezer Nye, and lived on the farm afterwards owned by Dr. Charles Adams and now by Wallace Grimes. Children, born in Oakham: Betsy, February 18, 1782, married Ezekiel Goodale of Hallowell, Maine, in 1804; Polly, December 29, 1784; Lucy, January 21, 1786, married (1) Benjamin Waterman in 1805, (2) Peres Fobes, June 2, 1831; Lucretia, February 18, 1788, married Knight Whittemore; Allis, March 30, 1790, married Peres Fobes in 1808; Harriot, September 5, 1792, married Jesse Fitts, March 19, 1816; Otis, October 9, 1795, married Susan Robinson June 9, 1818; Adaline Augusta, October 26, 1798, married John Hammond, June 29, 1818; Louisa, July 28, 1801, married Joel Brimhall in 1822; Susan Maria, April 28, 1804, married Col. John Robinson, 3d, December 2, 1824, and, after Col. Robinson's death, married John Hammond, December 31, 1846.

Alpheus Stone died in Oakham, March 31, 1829, aged seventy-two years.

Isaac Stone, 2d.

Born in Rutland, June 2, 1753, O. S., the son of Isaac and Martha (Munroe) Stone.

Isaac Stone, 2d, was one of the minutemen who marched with Capt. Crawford on April 19, 1775. Nine days later, April 27, he enlisted for eight months in the 5th Co. of the 8th Mass. Regt., commanded by Col. John Fellows and stationed at Roxbury. On March 11, 1777, he enlisted for three years' service in the Continental Army, in Col. Nixon's 6th Mass. Regt., and was made Sergeant. The regiment served in the Northern Department under General Gates and his successors. He was not absent from the service between August 15, 1777, and February 16, 1779, except on furlough, and was in the engagement at Danbury, Conn., and at the battles of Stillwater and Saratoga. He was discharged March 11, 1780.

He was married in 1782 to Hannah, daughter of Jonathan Bullard, and lived on the New Braintree road one mile west of the Oakham meeting house, on what is now known as the Butler farm. He had eight children, born in Oakham: Hannah, July 23, 1783, married Seth Goodspeed in 1804; Achsah, January 25, 1785, married William Broad in 1803; Salva, October 11, 1787; John, August 15, 1789, died March 1, 1790; Claracy, March 9, 1791, died July 30, 1793; Samuel, April 5, 1793, died April 10, 1793; Isaac, 3d, June 19, 1794; Sukey, August 16, 1797, married James Conant, December 24, 1816.

His son Isaac, 3d, married February 27, 1815, Sally, daughter of John, 2d, and Susannah Robinson. They had two children. The eldest, Washington, was the father of George W. and John E. Stone, soldiers in the Civil War.

Isaac Stone, 2d, the Revolutionary soldier, died November 25, 1828, aged seventy-five years.

Oakham T. R., i, 214. M. S. R., xvi, 467 (6).

George Walls.

George Walls was a soldier in the British Army, probably a Hessian, who was taken prisoner at Saratoga. He had either escaped or been paroled from the prison barracks at Rutland and, before July 13, 1779, he had found employment on a farm in Oakham. On that date his tax-rate was remitted by vote of the town on the ground of his being a British Regular. On October 12, 1779, the Council at Boston ordered all escaped or paroled prisoners to be returned to the Commissary of Prisoners and individual cases of British soldiers were brought before the House of Representatives for consideration. George Perkins and William O'Brien of Oakham were granted leave to remain in town by vote of December 20, 1779. On the same day a general order was issued:

"That as divers German Troops have been impressed into the Service of the Brittish King and sent into this Country Contrary to their Inclination and in Violation of the rights of humanity to Carry on this unnatural Warr against these states, and as Every Nation has a right to weaken the Armies of the power with which it is at warr—A. it is therefore further Resolved that any person or persons who made a part of the German Troops, in the pay & Service of the brittish King employ<sup>d</sup> in the American War, under the Command of Gen<sup>l</sup> Burgoyne or others, & who have left the Service of the said King and has resided within this state for the space of three months, by producing a Certificate from the Select men of the Town or Towns, within this state where they have so resided and have taken the Oath of Allegiance & Fidelity as afores<sup>d</sup> shall not be carried without said state, taken up or imprisoned, within it under pretence of their being prisoners of war unless the Council of said state from such persons Character & Conduct shall see fit to order it, or by general order of the General Court—B. Sent up for Concurrence."

The Council on December 21 amended the bill so as to require a certificate from the Selectmen of the town and an oath of fidelity and allegiance before some one Justice of the Peace within the State to be designated after the bill had passed both Houses. The bill became a law the same day. George Walls undoubtedly availed himself of this opportunity. Fifteen months later, on March 26, 1781, under Resolve of December 2, 1780, he enlisted in the Continental Army for the town of Oakham for three years; age 24, stature 5 feet 7, complexion light, occupation farmer.

William Washburn.

Marched with a detachment from the Oakham company on the Rhode Island alarm, July 23, 1777, and on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777. He enlisted September 7, 1777, in Capt. Crawford's company raised in Hardwick, Oakham and New Braintree, for the Stillwater campaign, and was in the battles that resulted in the surrender of General Burgoyne. July 5, 1780, he was engaged for three months in Capt. Timothy Paige's

Co., Col. John Rand's Regt., for service at West Point, and was made Corporal. He was discharged October 10, 1780.

William Washburn, of Stafford, was married to Lucretia Darling, of Oakham, October 9, 1783.

Perez Waterman.

Born in Bridgewater in 1738, son of Perez Waterman who died in Bridgewater in 1793, aged ninety years.

He marched as First Sergeant with the minutemen from Bridgewater in Capt. Nathan Mitchell's company, in response to the alarm of April 19, 1775, and was in the service eleven days. May 1, 1775, he reënlisted in Capt. James Allen's Co., Col. John Bailey's Regt., which was in camp near Boston. On July 10, 1780, he was appointed Lieutenant and served three months and twenty-two days in Rhode Island. The regiment was detached from the militia to reinforce the Continental Army for three months.

Mr. Waterman came to Oakham not long before 1798, when he is called in deeds "Perez Waterman of Bridgewater, Gentleman." He purchased in 1798 of William Bothwell, for $2,900, three pieces of land: one hundred and fourteen acres lying west of the county road leading from Rutland to Brookfield; forty-two acres, "buildings included," east of the county road from Rutland to Brookfield, and north of the county road from New Braintree to Worcester, and extending to the river; and eight and one-half acres on the east side of the town road. These pieces of land constituted the Waterman farm, the greater part of which is now owned by Walter M. Robinson. A cellar-hole near the Wolf Meadow Dam, not far from the foot of the hill still known as Waterman Hill, is believed to mark the site of the original Waterman house. But Benjamin Waterman, and perhaps his father, lived in a house which was destroyed by fire in February, 1840, situated where Mr. Robinson's house now stands.

Lieut. Waterman was prominent in town affairs, and represented the town in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1806. On July 20, 1817, he was admitted to the Oakham Congregational Church. He died December 13, 1820, at the age of eighty-two years. The Worcester Spy of January 24, 1821, said of him: "He was a soldier in the old French war, an officer in the Revolutionary War, a worthy citizen, a professed disciple of Christ, and died supported by the Christian's hope." His widow, Abigail Waterman, was baptized and admitted to the church January 13, 1822.

Their children, the first six born in Bridgewater, were: Stephen, July 22, 1766, who led a seafaring life; Calvin, June 2, 1768, married Salome Allen in 1793; Ruth, April 7, 1770, married Nathan Hall of Bridgewater in 1790; Bethiah, May 15, 1772, married Moses Starbuck of Nantucket, January 13, 1801; Lydia, June 13, 1774, who was admitted to the Oakham Church on October 14, 1821; Barnabas, September 23, 1776, married Sally Thatcher of Wareham; Abigail, who married Perez Waterman Bartlett of Montague, February 10, 1808; Lucy, who married Samuel Kingsley, October 27, 1818; and Benjamin, who married Lucy, daughter of Alphaeus Stone in 1805, and died October 13, 1817 at St. Mary's, Ga. All of the nine children of Perez Waterman were living in 1820 excepting Ruth and Benjamin.

Nathaniel Weeks.

Born in Hardwick, October 8, 1744, eldest son of Thomas and Katherine (Clark) Weeks, who were married April 3, 1743.

He has credit on the town records for a term of five months in New York in 1776. He marched August 20, 1777, on the Bennington alarm, and served as guard at Cambridge, beginning July 2, 1778.

Nathaniel Weeks came from "Way (Ware) River, County of Springfield." In 1773 he purchased, for £44, thirty-two acres in Lot No. 31, near the middle of the lot.

He married Mercie Richmond, February 16, 1769. Children: Thomas, married Ruth Willis in 1798; Lucy, married James White, son of Thomas and Sarah White, in 1788; Susanna, married Elijah Freeman, December 29, 1799; Nancy, married Allen Ripley, of Wilton, N. H., in 1811; Martin, married Hannah Foster, of New Braintree, in 1818, died of apoplexy December 27, 1841, aged fifty-nine years.

The granddaughter of Nathaniel Weeks, Susanna Freeman, born March 27, 1810, became the wife of Benjamin Labaree, President of Middlebury (Vt.) College, on October 25, 1836.

Nathaniel Weeks died January 13, 1811. His will was filed February 13, 1811. His widow Mercie died in Oakham August 31, 1850, at the age of one hundred years.

John Wheeler.

Engaged for the town of Oakham April 9, 1777, for three years in the Continental Army, in Capt. Daniel Shay's Co., Col. Rufus Putnam's Regt. He was appointed Sergeant and served till April, 1780. It is uncertain whether he was credited to Oakham or Hardwick.

M. S. R., xvi, 975 (3).

Nahum Whipple.

Born in New Braintree, November 18, 1760, son of Thomas and Martha Whipple.

He enlisted for the town of Oakham May 5, 1777, as Private in Capt. E. Hodges's Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's Regt., which was stationed at North Kingston in Rhode Island. He was discharged July 5, 1777, and received pay for two months and seven days, including travel home.

He was married April 11, 1782, to Lucinda Ashley. She died October 8, 1825, and he was again married to Mrs. Parmela Thompson, in April, 1826.

Nahum Whipple was living in Oakham in 1796, at the Dr. John Dean place, but later removed to New Braintree, where he died March 18, 1829, aged sixty-eight years.

Joshua Whitcomb.

Enlisted September 15, 1777, at Brookfield, for a term of three years in the Continental Army for the town of Oakham, and was assigned to Capt. Holden's Co., Col. Nixon's Regt.

He served also for the town of New Braintree at Ticonderoga in 1776, and on the Rhode Island and Bennington alarms, in 1777.

M. S. R., xvii, 33 (8), 34 (2).

Thomas White.

Marched with Capt. Crawford on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777. He was Private in Capt. Joseph Cutler's company of volunteers raised in Western (now Warren) and Oakham to reinforce the army under General Gates, which marched September 24, 1777, and was in service thirty-two days. October 19, 1779, he enlisted in Capt. Joseph Richardson's Co., Col. Samuel Denny's Regt., which was raised for three months' service at Claverack. He also has credit on the town records for four months' service in the siege at Boston and two months at Providence.

Thomas White came to Oakham from New Braintree and bought in 1762, from William Thomson, Jr., of Leicester, for £48, two hundred and forty acres in Lot No. 33, and two gussets, adjoining Lot No. 33, of forty acres and eighty acres respectively. A part of this land is at present included in the farm of C. P. McClanathan. He was six times Moderator, four times Selectman, and a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1775 and 1776. When in 1775 Oakham was given the right of representation in the Great and General Court, Thomas White was the first Representative sent by the town, serving in this office in 1775, 1776 and 1778.

November 26, 1761, he married Sarah Blair, of New Braintree. Children, born in Oakham: Mary, September 1, 1762; Elizabeth, October 3, 1764; James, December 4, 1766; David, July 15, 1770.

Ebenezer Whitman.

Born in Bridgewater in 1752, son of Zechariah and Eleanor (Bennett) Whitman, and descendant in the fifth generation of John Whitman of Weymouth.

He enlisted for the town of Oakham August 18, 1781, as a Private in Capt. Joseph Elliot's Co., Col. William Turner's Regt., for service in Rhode Island, from which he was discharged November 27, 1781.

In 1778 he purchased of George Slocum of Medway, for £550, "a small farm with all the buildings thereon," bounded on the north by the county road from Rutland to Hardwick, on the east by the town road that leads from the county road to the Foster corner. He lived here till 1787, when he sold this place to George Caswell and removed to what was afterwards known as the Whitman farm, in Lot No. 25, not far from the Samuel Crawford farm.

He was married, November 9, 1779, to Ruth Delano. A daughter, Sarah, was born in Oakham, October 12, 1780. A daughter, Ruth, married Seth Pratt, Jr., son of Capt. Seth Pratt, of Barre, May 24, 1819, and was living on the Whitman farm in 1857.

Ebenezer Whitman died in 1788. His widow, Ruth Whitman, married John Hooper, December 9, 1790.

Shubael Wilder.

Engaged for the town of Oakham early in 1777, for three years in the Continental Army, and was in Capt. Daniel Shay's Co., Col. Rufus Putnam's Regt. He was Drum Major, and served till February 17, 1780. It is uncertain whether he was credited to Oakham or Hardwick.

M. S. R., xvii, 351 (5).

Guile Willis.

Enlisted August 14, 1779, in Capt. Simeon Cobb's Co., Col. Samuel Fisher's Regt., for a term of one month in Rhode Island.

M. S. R., xvii, 505 (4).

Alexander Wilson.

Served three months in New York in the last part of 1776, and was Sergeant in Capt. Joseph Cutler's company of volunteers raised in Western (now Warren) and Oakham, which marched September 24, 1777, to reinforce the army under General Gates and was in service thirty-two days.

He was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of a Congregational Church in Oakham, and was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety in 1778.

His wife's name was Huldah. They had a son, Jonathan, born in Oakham, January 28, 1769, and a daughter, Huldah, baptized June 11, 1775.

Robert Wilson.

Enlisted in the summer of 1776 for a term of three months in New York and served in Rhode Island from August 2, 1778, to September 13, 1778, in Capt. Daniel Gilbert's Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's Regt.

Robert Wilson came from Rutland and was a weaver by trade. He bought of Alexander Bothwell in 1765 eighty acres, with a house and barn standing thereon, in the southerly part of Lot No. 26. In 1767, one hundred and seventy-six acres in the northerly part of Lot No. 26, belonging to Robert Wilson, were sold to Asa Partridge of New Braintree for unpaid taxes. In 1770 he sold to Joseph Felton, for £37 16s. 8d., fifty-seven acres with the buildings standing thereon in Lot No. 25, which he had bought of James Craige, Jr. Robert Wilson was living in Oakham in 1790.

In 1779 he was married to Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. John Crawford. They had five sons and eight daughters. Some time after 1790 he removed with his family to the westerly part of Vermont.

Ebenezer Woodis.

Enlisted for two months' service in the siege of Boston and was made Sergeant. February 15, 1776, he gave receipt for ammunition to Capt. Barnabas Sears at Dorchester. He marched with Capt. Crawford in the detachment of the Oakham company on the Rhode Island alarm, July 23, 1777, and on the Bennington alarm, August 20, 1777.

Ebenezer Woodis bought of James Craige, Jr., February 20, 1766, part of Lot No. 25. He was one of the signers of the petition of June 23, 1773, for the organization of a Congregational Church in Oakham. That he was much respected and trusted is shown by his election for three years on the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety. In 1786, administration papers were filed in settlement of Ebenezer Woodis's estate.

He married Dorothy Moore in Sudbury, September 16, 1762. Children, the first two born in Sudbury, the others in Oakham: Edward, September 8, 1763; Sarah, February 13, 1765; Ebenezer, Jr., May 10, 1767, married Elizabeth Woolcott, January 6, 1791; Persis, August 8, 1769; Keziah, September 5, 1771; Ruth, February 27, 1774; Reuben, March 22, 1776; Nathan, March 26, 1778; John, May 16, 1780.

THE WAR OF 1812

The Company Book of the Washington Grenadiers contains the Action of the Council, with the approval of the Governor, dated October 11, 1813, authorizing the formation of a company of Grenadiers in the towns of Oakham and New Braintree; the Order of Major General Caleb Burbank for carrying the same into effect; the Enlistment with the signatures of the thirty-seven men who joined the company before September 10, 1814; the daily reports of guard duty at Boston; the history of the company till 1829; and the signatures of one hundred and forty-nine men who joined after November 7, 1814.

The Biographical Sketches of the members are based chiefly on Oakham Town and Vital Records, recollections of James Allen and Stephen Lincoln, and the writer's personal acquaintance with several other members of the company.

THE WAR OF 1812.

The people of Massachusetts, and indeed of all the New England States, disapproved of the second war with England. At a town meeting held on July 13, 1812, the citizens of Oakham declared by vote (1) their strong opposition to a war with Great Britain, and (2) their disapproval of an alliance with France. At the same meeting three college graduates, Rev. Daniel Tomlinson (Yale 1781), Dr. Seth Fobes (Brown 1804), and William Crawford, Jr. (Dartmouth 1807), were appointed a committee to draw up a memorial for peace, and nine men were chosen to circulate the memorial for signatures.

But after the war was begun, and when it seemed probable that the enemy might set foot on Massachusetts soil, William Crawford, Jr., a member of the committee to draw up a memorial for peace, was one of the first to raise a company for this service.

The following report of a committee of which David Cobb was chairman, was accepted by the Council of the State of Massachusetts, October 11, 1813, and approved by the Governor on the same day:

"On the petition of W<sup>m</sup> Crawford Jr., and other inhabitants of the towns of Oakham & N. Braintree praying that they with such others as may herewith join them, may be formed into a Company of Grenadiers; that their request be granted and that they be annexed to third Regiment of the first Brigade of the seventh Division, it being understood that no standing Company belonging to the said Regiment be thereby reduced below the number required by law."

By order of Joseph Farnsworth, Brigadier General of the First Brigade, Lieut. Colonel Thomas Wheeler, Commandant of the Third Regiment, transmitted, on December 13, 1813, to Wm. Crawford, Jr., the vote of the Council, and the orders for carrying the same into effect issued by the Adjutant General, and by Major Caleb Burbank, with the following note:

"To W<sup>m</sup> Crawford Junr.

In obedience to the above written orders you are hereby directed to enlist a Company of Grenadier Soldiers out of the towns of Oakham and New Braintree, and when you have enlisted 34 you will make a return of their names to me so that measures may be taken to elect Officers to command said Company, you will make out at the head of your enlistment a Caption stiling it the enlistment of a Company of Grenadiers according to the afore mentioned grant."

Thirty-seven men from the two towns enlisted in the company which was called the Washington Grenadiers. The following was the enrollment:

ENLISTMENT OF A COMPANY OF GRENADIERS

We whose names are underwritten do voluntarily enlist as soldiers in the company of Grenadiers annexed to the 3d regiment, 1st brigade, and 7th division of the militia of Massachusetts, and do by this our voluntary act consider ourselves bound to all intents and purposes to perform the several duties which may devolve on us as members of said company.

James Allen	Lot Conant
Jonas Brimhall	James Conant, Jr.
Thomas Haskell	Daniel Flint
Richard K. Marsh	Stephen Lincoln, Jr.
Isaac Stone, Jr.	Mason Clark
Seth Stone	Zenas Dow
Michael Lincoln	Ashbel Pepper
James Barr, Jr.	Daniel Dow

Samuel Thrasher, Jr.	Charles T. Holmes
Roswell Converse	Hiram Barr
Daniel Warner	John Adams
John Thompson	William Crawford, Jr.
George Mullett	Perley Ayres
Fabian Tomlinson	Percival Hall
Elias Marsh, Jr.

William Crawford was commissioned Captain of the company, James Barr, Lieutenant, and James Allen, Ensign. James Conant, Michael Lincoln, Stephen Lincoln, and Edward Woodis were appointed Sergeants, and Jonas Brimhall, Corporal. John Thompson and Sylvester Morse were Fifers, and Lot Conant and George Mullett, Drummers.

Toward the close of the summer of 1814, after the capture of Washington and the burning of the Capitol and the President's house, it was believed that the British were planning to make an attack upon Boston, and, in accordance with orders from headquarters, Captain Crawford issued the following:

NEW BRAintree, September 10, 1814.

The company under my command being ordered into the actual service of this State are ordered to appear at Knight Whitmore's in Oakham on Sunday, the 11th day of September inst., at five o'clock in the forenoon, from thence to march to Boston to do Duty in the service of this commonwealth.

WILLIAM CRAWFORD, JR.,
Captain.

The company assembled according to orders, on Sunday morning on the Oakham Common, and after fervent prayer by Father Tomlinson, the soldiers parted from their friends and set out on the road to Boston. A severe campaign was expected, and those left behind had little hope of seeing again all the young men who marched that morning from Meeting-house Hill. Elizabeth Crawford wrote a few days later to her brother, Captain Crawford: "I, with my sisters, were at the meeting house with heavy hearts when you marched from town, and the greater part of the people that were there shed tears at your departure and your company's."

The regular military company of Oakham was also in training, expecting soon to be called to follow the Grenadiers. William Crawford, Sr., wrote to his son, Captain Crawford, under date of September 20, 1814: "We worked yesterday and this forenoon on the Common and have made great alterations in it.* The company in this town is to train on Thursday this week,

* The Common was the parade ground. The old meeting-house which stood near the center of the Common had just been torn down, and there was much material to be removed and some grading to be done to make it more suitable for company movements. There was no level cleared field near the center of the town.

and, by special orders, on Saturday to appear with all equipment ready to march at the shortest notice."

The Grenadiers occupied nearly three days on the march to Boston, arriving at camp at one o'clock P. M., September 13. The order to march came so suddenly that the Captain had to go without his uniform. This was made by his sisters, three school teachers, from cloth purchased for six shillings a yard from Knight Whitmore at his store in the center of the town, and taken ten days later to Boston by "Esquire Jesse Allen," who seems to have made frequent trips between Oakham and the camp at Boston while the Grenadiers were there.

Two members of the company did not go. Lieutenant Barr died September 8, two days before the order to march was received; and Thomas Haskell is said to have sent John Macomber as a substitute, but this name is not found on any muster roll of the company.

The soldiers in this company were the picked young men of the two towns of Oakham and New Braintree. With one exception, the men from Oakham were between twenty and thirty years of age, and all were unmarried. As grenadiers ought to be, they were all tall men, every one being six feet or over. They were known at Boston as the tall company, and attracted much attention by the perfection of their movements under the discipline of Captain Crawford.

The British ships appeared off Boston, but the troops did not land. The last guard duty by the Grenadiers at Boston was on Wednesday, October 28, 1814. The company was temporarily released from further service and ordered home, reaching Oakham November 7. As they came in sight of the center of the town, they saw for the first time the gilded ornaments on the tall spire of the new meeting-house, which had been completed during their absence.

A copy of the pay roll of the Washington Grenadiers, made out by Captain Crawford, hangs in the Historical Room of the Fobes Memorial Library in Oakham.

Fourteen members of this company who served at Boston enlisted from Oakham, and one other spent the greater part of his life in Oakham.

William Crawford, Jr.

Born October 5, 1783, third son of Captain William Crawford, the clockmaker, and grandson of Alexander Crawford, one of the nine heads of families who came from Rutland and settled in the West Wing, which became the town of Oakham.

William Crawford, Jr., was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1807, and studied medicine but did not practice. He settled in Oakham and was one of its most prominent citizens. He was chosen to represent the town in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1813, 1824, 1834, 1840, and 1845; was State Senator in 1825 and 1826; and was delegate to the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention in 1820. He served the town as Town Clerk from 1813 to 1815, and from 1817 to 1836, as Selectman in 1813, 1817, 1818 and 1835, was for many years a member of the School Committee, and was a well-known teacher in the common schools of this and neighboring towns.

From 1836 to 1850 he was a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Worcester County. In the June meeting of the year 1838, he assumed the chairmanship of the Board, and he was Chairman continuously from that time up to and including the June meeting in the year 1850. He was an expert road maker. The writer of the article on Roads in C. F. Jewett's "History of Worcester County" said:

"The Commissioners have been among the most energetic men of the County. Colonel Lincoln and General Crawford were men of large capacity and have had worthy associates. Before the decease of the latter, the Chairman of the Board, it was stated by one very familiar with the subject that within two generations the County roads had undergone so great improvement that the same number of horses or oxen could draw twice as much tonnage from the extremities to the center of the County in the same time as they could have done at the beginning of the period."

Captain Crawford continued in the State Militia and in 1821 became Brigadier General of the First Brigade of the Sixth Division of Massachusetts Militia.

Mr. Crawford lived at the original Crawford place till 1842, when he built a house on a hill west of the residence of his brother Alexander, where he spent the remainder of his life.

He was married, September 30, 1846, to Sophia Cunningham, of Leicester, the fifth daughter of Nathaniel and Sarah Cunningham, of Spencer, and had one child, William Channing Crawford, who was born January 10, 1849.

General William Crawford died July 25, 1864. His portrait hangs in the office of the County Commissioners in Worcester.

James Allen.

The only son of Deacon Jesse and Abigail Allen, was born in Oakham, July 2, 1792.

He studied in preparation for college at Leicester Academy, but on account of uncertain health did not enter college. He followed his father on the farm lately owned by L. N. Haskell, until 1835, when he sold his farm for five thousand dollars and put the money into the firm of Potter & Allen, merchants in the center of Oakham. The financial crisis of 1837 followed, and the firm was forced into insolvency. Mr. Allen after this lived for some years in that part of the Fairbank house now occupied by H. P. Wright. In 1858 he purchased the house built by Phineas Morton, in which his son, Deacon Jesse Allen, still resides. He was a competent and accurate surveyor and a born teacher. He taught in the district schools and in the select schools of Oakham for forty-two years. It is impossible to measure his influence for good over the young people of Oakham during this long period.

His fellow townsmen honored him by electing him to offices of responsibility. He was Selectman six years, member of the School Committee thirty-two years, Town Clerk eighteen years, member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives four years and of the State Senate three years. He was also County Commissioner of Worcester County three years. In 1817, when twenty-five years of age, he was elected Deacon of the Oakham Church, and held the office fifty-three years.

He was commissioned Ensign, May 11, 1814, Lieutenant, January 27, 1815, Captain, May 17, 1817.

He was married, (1) February 21, 1816, to Polly L., daughter of Nathaniel Crocker, of Paxton. She died July 5, 1841. He was married (2) September 10, 1842, to Hannah H. Parker, of Dunbarton, N. H. Children, all born in Oakham: Louisa, April 24, 1817; Stoughton Willis, June 6, 1820; James, July 4, 1822; Abigail, May 30, 1825; Mary L., September 1, 1827; George, April 3, 1829; Lucy, February 27, 1830; Maria, June 21, 1832; Emily Kimball, September 13, 1835; Louisa Parker, July 12, 1843; Hannah Merriam, May 9, 1845; Jesse, May 23, 1847; Martha Bird, April 7, 1849.

Deacon James Allen died June 18, 1870. His portrait hangs in the office of the County Commissioners in Worcester.

Perley Ayres.

Born April 30, 1792, eldest son of Jabez Ayres, of New Braintree, and a descendant in the fourth generation of Jabez Ayres, of Newbury.

Perley Ayres was a competent school-teacher and a man of unusual ability. He was living in New Braintree at the time of his service in the Washington Grenadiers, but after teaching several winters in the center school in Oakham, he came, in 1837, to Oakham to reside and purchased from Timothy Nye, for four thousand dollars, the farm of one hundred and thirty-nine acres, still known as the Perley Ayres farm, and now owned by Thomas C. Gaffney. Here he lived till 1869, when he sold to Samuel B. Fairbank and removed to the house west of the village where his daughters Louisa and Eunice now reside.

May 1, 1826, he was married to Grace Mason Tidd. Mrs. Ayres died January 21, 1838, and he married (2) Harriet W. Knight, daughter of Silas Knight of Oakham, August 29, 1838. Children, all born in Oakham: Sarah Grace, July 14, 1839; Louisa Allen, January 30, 1841; Hiram, September 29, 1842; Charles Perley, April 30, 1844; Eunice Harriet, December 25, 1845; Katherine Amelia, October 22, 1847.

Perley Ayres died in Oakham, October 11, 1880.

Jonas Brimhall.

Born in 1794, son of Samuel and Eunice (Humphrey) Brimhall, who came from Barre and lived on what is still known as the old Brimhall place, afterwards the home of Dr. Seth Fobes. Samuel Brimhall died in Oakham, February 3, 1812, aged sixty-two years.

Jonas Brimhall was married March 21, 1824, to Caroline Nye, daughter of Timothy and Parnal (Allen) Nye. He lived for many years at the Four Corners, near the schoolhouse in the North District. His son, Elisha Brimhall, born March 25, 1825, removed to Clinton in 1847, where he became a prominent merchant, and held various town offices. He was Chairman of the Board of Selectmen for several years, Town Treasurer from 1865 to 1871, Representative in the General Court in 1871, and State Senator in 1876 and 1877.

Jonas Brimhall died in Oakham March 13, 1856, at the age of sixty-two years.

Mason Clark.

Born in Medway, June 5, 1789, the son of Amos and Ursula (Richardson) Clark, grandson of Amos and Hannah (Craig) Clark, and brother of Simeon and John C. Clark, of Oakham.

Mason Clark came to Oakham with his parents about 1800. November 4, 1813, he married Patty Johnson of Medway. July 10 of the same year he purchased of Samuel Tenney, for $328, a half acre of land, with the buildings thereon, which were (1) the original part of the house owned and occupied by the late A. J. Holden and (2) a shoe-shop where W. W. Russell's house now stands. He was a shoemaker by occupation. From 1819 to 1824 he was living in Coldbrook, where he was a licensed innkeeper.

SEMINOLE AND MEXICAN WARS.

Two Oakham men served in the United States Army between the War of 1812 and the Civil War.

Isaac Davis Rice.

Born July 3, 1801, son of Joseph and Mary Rice.

Isaac D. Rice was a soldier in the Seminole War (1835-42). He enlisted in the regular army of the United States and continued in the service nearly ten years. After his discharge from the army, he returned to Oakham and lived at what is still known as Rice Corner. He was Chairman of the Committee which in 1843 erected the Methodist Church in the center of the town, and contributed about three-fifths of the entire cost of the building.

April 19, 1846, he was married to Mrs. Julia Ann Rice, widow of Henry Rice and daughter of Richard Kelley and Rhoena (Johnson) Marsh. They had one daughter, Rhoena Augusta, born June 19, 1849, married May 7, 1874, to Hudson L. Arms.

Mr. Rice died in North Brookfield, March 25, 1880, at the age of seventy-eight years.

Algernon Sidney Crawford.

Born in Oakham, April 27, 1805, son of James and Molly (Butler) Crawford, and grandson of Captain William Crawford, the clockmaker.

He married Eliza Fay, and had one son, James Crawford. In 1846 he had his name changed by Act of the Massachusetts Legislature from Algernon Sidney Crawford to Algernon Sidney Butler.

Soon after the declaration of war against Mexico, he enlisted at Worcester in the service of the United States, and is said to have died at Puebla, Mexico, in 1847.

THE CIVIL WAR

The record of military service of the Oakham soldiers in the Civil War is taken chiefly from Oakham Town Records, Adjutant Generals' Reports, T. W. Higginson's Mass. in the Army and Navy, 1861-65, and Regimental Histories. The writer was personally acquainted with nearly all the men from the town who served in this war, but, for greater accuracy and completeness, the Biographical Sketches have been read, with careful attention to names and dates, by the soldiers themselves or, when these were not living, by members of their families.

Massachusetts Infantry regiments in which men enlisted from Oakham are arranged in numerical order. These are followed by the Cavalry and Heavy Artillery. Within the regiment, those who enlisted from Oakham are placed before those born in Oakham or living here after the war, who enlisted from other towns. Oakham men who enlisted in other states are arranged alphabetically and placed after those who served in Massachusetts organizations.

THE CIVIL WAR.

Until the attack on Fort Sumter, it was not generally believed at the North that there would be war between the two sections. The North had lived so long in peace that it did not know what the evils of war were, and was wholly unprepared for a long and hard struggle. The young men were not accustomed to military training, and there was no such universal interest among them in manly sports as is seen everywhere to-day. But when war had actually begun, and it was evident that the Union could not be preserved without a conflict of arms, the men of the North responded promptly and seemed ready to make any sacrifice in defence of the government.

The method of recruiting in Massachusetts differed from that pursued in many of the states. In general, each Massachusetts regiment was raised from a comparatively small section of the state, and each company in the regiment represented a town or a group of near-by towns. As the war advanced and new levies were called for, the state formed new regiments instead of raising recruits to fill up the ranks in the regiments already in the field. If the men who reënlisted are counted twice, as they were on the town's quota, about four-fifths of the Oakham men who enlisted for the town were in the 25th, 34th, 36th, and 51st regiments of infantry and in the 4th cavalry. The last was a state organization. The four infantry regiments were all raised in Worcester County, as were also the 15th and 21st.

In response to the call of April 15, 1861, for three-months' regiments, Massachusetts sent nearly four thousand men to the front with little delay. The 4th and 6th regiments left Boston on April 17, and the 6th made its bloody march through Baltimore on April 19. May 3, the President called upon the North for thirty-nine regiments of infantry and one of cavalry, to serve for a period of three years, but it was not until May 19 that the quota of the state was assigned. The 1st Massachusetts Regiment left for the front on June 15, and the 2d on July 8.

2d Mass. Infantry.*Charles Sumner Green.

Mustered in, May 25, 1861.

Died in the service.

Born October 5, 1839, in Coldbrook, in the town of Oakham, the eldest child of George S. and Sophronia Green, and brother of Lyman Smith Green, and of Eliza Jane Green, the wife of F. P. Kimball.

Charles S. Green was a shoemaker living in the village of Coldbrook, and enlisted from Oakham in Co. F, 2d Mass. The regiment was organized at Camp Andrew, on the famous Brook Farm in West Roxbury. Co. F, with seventy-eight men, arrived in camp May 14. On July 8 the regiment left Camp Andrew one thousand and thirty-five men strong, went to the front, and joined the command of Major General Patterson at Williamsport. In December, 1861, it went into winter quarters at Frederick, Md., and with three other regiments occupied what was called "Cantonment Hicks," named in honor of Governor Hicks of Maryland. This camp was in a pleasant wood, four miles east of Frederick, on the Baltimore pike. The hospital was supplied by the Sanitary Commission.

Charles S. Green was the first man from Oakham to join the army at the outbreak of the Civil War. Within one month of the attack on Fort Sumter, he left his work and enlisted in a regiment forming in the eastern part of the State. When the regiment left Camp Andrew, he was detailed as regimental wagoner. At Camp Hicks he was taken ill with fever, and died January 30, 1862.

10th Mass. Infantry.*Nathaniel W. Colton.

Mustered in, June 21, 1861.

Address, Veterans' Home, Napa Co., Cal.

Born in West Springfield, Mass., November 3, 1836. His father was Chauncey Colton, of Long Meadow, who removed to Oakham about 1848; was village Postmaster from 1851 to 1855, and Selectman in 1856. In 1830 he married Lavinia H. Ware of Oakham, sister of James B. and A. Hazen Ware.

Nathaniel W. Colton was a shoemaker living in Springfield when the war began. He enlisted May 31, 1861, at the age of twenty-five, in Co. F, 10th Mass. The regiment went into camp June 14; left for the South July 25, and was encamped during the winter at Brightwood, near the residence of Francis P. Blair, Jr. March 27, 1862, it started down the Potomac to Fortress Monroe; was engaged with loss at Fair Oaks, May 31, and heavily engaged at Malvern Hill, July 1. Colton was with McClellan through the peninsular campaign from March to July, and contracted disease, on account of which he was discharged for disability.

After recovering his health, he followed his occupation in Oakham, Worcester, Springfield, and Lynn, Mass., and in San Francisco. In 1893 he was admitted to the Veterans' Home, Napa Co., Cal.

beloved by the soldiers, and he was pronounced the best orderly sergeant in the regiment. He was made Commissary Sergeant of the regiment, May 1, 1862, and was commissioned Second Lieutenant, May 25 of the same year. February 28, 1863, he was promoted to First Lieutenant. He bore an active part in the disastrous battle of Chancellorsville, in May, 1863, and at Gettysburg, July 1, 2, and 3 of the same year. He was appointed Captain, October 4, and assigned to the command of Co. K, on December 9. He was in the series of battles in May and June from the Wilderness to Petersburg, and was mustered out at the expiration of his term of service.

When he returned from the war, the farm in Westboro had been sold, and Mrs. Kimball had removed to Enfield. He joined her there and made this town his residence for the remainder of his life. The people of Enfield honored him from year to year with almost every office in their gift. He represented the town in the State Legislature, was Selectman, Town Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor, Overseer of the Poor, and served as a member of the School Board for thirty years. He died at Enfield, January 22, 1908.

An appreciative obituary notice, written by Lieut. W. R. Warner, was published in the Westboro Chronotype of Friday, February 7, 1908. Mr. Warner said of him: "A flood of tender recollections comes pouring in upon me as I recall Kimball's always calm exterior and noble scorn of death. He was always the same man all through his life of seventy-four years, generous to a fault, unassuming, often forgetful of self, and always mindful of others."

15th Mass. Infantry.

Edward Franklin Ware.

Mustered in, July 12, 1861.

Died in the service.

Born August 28, 1835, in Oakham, son of Archibald and Caroline Cutler (Cooley) Ware. His father was son of Archibald Ware, who came to Oakham before 1797, when his name appears on the town records.

Edward F. Ware was a shoemaker working at Brookfield when he enlisted, at the age of twenty-six, in Co. F, 15th Mass. The regiment assembled at Camp Scott, August 8; three weeks later was at Poolville, Md., on picket duty on the Potomac River. Here, on September 23, 1861, Edward Ware died, the second man to die in the regiment and the first soldier from Oakham to die in the war.

Amos B. Dean.

Mustered in, February 1, 1862.

Discharged, May 1, 1862.

Born in Oakham, October 2, 1833, son of Dr. John and Nancy (Parks) Dean, and brother of Levi L. Dean of Co. H, 2d Mass. Heavy Artillery, and of Eliza Dean, the second wife of Andrew Spooner, of the 51st Mass. Dr. John Dean was son of Deacon James Dean, one of the first ten settlers of Oakham.

Amos B. Dean, a mechanic, enlisted, at the age of twenty-nine, from North Brookfield in Co. F, 15th Mass., and was discharged for disability after three months' service.

Not long after his return from the army, he removed from North Brookfield to Hiawatha, Kansas, where he died in November, 1903.

Albert Henry Foster.

Mustered in, July 12, 1861.

Mustered out, July 11, 1864.

Address, North Brookfield, Mass.

Born November 12, 1839, in New Braintree. He was son of James R. Foster, who was born in Middleboro, February 24, 1798, and of Nancy (Henry) Foster, who was born in Rutland, September 20, 1796. They were married August 22, 1822. Mrs. Foster was daughter of Lieut. Samuel and Mary (Gates) Henry, and sister of Samuel G. Henry and of Mrs. Rufus Gould, the mother of Dr. John W. Gould, 25th Mass., and of Rev. Edwin S. Gould, 51st Mass. James R. Foster was a resident of Coldbrook in 1821; later he lived in Rutland and in New Braintree. In 1848 he purchased the Sheers Berry farm in the west part of Oakham, now known as the Foster farm, on which he and Mrs. Foster lived till their death. Mr. Foster died May 4, 1875; Mrs. Foster, April 17, 1880.

Albert H. Foster went to North Brookfield when fourteen years of age and was employed in the Batcheller shop. May 1, 1861, at the age of twenty-one, he enlisted in Co. F, 15th Mass.; was promoted from Corporal to Sergeant, March 1, 1863; was taken prisoner in the battle of Ball's Bluff, October 21, 1861, and was in prison in Richmond four months. He was in the battles of Fredericksburg, May 3, 1863, and Gettysburg, July 2 and 3. July 28, 1863, he was detailed on detached service in Boston Harbor.

At the expiration of his term of service he returned to North Brookfield and resumed work in the Batcheller shop, where he was employed till 1879, when he established himself in the coal business, in which he still continues. He has been for several years a member of the Board of Investment of the North Brookfield Savings Bank.

He was married (1) January 11, 1865, to Addie M. Ashby, of North Brookfield, who died, February 3, 1892; (2) December 13, 1894, to Alice W. Smith, of North Brookfield. Children: George B., born September 16, 1868, died September 8, 1869; Harold Abbott, born May 15, 1871; Frank Webster, born June 13, 1874.

Harold A. was married in April, 1893, to Jean Kidder, of Boston, and has three children: Albert Edward, Maynard Ashby, and Elizabeth. He was appointed Postmaster of North Brookfield in 1902 and held that office till the close of the Taft administration.

Frank W. was in the telephone business in North Brookfield from 1895 till September, 1910, when he removed to Oakland, California, where he is in the employ of the Cyphus Incubator Company.

21st Mass. Infantry.

George Lyman Caldwell.

Mustered in, July 19, 1861.

Died in the service.

Born in Oakham, May 16, 1838, son of George and Eliza (Parker) Caldwell. His father, George Caldwell, son of James and Mary (Blake)

Caldwell, was born in Oakham, June 27, 1818, and died in Oakham, January 4, 1881. Eliza Parker Caldwell probably came from Warren.

George L. Caldwell, at the age of twenty-three, a mechanic, enlisted from the town of Oakham in Co. K, 21st Mass., and was made Sergeant. The 21st regiment was organized in Worcester, at Camp Lincoln; left Worcester, August 23; went to Annapolis; was selected for the Burnside expedition, December 16; took part in the battles of Roanoke Island, Newbern, Manassas, Chantilly, Antietam, and Fredericksburg. In February, 1863, it was sent to Kentucky to serve as part of the 9th Corps in the Department of the Ohio. In August it moved to Camp Nelson on the Kentucky River.

George Caldwell died November 17, 1863, at Camp Nelson. It was reported that he was killed while in his tent, by the accidental discharge of a gun which a soldier was cleaning in an adjoining tent.

Isaiah Dean.

Mustered in, February 29, 1864.

Mustered out, July 12, 1865.

Address, Barre Plains, Mass.

Born in Oakham, March 21, 1845, son of Elijah and Delotia (Eastman) Dean, and brother of Seth and Daniel W. Dean of Co. K, 36th Mass.

In the winter of 1864 he enlisted, at the age of nineteen, for the town of Barre, in Co. K, 21st Mass. Late in October, 1864, after the members of the regiment whose time had expired had been discharged, he was transferred to the 36th Regiment. On June 8, 1865, the remnants of the 21st and 36th Regiments were transferred to the 56th, from which they were discharged at the close of the war.

December 16, 1870, he was married in Oakham to Susan A. Simmons, daughter of Job and Sarah Simmons. His wife died June 1, 1887.

25th Mass. Infantry.

Twenty-one men from Oakham enlisted in Co. H, 25th Mass. in the late summer of 1861, and three whose early home had been in Oakham enlisted in the same company from other towns. One Oakham man joined Co. A in 1862. This was a Worcester County regiment, organized at Camp Lincoln in the city of Worcester, largely under the charge of Capt. A. B. R. Sprague. It was mustered into service from September 26 to October 12, and left the state October 31 for Annapolis, where it was encamped for about two months. While stationed here, the Oakham men were visited on December 14 by Washington Stone and William R. Gould, who brought letters and delicacies from home. They remained two days, and, after visiting the city of Washington, stopped again for two days on their return.

The regiment formed part of General Foster's 1st Brigade in the Burnside expedition to North Carolina and was given the right of the line; took a prominent part in the battle of Roanoke Island, February 8; was engaged at Newbern, March 14, remained on provost duty in the city till May 9, and was later at the front. As part of the 3d Brigade, it shared in the Goldsboro expedition in December, supporting the batteries at Kinston, supplying volunteer sharpshooters at Whitehall, and was active at Goldsboro. In December, 1863, the regiment was ordered to Newport News, Va., where four hundred and thirty-two men reënlisted, who returned in February, 1864, to Massachusetts on furlough.

The command was reunited March 26, forming part of General Heckman's Red Star Brigade, 18th Army Corps. In the reconnaissance to the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad, Edwin Wilbur and Lorenzo K. Lovell were wounded, May 6, 1864, at Port Walthal Junction. From May 6 to May 16, the regiment was under fire nine days. In Beauregard's daybreak attack on the right flank of the Union troops at Drury's Bluff on May 16, 1864, the 25th fought against overwhelming numbers till it was surrounded by the enemy, and then fought its way out, saving its colors and organization. The regiment lost sixteen killed, sixty wounded, and sixty-nine prisoners. Willard A. Frink and Henry H. Ware were killed, Jonathan G. Warren was wounded, and David O. Lovell was wounded and taken prisoner. At Cold Harbor on June 3, in the unsupported charge of Heckman's Brigade on the strongest position in the Confederate line, the 25th lost fifty-three killed, one hundred and thirty-nine wounded, and twenty-eight prisoners, making a total loss of two hundred and twenty out of three hundred men fit for service who answered to their names at roll call that morning. William H. Bullard and Lyman N. Parker were killed, and Corporals Julius D. Hill and George W. Stone were wounded. The regiment took part also in the assaults of June 15 and 18 at Petersburg, and remained on duty in the trenches till August 25. It was ordered to North Carolina, September 4, and stationed near Newbern. The original term of service expired in September, 1864. The reënlisted men, organized as four companies, forming the 25th Mass. Battalion of Veteran Volunteers, united with Sherman's army near Goldsboro, moved to Raleigh in April, and, after the surrender of the Confederate Army, to Charlotte, where they performed patrol and guard duty till the termination of the war.

William Harrison Bullard.

Mustered in, September 21, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Died in the service.

Born April 22, 1840, in Oakham. His father was Joel Bullard, born October 7, 1796, son of Silas, a soldier in the Revolutionary War. Silas was the son of Jonathan Bullard, and was born in Weston, May 24, 1746.

William H. Bullard was a farmer living on the Silas Bullard place, when he enlisted at the age of twenty-one. At Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864, he was severely wounded, falling among the living and the dead as the line went down before that fatal fire on three sides of the Angle into which the charge was made. Bullard could not cover himself, and was shot to death, lying on the ground between the lines, his living companions unable to help him.

In writing of this battle, Col. Higginson said: "Saddest of all was the vast number of wounded who expired in the narrow pass between the hostile lines, on the days following the battle, simply from the inability of their own friends to succor them."

Sergeant White says of Bullard: "He was one of the reliable men of the company, and participated in all the battles up to the time of his death. His bravery was conspicuous at Drury's Bluff, May 16."

Henry Willis Crawford.

Mustered in, September 26, 1861.

Discharged, August 30, 1862.

Born in Oakham, November 29, 1829. His father was Hosea Willis Crawford, a captain in the militia and grandson of Capt. John Crawford who commanded a company in the Northern Army at the time of the surrender of Burgoyne. His mother was Caroline M. Gault, daughter of John and Rebecca (Kenney) Gault.

Henry W. Crawford played double bass in Crawford's Cornet Band, and was known as "Big Henry," to distinguish him from Henry A. Crawford, who played the E Flat cornet. He enlisted as a musician in the regimental band of the 25th, and at the end of a year was discharged by act of Congress, and returned home.

After his return, he lived in Oakham, Fitchburg, and Barre, and followed his trade of carpenter and builder.

December 28, 1853, he was married to Lucy Ann Browning of Rutland. They had two children, both of whom died young. After the death of his wife, he was married again, October 31, 1859, to Ellen Sibley of Barre. Children: Fred E., born in Barre, July 8, 1867, now police officer at Gilbertville, Mass., and Deputy Sheriff for the County of Worcester; George H., born in Barre, June 19, 1869, a machinist; Charles, born in Fitchburg, December 19, 1871, a teamster; Nellie A., born in Oakham, October 6, 1875, now Mrs. Ackland Eddy of Worcester, Mass.; Frank, born in Barre, December 21, 1878, a teamster.

Mr. Henry W. Crawford died in Gilbertville, May 18, 1895.

Charles D. Dean.

Mustered in, September 23, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Born on June 9, 1843, at New Salem, Mass. His father was Charles Dean, son of Richard Dean, a soldier in the War of 1812 and a descendant of Walter Dean, who came from Chard, England, in 1637, and settled in Taunton, Mass. His mother was Abbie Deland of Andover, Mass., daughter of a Baptist minister.

Charles D. Dean was nephew of Mrs. Alonzo Lincoln, and was living with Mr. Lincoln when he enlisted, at the age of eighteen, from the town of Oakham. He reënlisted as a veteran from the town of Sunderland.

After the war, he was in the restaurant business for about twenty-five years. In 1895 he became a manufacturer of baking powder. He lived in Somerville from 1892 to 1908, when he removed to Medford. He was Commander of the Willard C. Kinsley Post, 139, G. A. R.; was Chairman of the Committee from the Post, which, in conjunction with a citizens' committee, made arrangements for the dedication of the Somerville Soldiers' Monument on May 30, 1909.

July 4, 1869, he was married to Maria F. Leonard, of Boston, and had one child, Grace G. Dean, born August 25, 1870, married, January 5, 1912, to Walter Shippard Smith, and now living at 7 Benham St., Medford, Mass.

He died November 20, 1909, in the hospital of the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea, and was buried in Riverside Cemetery in Sunderland. The Somerville Journal said of him: "Comrade Dean was one of the most active, faithful, and efficient members of Post 139. Modest and unassuming in manner and conduct, he was always ready for duty at the call of his comrades."

Sergeant White of Co. H. writes: "I remember Dean as one of our best soldiers, ever faithful, quiet, and self-respecting. He came out of the service a man, worthy of the respect of the world, as he had been of all his old comrades in arms."

John Williams Gould.

Mustered in, September 26, 1861.

Discharged, August 30, 1862.

Address, 23 Maywood St., Worcester, Mass.

Born in New Braintree, June 12, 1840, brother of Rev. Dr. George H. Gould, and of Rev. Edwin S. Gould, Co. F, 51st Mass. His father, Rufus Gould, was born in Charlton, Mass., September 3, 1792, son of Thomas and Hannah (Williams) Gould. Thomas Gould, born November 24, 1755, was in the Revolutionary army. John W. Gould's mother, Mary Henry, was daughter of Lieut. Samuel Henry, who was born in Rutland, November 15, 1765, and was married in 1795 to Polly Gates. The Henry family came from Rutland to Oakham not far from the beginning of the 19th century.

John W. Gould came to Oakham when he was nine years old. When thirteen, he sang alto in the church choir, and when sixteen, he joined Crawford's Cornet Band, being the youngest member. He organized a double quartette of mixed voices, that furnished acceptable music for social gatherings in Oakham for a number of years. He taught school in Ware and Hubbardston, teaching singing school at the same time in Hubbardston. In the spring of 1861, he, with his brother Edwin, and L. Dwight Wood, entered Williston Seminary at Easthampton. The outbreak of the war brought him home, and he enlisted as a musician in the 25th regimental band. At the end of a year, all bands were discharged by act of Congress, and he returned home.

The following spring (1863), the family removed to Westboro, and he began the study of dentistry with his uncle, Dr. Samuel G. Henry. In the spring of 1864 he opened an office for the practice of dentistry in Oakham, in the Irene Clapp house. March 1, 1866, he established himself in Worcester, where his practice has been one of the best in the city, and his close attention to business has given him but little time for other things.

When he went to Worcester, he united with the Old South Church, but when his brother, Rev. Dr. George H. Gould, became pastor of the Piedmont Church, he transferred his connection to that church, where he was one of the deacons for eight years. He has been a member of the Worcester Congregational Club almost from its beginning, of the Worcester County Dental Association, and of the Massachusetts Dental Society.

In 1877 he was married to Nellie Melissa Muzzy. She was daughter of Alexander and Iris Melissa (Earle) Morrison of Leicester, and was adopted by Edwin A. Muzzy of Worcester after the death of her parents. Of a family of six children, only two are living: Dr. Rufus Henry Gould, a graduate of the Harvard Dental School, now in practice with his father. Mary Earle Gould, a graduate of Wheaton Seminary, now a teacher of music.

Julius Dexter Hill.

Mustered in, September 16, 1861.

Reenlisted, January, 18, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Address, Littleton, Colo.

Born in Spencer, Mass., August 13, 1842. His father, Dexter Hill, the son of Joshua Hill, came to Oakham in 1843. His mother was Eliza Prouty, daughter of Gardner and Ruth (Howe) Prouty.

Julius D. Hill, at the time of his enlistment at the age of nineteen, was clerk in the store of his uncle, Alanson Prouty, at Oakham. He was wounded at Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864, but returned to his regiment and remained in the service till the close of the war.

After the war, he was clerk in the Express Office in Worcester, Mass., for two years. In 1866 he went to Colorado, and in 1869 settled in Littleton. Here he began on a farm, but soon opened a general store and remained twenty-eight years in one place. He was Postmaster of Littleton for fifteen or twenty years. He disposed of his store, and with a partner established the Littleton Creamery. Competition forced them to merge with an eastern concern, and his company became part of the Beatrice Creamery Company. When a national bank was established in Littleton, he became Director, Vice-President, and Local Manager, and he is now Vice-President of the First National Bank of Littleton.

He was married in Littleton to Inez Berry, who came to Colorado from Maine with her father. Their daughter Eva married Ambrose Edwards. Children, born in Littleton: Dexter Hill Edwards in 1901; Berniece Edwards in 1904; Irvin Ambrose Edwards in 1907.

Charles Frederick Howard.

Mustered in, September 20, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 19, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Born in Boston in 1843. His father was John F. Howard, who was born in Oakham, November 4, 1841, son of Martin and Vashti Howard. His mother was Charlotte Adams, born at Antrim, N. H., May 21, 1813, daughter of Dr. Charles and Sarah (McAllister) Adams of Oakham. Martin Howard came from Bridgewater, and was buried in Dorchester.

Charles F. Howard was living in Oakham with his father on the farm now owned by Clayton Adams, when he enlisted at the age of eighteen in Co. H, and served through the war.

After returning from the army, he lived in Boston and was employed in the Post-office Department.

He died at Hyde Park, November 4, 1878.

David Oscar Lovell.

Mustered in, September 18, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Died in the service.

Born March 29, 1839, in Oakham. His father was David Lovell, born in Franconia, N. H., March 24, 1809, son of Jonathan and Mehitabel (Knight) Lovell. He removed to Worcester with the family in 1811, and when seventeen years old was sent to Sudbury to learn the shoemaker's trade with Enoch Kidder, with whom he worked as an apprentice four years. When twenty-one, he came to Oakham at the invitation of Samuel G. Henry. September 28, 1831, he married Hannah Osborn of Sudbury. About 1832 he built the house now occupied by William A. Nye, where he lived several years. Later he sold this house and purchased in 1847 the house built by James K. Hervey, which has been in the possession of the family till the present day. Here he built the Lovell shop, in which he worked as a shoemaker with his four sons.

David O. Lovell was working with his father and brothers as a shoemaker, and was also keeping a livery stable, at the time of his enlistment. He was wounded at Drury's Bluff, May 16, 1864, taken prisoner, and placed in the Libby Prison Hospital at Richmond. A few days after the battle, his father received the following letter from his son:

"Richmond, Va., May 24, 1864.
General Hospital 21, Ward D.

Dear Father:—

I was wounded on the 16th in the right leg and taken prisoner, and since have had my leg amputated. I am doing very well at present; think I shall be able to go to our lines the first opportunity.

Your son,

DAVID O. LOVELL."

From lack of proper treatment, and with only such care as could be rendered by our own men, he grew worse, and died in the hospital, June 17, 1864. Sergeant Emerson Stone, who lost his hand in the same battle, and was also a prisoner, was with him when he died.

Lorenzo Knight Lovell.

Mustered in, September 20, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Discharged, July 8, 1865.

Born May 9, 1837, in Oakham, son of David and Hannah (Osborn) Lovell, and brother of David Oscar Lovell.

Lorenzo K. Lovell began his studies in 1857 at Phillips Academy, Andover, in preparation for college, but on account of ill health he continued only two terms. The breaking out of the Civil War prevented him from returning later to the academy, as he had expected to do. He taught in the public schools of Oakham and of Sudbury. At the time of his enlistment he was working in the Lovell shop with his father and brothers. January

1, 1863, he was made Corporal. He was wounded at Port Walthal Junction, May 6, 1864. The wound in his shoulder did not heal and blood poisoning set in. When home on a furlough his own doctor took out the bullet which was imbedded in the bone. He was at the U. S. General Hospital in Readville, Mass., when the war ended.

After he returned from the army he became bookkeeper for William Mills, a plumber of Boston, and lived in East Somerville till 1874, when he purchased a grocery business in Wayland. He always took an active part in both town and church affairs. For many years he was Deacon of the church in Wayland and Superintendent of the Sunday School; also Treasurer, and member of the Church Committee. He served the town long as Auditor and member of the School Committee. For fifteen years he was Postmaster of Wayland.

Mr. Lovell was a member of the Order of Odd Fellows and was very active in the work of the society. He was Noble Grand, and, for several years, Chaplain.

March 16, 1864, when he was home on furlough after his reënlistment, he married Mary T. Young of Sudbury, who died in the following year. In November, 1870, he was again married, to Emily S. Mills, daughter of William Mills, by whom he had four children:

Mary Eleanor, born October 13, 1871, in East Somerville; graduate of Bridgewater Normal School; now teacher in Waltham.

William Stone, born July 28, 1873, in East Somerville; has now a grocery store in Wayland and is an insurance agent.

Ernest Mills, born July 5, 1877, in Wayland; graduated as Bachelor of Science from Tufts College in 1900; now Instructor in Physics in the Technical High School in Providence.

Sarah Emily, born August 18, 1879, in Wayland; graduated as Bachelor of Arts from Tufts College in 1902 and received the degree of Master of Arts at Radcliffe, June 23, 1908; now head of the English Department in the Lowell Normal School.

Lorenzo K. Lovell died in Wayland, December 19, 1909, and was buried in the shadow of Wadsworth's Monument in South Sudbury. At the funeral the Odd Fellows formed a double line and marched in the procession to the edge of the village.

"Both Lovells were fine Christian men, always true to their best ideals, and good soldiers, like all the Oakham men I knew in the 25th Mass."—H. Arthur White, Sergeant Co. H, 25th Mass. Inf.

Charles H. Parker.

Mustered in, September 20, 1861.

Discharged, December 29, 1861.

Reënlisted, December 5, 1863.

Mustered out, July 30, 1865.

Born in Brookfield, Mass., August 24, 1838, son of Aaron and Susannah Parker, and brother of Lyman N. and Edwin S. Parker. He came to Oakham from Princeton with his father and brothers, and lived here for a considerable part of his life.

Charles H. Parker was working on a farm when, at the age of twenty-three, he enlisted for the town of Oakham. Three months after his enlistment he was discharged for disability; but after regaining his health, he reënlisted for the town of New Braintree, in the 59th Mass. This was the last Massachusetts regiment raised for three years. It was a veteran regiment, and was engaged in the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, North Anna, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, and Hatcher's Run. January 1, 1865, he was transferred to the 57th Mass., and was mustered out at the close of the war.

Mr. Parker was married, March 20, 1860, to Lucy A. Barr, daughter of Davidson Barr, of North Brookfield, by whom he had six children:

William Henry, born February 1, 1861, married in Spencer, Mass., September, 1882, to Mary Parmenter, of Oakham.

Sarah Jewett, born October 16, 1862, married March 2, 1883, to Fred Reed, of Oakham.

Charles Edwin, born August 17, 1864, married in November, 1883, to Nellie Davis, of Oakham. He was graduated as Doctor of Medicine from the University of Vermont in 1889, and practiced in Princeton, Mass., till his death, July 10, 1905.

George Lyman, born July 29, 1868, married December 25, 1889, to Lillian Robinson, of Oakham.

Freddie Davidson, born August 9, 1874, died August 20, 1875.

Frank Eugene, born May 11, 1877, married in Worcester, June 12, 1895, to Gertrude E. Walker.

Edwin S. Parker.

Mustered in, September 25, 1861.

Discharged, March 22, 1862.

Reënlisted, July 13, 1863.

Mustered out, July 29, 1865.

Born September 2, 1843, in Brookfield, son of Aaron and Susannah Parker.

Edwin S. Parker was by occupation a shoemaker, and enlisted at the age of eighteen for the town of Oakham. After six months' experience in the army, he was discharged for disability, resulting from malarial fever and rheumatism.

In 1863, his health having improved, he reënlisted for the town of Holden in Co. A, 32d Mass. He was wounded May 11, 1864, at Spottsylvania, and sent to the hospital at Chester, Pa., but returned to the regiment and was in the battle of Hatcher's Run, October 27. Exposure while on picket duty after this battle brought on again an attack of rheumatism, from the effects of which he suffered during the remainder of his life.

After the war he returned to Oakham, where he was married, May 31, 1866, to Mrs. Sophronia Frink, widow of Willard A. Frink of his first company and regiment, and daughter of Daniel and Sophronia (Raymond) Town. Children:

Walter, born June 5, 1867, married October 9, 1883, to Emma E. Clark, of New Braintree, died October 28, 1908.

Edith May, born February 21, 1869, married November 18, 1885, to Frank Weld, of Oakham.

Rosa W., born May 7, 1871, married September 18, 1885, to Edgar Crawford, of Oakham.

Lyman N. Parker.

Mustered in, September 25, 1861.

Reënlisted, December 18, 1863.

Died in the service.

Born in Brookfield, February 5, 1841, son of Aaron and Susannah Parker.

Lyman N. Parker was living with his father and younger brother in the Belknap house, and was working as a shoemaker, when at the age of twenty he enlisted with his brothers, Edwin S. and Charles H. Parker. He was a good soldier and one of the first in the regiment to decide to reënlist.

On June 3, 1864, he was killed at Cold Harbor. He carried with him a medal on which was engraved his name and address. This was found on the field by a Confederate soldier, and was restored to his brother, Edwin S. Parker, several years after the close of the war.

Charles D. Robinson.

Mustered in, September 20, 1861.

Mustered out, October 20, 1864.

Born in Barre, Mass., November 25, 1836. His father was Marshall P. Robinson of Barre, who died in the West. His mother was Mary Elizabeth (Perry) Robinson of Oakham, who died in Coldbrook.

Charles D. Robinson was a mechanic living in Coldbrook, in the employ of William R. Whiting, when he enlisted at the age of twenty-five. He served three years and was discharged at the expiration of his term of service.

After the war he followed his trade of woodworker at Ayer Junction for ten years, and afterwards in Worcester for the remainder of his life. He was Commander of the Grand Army Post at Ayer for two years. On his removal to Worcester, he was transferred to Post 10, of which he was a member at the time of his death.

May 7, 1865, he was married to Lucy M. Walker, daughter of John Walker of Oakham and sister of John Albert Walker, a soldier in Co. C, 4th Mass. Cav. They had six children: Arthur Charles, born March 28, 1866; Albert Dennison, born April 27, 1867; Mary Lizzie, born September 7, 1870; George Perez, born October 27, 1871; Hattie Louise, born December 5, 1875; and a daughter born March 28, 1881, died same day.

Charles D. Robinson died in Worcester, February 11, 1899, and was buried on Juniper Avenue in Hope Cemetery in that city.

Mrs. Lucy M. Robinson resides at 5½ Thomas Street, Worcester, Mass.

Edward Josiah Sargeant.

Albert Spooner.

Mustered in, September 25, 1861.

Reenlisted, January 3, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Born January 22, 1822, in Oakham. His father, Deacon Andrew Spooner, born in Oakham, May 18, 1781, was the son of Eleazer Spooner, who was born in Dartmouth and removed to Oakham in 1776. Eleazer Spooner purchased of Deacon Jesse Allen for £383 6s. 8d., a tract of land, with the buildings thereon, containing about one hundred and fifty-five acres, on which he lived till his death. Deacon Andrew Spooner married Sally Adams, of Hopkinton, Mass., October 26, 1805, and had nine children.

At the outbreak of the war Albert Spooner was living in Oakham and was employed in the wirework manufactory of Lincoln & Ayres. He enlisted at the age of thirty-nine and served till the end of the war.

After returning from the army, he lived for a few years in Oakham and later in Hammonton, N. J. In July, 1872, he removed to North Brookfield, which was his residence for the remainder of his life. He was Deacon of the Congregational Church in North Brookfield, and served the town as Cemetery Commissioner. He presented to the Oakham Congregational Church a communion service.

May 25, 1847, he married Sarah Maria Woolworth, of Barre, by whom he had two children: William Henry, born in Oakham, April 16, 1848, died in Hammonton, N. J., December 17, 1870; Curtis Edwards, born in Oakham, January 22, 1850, now located in business at 1035 Lombard St., Philadelphia. He is a dealer in antique furniture and reproductions.

Mrs. Sarah M. Spooner died March 15, 1872, at Hammonton, N. J., and Mr. Spooner was again married, to Mrs. Cynthia R. (Putnam) Hambry, in North Brookfield, November 24, 1872. His second wife died May 24, 1895.

Mr. Albert Spooner died in North Brookfield, February 9, 1900.

George Washington Stone.

Mustered in, September 16, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Address, Oakham, Mass.

Born in Spencer, August 1, 1840, son of Washington and Martha (Robinson) Stone, and descendant in the fifth generation of Isaac Stone. The Stone family has been prominent in Oakham for nearly one hundred and fifty years. Isaac Stone came from Rutland to Oakham in 1765, and held all the offices in the gift of the town. His son, Isaac Stone, 2d, served as Sergeant three years in the Continental Army. Isaac Stone, 3d, was a soldier in the War of 1812. Washington Stone, the father of George, was five years Selectman, and represented the town in the Massachusetts Legislature in the year 1850.

George W. Stone, a farmer living with his father, enlisted at the age of twenty-one, and was appointed Corporal. He was wounded at Cold Harbor June 3, 1864, but rejoined his regiment and served through the war.

After the war, he returned to Oakham and has since lived on the home place, succeeding his father, who had died during his absence. He has been three times Selectman, and represented the district in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1901, being a member of the Committee on Military Affairs. He was a member of the Republican Town Committee for forty years, and was a member of the Building Committee of the Fobes Memorial Library.

He was married to Eleanor Hill, daughter of Joshua and Sally (Morse) Hill, of Spencer, and has four children:

Angie P., born September 8, 1869, married in North Brookfield to George Jones, May 14, 1892.

Etta M., born November 29, 1871, married May 29, 1893, to Charles Paquin, Jr. Mr. Paquin gave up his business in Oakham in 1898, was a student at McGill Veterinary College in 1898-99, and during the following year at Ontario Veterinary College, where he was graduated as Veterinary Surgeon in 1900. In 1911 he was appointed Veterinary Inspector for Worcester County and a part of Middlesex County, having under his care eighty towns and cities.

Mary E., born March 21, 1874, was married in 1895, in Chatham, N. Y., to Winthrop H. Boyd, and has one daughter, Leone, born in Oakham, July 10, 1896.

Henry W., born May 14, 1880, was married in North Brookfield, June 2, 1906, to Ellen G. Hall, and has one son, George Fred Washington, born April 22, 1907. Henry W. Stone commenced playing the cornet in the Oakham Band when a boy of about twelve years. Three years later he joined Reeves' Band of Providence, with which he was connected two years. After three years' study under Mr. Pellett of Worcester, he joined the Worcester Brass Band, Frank W. Chaffin, Leader, and holds first chair at the present time.

William I. Temple.

Mustered in, September 16, 1861.

Discharged, July 22, 1862.

Born March 25, 1838, at Princeton, Mass. His father was Willard Temple, who married Dolly H. Smith in Princeton, November 22, 1837. After her husband's death, Mrs. Temple married Samuel Maynard of Oakham, April 21, 1853, and her four children, William, Mary Ann, Jane, and Dolly, came with her to Oakham.

William I. Temple was a young man of excellent ability. He wrote creditable poetry, was a good debater, and was one of the presidents of the Franklin Literary Society. He was also inventive, and took out a patent from the United States Patent Office.

He enlisted in the 25th regiment at the age of twenty-three: stature 5 feet 7½, complexion dark, eyes dark blue, hair black, by occupation a bookkeeper. He was appointed Sergeant October 15.

Temple spoke his mind fearlessly, but calmly. In January, 1862, Company H got up a petition which was signed by seventy-two men, to have the cook turned out of the kitchen. Sergeants Temple and Gleason presented the paper to the Captain, who was offended that the Sergeants should approve such a petition. Temple said to him: "If the Sergeants are not to be allowed to take an interest in the welfare of the men, then please take off my stripes."

A diary kept by Temple has been preserved, covering the period from the time of his enlistment till Sunday, April 6, 1862. The records in this little book plainly show that he had been anxious about his health some months before his enlistment, and that he hoped the out-of-door life would help him to regain his strength; but he found the service too severe. The long marches and hard drill increased his unfavorable symptoms, and he was discharged after ten months' service, on a surgeon's certificate of disability.

After leaving the army, he was for a short time traveling companion for John B. Gough on his lecture tours, looking after the advertising in newspapers and by posters, the printing and selling of tickets, traveling expenses, hack service, hotel bills, and rent of halls.

William Temple died of pulmonary tuberculosis in Oakham, January 14, 1871.

Henry Hazen Ware.

Mustered in, September 24, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 19, 1864.

Died in the service.

Born August 20, 1841, in Oakham, son of James B. and Betsy (Capen) Ware. His father, born May 1, 1803, was son of Archibald and Lavinia Ware, who were married December 17, 1788. James B. Ware was a manufacturer of plow handles, and owned the farm which now belongs to John E. Stone. He was a good citizen, a man of fine presence, and held many offices, having been chosen eight times as Selectman and twice representing the town in the Massachusetts Legislature.

Henry H. Ware, a machinist, enlisted at the age of twenty. He was wounded February 8, 1862, in the battle of Roanoke Island, but soon returned to the regiment. He was killed May 16, 1864, in the disastrous battle of Drury's Bluff.

Jonathan Gibbs Warren.

Mustered in, September 16, 1861.

Reënlisted, January 18, 1864.

Mustered out, July 13, 1865.

Address, West Brookfield, Mass.

Born in Oakham, November 22, 1842, son of Eber H. and Miriam (Gibbs) Warren. His father, Eber Warren, came to Oakham from Rutland and lived in a house not now standing, on the east side of the Coldbrook road and north of the house of Dr. Charles Adams.

Jonathan G. Warren, by occupation a farmer, enlisted at the age of nineteen and was appointed Corporal. He was wounded at Drury's Bluff, May 16, 1864, but returned to duty and continued in the service till the close of the war.

He removed from Oakham to West Brookfield about 1878, where he was for several years in the meat business and later a news dealer. He has served the town of West Brookfield as Constable, as Truant Officer, and as a member of the School Committee, and was for many years Commander of the Alanson Hamilton Post, G. A. R.

Joseph D. Whitney.

Mustered in, September 25, 1861.

Discharged, May 11, 1863.

Reënlisted, September 23, 1864.

Mustered out, August 12, 1865.

Born at Watertown, Mass., in 1833, son of Alpheus and Abigail Whitney.

Joseph D. Whitney enlisted from Oakham at the age of twenty-eight, by occupation a shoemaker. After his discharge from the 25th regiment on account of disability, he recovered his health and reënlisted in Co. C, 13th Conn. Inf., and continued in the service till the close of the war.

After his return from the army, he worked at his trade in Oakham for several years, and was subsequently in the employ of John C. Bigelow of Paxton.

He was married to Saphronia Bemis of Paxton, September 22, 1875, and had one son, George H. Whitney, born December 19, 1881, now the village blacksmith of Paxton.

Joseph D. Whitney died in Paxton, March 11, 1909.

Edwin Wilbur.

Lawson Dwight Wood.

Mustered in, September 16, 1861.

Died in the service.

Born in West Brookfield, August 23, 1839, son of George and Abigail Elizabeth (Keep) Wood, and brother of George Paige Wood.

Lawson Dwight Wood, when quite young, left home and lived in the family of Joseph Fobes. He was a young man of marked ability and had been a teacher in the public schools of Oakham. When the Civil War began he was a student at Williston Seminary.

He left Williston and enlisted at the age of twenty-two, and was appointed Corporal. He died November 23, 1862, at Newbern, N. C.

Sergeant Henry Arthur White of Co. H, whose mother was an Oakham girl, writes:

"I well remember the two Wood brothers from Oakham. They were my tent-mates from the start at Worcester till their death, which came in 1862,—two worthy men, an honor to themselves and to their town, of fine personal character, good soldiers both, both tall men, standing among the first ten men of Co. H. They were unable to stand the debility of that first hard summer. We were sorry to lose them."

Nathaniel H. Foster.

Mustered in, October 12, 1861.

Resigned as Lieutenant, January 1, 1863.

36th Mass. Infantry.

Fifteen Oakham men enlisted in Co. K, of the 36th regiment. This regiment was organized in the summer of 1862 at Camp Wool, Worcester, and was recruited mostly in the eastern and western towns of Worcester County. It left the state for Washington, September 2, joined the 9th Army Corps near Sharpsburg, Md., September 21, and was present at the Battle of Fredericksburg. Early in 1863, it joined General Burnside in the Department of the Ohio, and formed part of the forces sent to Vicksburg in June. It returned to Kentucky, was active at Blue Springs, October 10, was closely engaged at Campbell's Station, November 16, where Lieutenant Fairbank and Miles Reed were wounded, and was on duty during the siege of Knoxville. Returning to Annapolis, Md., in April, 1864, it was engaged with loss at the Wilderness on May 6, where Sergeant Howell was wounded. The regiment suffered greatly in the charge at Spottsylvania Court House, May 12; here Sergeant Chamberlain was wounded. In the action of the right wing at Cold Harbor, June 2, the regiment lost fifty-seven men in killed and wounded. Among the wounded was Corporal Henry Macomber. The regiment shared in the assault on Petersburg, June 17, and engaged in the operations on the Weldon Railroad in August. In the final assault on Petersburg, April 2, 1865, Charles Haskell was killed. After the fall of Petersburg, the regiment moved to Farmville and served on provost duty.

John Barnard Fairbank.

Mustered in, August 27, 1862.

Mustered out, June 8, 1865.

Born August 8, 1839. His father, James Chandler Fairbank, was son of Ephraim Fairbank, who came from New Ipswich, N. H., to Oakham about 1815. His mother was Lurana (Robinson) Fairbank, daughter of

MAJOR JOHN BARNARD FAIRBANK
3rd Mass. Infantry

John Robinson, a Revolutionary soldier, who came from Northboro to Oakham in 1790 and settled on the farm now owned by his descendant, George W. Stone.

John B. Fairbank was from boyhood a fine scholar and an excellent writer and debater. When the Franklin Literary Society was organized, he was chosen its first President. Beginning in the fall of 1856, he pursued his studies at Monson Academy, teaching in the public schools of Oakham each winter, and entered Middlebury College in September, 1860. A year later he left Middlebury and entered Amherst.

In 1862, at the end of Sophomore year, he left college to enlist in the 36th Mass. At the organization of the regiment, August 11, 1862, he was made First Sergeant of Co. K. His ability soon attracted the attention of Colonel Bowman, who often said, "Fairbank is the best Orderly Sergeant in the regiment, and Co. K owes its efficiency more to him than to any other man"; but for nearly nine months he failed to receive the advancement which he deserved. May 2, 1863, he was promoted to Second Lieutenant; October 23, 1863, to First Lieutenant; May 13, 1864, to Captain.

In the engagement at Blue Springs, October 10, 1863, the regiment, following the retreating enemy, came to the crest of a hill and discovered a Confederate battery five or six hundred yards in front. Colonel Goodale had just given orders to fall back under the shelter of the hill, when a shell from the battery burst, wounding Colonel Goodale and breaking Lieutenant Fairbank's sword into three pieces, but leaving him uninjured. As he picked up the pieces of the broken sword, a member of the company, perhaps thinking of the time when "They shall beat their swords into plowshares," said to him: "They have broken your sword into door-scrappers."

He was wounded in the battle at Campbell's Station, November 16, 1863. In this engagement he wore the sword of Captain W. H. Hodgkins, who after the Vicksburg campaign had been sent to Massachusetts to bring back recruits. When Lieutenant Fairbank was taken from the field, this sword was left behind, the Confederates pressing so close that it was impossible to go back and recover it. Mr. W. B. Twitty of Spartansburg, S. C., found the sword on the field after the battle, and has recently returned it to Captain Hodgkins, whose name was on the hilt.

Fairbank was in the Asylum Hospital at Knoxville ninety days, and not until several weeks after he was wounded were his family able to hear from him, as Knoxville was then besieged by General Longstreet. On his release from the hospital he went home for a short furlough, at the end of which he rejoined his regiment.

He distinguished himself in the assault on the redoubt at Petersburg, June 18, 1864. This was the most brilliant and successful engagement in which the 36th regiment ever had a part. The regiment had less than ninety men in the battle, and of these three were killed and sixteen wounded, three of them mortally. It was here that Sergeant Macomber seized the colors and bore them through the engagement, after the color bearer of the regiment had been wounded. Captain Hodgkins, in his description of the battle, said: "As the rebel commander was pulled over the breastworks as a prisoner, he shouted to his men: 'Stand firm; their right is all gone.' The enemy discovered the break in our line and commenced a sharp cross-fire upon the regiment. At this critical moment, Captain Smith, commanding the regiment, with wonderful presence of mind, turned toward the left and shouted at the top of his voice, 'Fairbank, bring up your brigade!' at the same moment yelling, 'Charge!' The ruse had its desired effect, and before Lieutenant Fairbank could hurry his 'brigade' of eight men of Co. K from the left, the enemy wavered. Our men leaped the breastworks and captured all the defenders who did not take to their heels."* May 13, 1865, Fairbank was brevetted Major United States Volunteers, "for gallant and meritorious services in the assault on the enemy's lines near Petersburg, Va." On October 13, 1864, Fairbank wrote home: "Of the thirteen hundred men that we have had on our rolls, only four hundred and eighty are left, and of these only one hundred and sixty are fit for duty. Of the eight officers that composed my mess, every one has been killed or wounded, and all the wounded severely, except myself." November 1, 1864, he was assigned to command of Co. E. He was the Senior Captain in the regiment, and during a portion of the months of October, 1864, and January, 1865, he was in command of the regiment in the absence of Lieutenant Colonel Barker. While in camp near Petersburg he served on Court Martial from the middle of November, 1864, to the middle of February, 1865.

After the war, Major Fairbank continued his studies, was graduated as Bachelor of Arts from Amherst College in 1867, and received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from Columbia Law School in 1869. He began legal practice in Winfield, Kansas, where he was appointed Deputy States Attorney for Cowley County. In 1875 he was called back to Massachusetts by his father's infirmities and age, and during the next six years resided in Oakham. Here he was honored by his fellow townsmen with the highest offices in their gift. He was Selectman, member of the School Committee, and twice represented the district in the Massachusetts Legislature. He wrote the history of Oakham for A. P. Marvin's "History of Worcester County," and was the founder of the Oakham Soldiers' Union.

In 1881 he went to the Black Hills, South Dakota, and located for a time in Deadwood, but soon removed to Portland, where he resided till his death. Here he practiced as a lawyer and dealt in mining properties. He took special interest in the local schools and in the Grand Army. In 1896 he was chosen Senator in the South Dakota Legislature, and was a prominent member of that body. He was President of the School Board in Portland, and was nominated by his party for a position on the bench of the Supreme Court of the State, but was not elected.

He died in Portland, S. D., April 29, 1908, and was buried in Mount Moriah Cemetery. He was far from home and relatives, but school children attended his funeral in great numbers, and the church in which the exercises were held was filled with his friends. The Bar Association of Lawrence County, S. D., gave this testimony to his worth:

"The excellent qualities of his life, the charm of his character, his devotion to his country, and his disinterested labors of love and mercy, will long linger as an inspiration to brighter hopes, more laudable endeavor, and purer and higher purposes."

The Deadwood Pioneer Times referred feelingly to his many excellent qualities in its issue of May 2, 1908:

"He was a polished and scholarly gentleman, whose friendship was an honor and whose company a pleasure. The studies which he followed in his youth, he loved in his declining years, and his mind was stored with a wealth of interesting information on varied subjects. Those who knew him loved him for his manly qualities, his refinement and accomplishments. He was a man of learning and culture, a lover of literature, and an admirer of everything good and noble, a man who went among his fellows with a word of hope, comfort and encouragement, a welcome visitor wherever he went."

James A. George, a Confederate veteran, wrote:

"In public and private life he was ever the courteous and polished gentleman, so pleasant to meet. I never heard him say an unkind word about or to any person. He wore the blue and I wore the gray. Often in private and at soldiers' and sailors' reunions we have met and fought over the battles again, but never a harsh word was spoken. Far from his old home, old comrades have laid him to rest. Sleep on, kind and generous soul. May a loving Father comfort those aching hearts far from your resting place."

Edward Chamberlain.

Mustered in, August 4, 1862.

Mustered out, June 4, 1865.

Born in Holden, Mass., August 10, 1842, twin brother of Edwin Chamberlain. His father, Thomas J. Chamberlain, a son of Jacob Chamberlain and Ruth Upton, came to Oakham from Holden in 1856. His mother was Lydia B. (Wright) Chamberlain, daughter of James Wright of Marlboro.

Edward Chamberlain enlisted as a private at the age of twenty, in Co. K, was appointed Corporal, and promoted to Sergeant. He was wounded at Spottsylvania, May 11, 1864. After his return to the regiment, he was made Orderly Sergeant, October 12, 1864, and on November 13 was appointed Second Lieutenant. He was a brave soldier and a capable and trustworthy officer.

Lieutenant Chamberlain returned from the war somewhat broken in health. He was in the employ of Moses O. Ayres for a year, and afterward worked with his brother in the shoe shop at Ware Corner.

He died in Oakham, May 17, 1870.

Charles L. Haskell.

Mustered in, July 12, 1862.

Died in the service.

Born November 9, 1819, in Athol, Mass., son of Loring and Sally (Lincoln) Haskell. His grandfather, Simeon Haskell, a farmer and blacksmith, was born in Middleboro, January 10, 1767, son of Roger and Judith Haskell. He removed to North Brookfield about 1793, came from North Brookfield to Oakham in 1804, and lived on the Belknap place. He was a prominent citizen, having been five times Selectman. He died March 25, 1847, at the age of eighty years. Charles Haskell's mother, Sally Lincoln, was daughter of Stephen Lincoln, a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

Charles L. Haskell bought of Deacon Andrew Spooner the farm which was purchased from Deacon Jesse Allen by Eleazer Spooner in 1776, and on which the Spooner family had lived till the buildings were burned in 1848. Here Mr. Haskell built the house lately owned by Mr. John P. Day. He was one of the leaders in the Congregational Church and one of the most helpful supporters of the social and religious meetings.

When forty-two years of age he enlisted in Co. K of the 36th Mass., and endured well all the hard campaigns up to the week in which Lee surrendered at Appomattox, but lost his life on the day of the final assault on Petersburg, April 2, 1865. He had been sent to the rear with Confederate prisoners, and was returning to the front when he was shot through the breast and instantly killed.

Mr. Peloubet thus characterized him: "A faithful, true, upright Christian man, well read in Bible history, not excelling in soldiery tactics, but always sterling in soldierly action, universally respected, and always at the post of duty."

Silas Jacob Howell.

Mustered in, August 5, 1862.

Discharged, June 22, 1865.

Born in Malone, N. Y., in 1838.

In the summer of 1862 he was living in Coldbrook, and was in the employ of Parker & Whiting as master mechanic in the plow shop, when, at the age of twenty-three, he enlisted in the 36th regiment. While in camp at Worcester he was appointed Sergeant of Company K. He was wounded in the Battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, but soon returned to duty and was with the regiment till the end of the war. He was discharged by the order of the War Department, on account of disability from wounds, a few days before the regiment was mustered out.

After returning home, he lived in Orange, Mass., and was for more than fifteen years in the employ of the New Home Sewing Machine Company. He was a very fine mechanic. When he needed a machine or tool, he made it, and made it well. When he had made it, he seemed satisfied, and never put forth any effort to turn his invention into money. He devised and made the first machine to turn out the hemmers on the New Home sewing machine, and also invented a glass cutter, which had a very extensive sale.

In 1882 he left the employ of the Sewing Machine Company and removed to Boston, where for ten years he had a large machine shop. This he sold only when failing health compelled him to give it up. He returned to Orange in 1892 and established a jeweler's store at 13 South Main Street, and was a skillful repairer of clocks and watches. In 1899, on the death of his son Adelbert, he removed to Dorchester, where he died in 1905.

He was married in 1859 to Amelia Elizabeth Keating, who was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I., in 1842. Children: Francis Jacob, born 1860, married Eva Dell Mason, lives in Stoneham, Mass.; Laura Jeanette, born 1862, died in Dorchester, March 30, 1912; Charles Leander, born 1866, married (1) Louisa Rheinholdtina Helmboldt, (2) Henrietta Helmboldt, and lives in Dorchester; Katherine Mary, born 1870, lives in Dorchester; Amelia Elizabeth, born 1872, died 1877; Frederick Silas, born 1874, married Katherine Vaughan, lives in Warner, N. H.; Adelbert, born 1877, died 1899; Grace Elizabeth, born 1880, lives in Dorchester.

James Dexter Johnson.

Mustered in, August 12, 1862.

Mustered out, July 12, 1865.

Born in Newark, Vt., November 17, 1833, son of Calvin and Tabitha (Dexter) Johnson. His mother was daughter of James Dexter, who is said to have gone to Vermont from Connecticut.

James D. Johnson was a carpenter by trade and worked in Worcester and the surrounding towns for a few years before the war. At the time of his enlistment he was employed as a foreman in the shop of Parker & Whiting in Coldbrook, engaged in the manufacture of agricultural implements. He was transferred July 7, 1863, to Co. C of the 3d regiment, U. S. Veteran Reserve Corps. In this Company he was First Sergeant. He was discharged from the service at the close of the war, at Augusta, Me.

After the war, he returned for a time to the town of Newark, Vt., and purchased a farm. Later he removed to West Burke, Vt., where he purchased another farm, and in company with another man purchased a saw and grist mill. It was in this mill that he met with an accident on the board saw, on April 26, 1878, which resulted in his death on the following day.

October 20, 1858, he was married to Emeline Augusta Wright, sister of George C. Wright, the well-known coffee and spice manufacturer of Boston (Dwinnell, Wright Co.). Children: Carrie Augusta Flint, born September 18, 1860, now of Clinton, Mass.; Fred Dexter, born April 9, 1863, now of Worcester, Mass.; Jennie Ella Swallow, born February 1, 1867, now living at Exeter, N. H.; Edson Bert, born November 6, 1871; Ada Alida, born July 28, 1873, deceased; Alma Iola Cunningham, born July 26, 1876, deceased.

Edson Bert Johnson is a counsellor at law, with offices in Worcester and Barre; residence at 18 Oread Street, Worcester.

Mrs. Johnson is still living, and is in very good health, though seventy-nine years of age.

Henry I. Macomber.

Mustered in, August 2, 1862.

Mustered out, June 8, 1865.

Born in Oakham, December 5, 1845, son of John J. and Abigail (Packard) Macomber, and brother of John Macomber of the Mass. 31st, of Major George B. Macomber of the Mass. 34th, and of James Macomber of the Mass. 51st.

Henry I. Macomber was a carpenter and learned the trade of his father. He enlisted with his brother William at the age of seventeen and was appointed Corporal. He was wounded June 3, 1864, at Cold Harbor, but returned to duty and continued through the war.

Charles Haynes Stearns.

Mustered in, August 15, 1862.

Died in the service.

Born March 28, 1836, in Oakham, son of Isaac Stearns. His mother was Betsy Bent of Sudbury, who first married A. Josiah Stone of Grafton. They removed to Oakham, where Mr. Stone died October 13, 1823. After his death, Mrs. Stone married Isaac Stearns, who was born in Waltham, January 19, 1786, and died in Oakham May 3, 1837. Isaac Stearns was son of Jonathan and Mary Bigelow Stearns.

Charles H. Stearns learned the trade of wheelwright with Nahum P. Humphrey of Oakham, for whom he was working when he enlisted at the age of twenty-seven. He died of disease September 15, 1863, at Crab Orchard, Ky. At the time of his death Major Fairbank wrote: "Stearns was a faithful, honest soldier, always in his place and of good habits. He is as truly a martyr to his country's cause as if he had been killed in battle."

May 12, 1858, he was married to Melancy Dennison Dean, daughter of Elijah and Delotia (Eastman) Dean and sister of Seth and Daniel W. Dean, who influenced Stearns to enlist with them in Co. K. Two children were born in Oakham: Emma Maria, September 22, 1859; Charles Daniel, January 4, 1863.

Mrs. Stearns and the children are now living in Pasadena, Cal.

Daniel W. Dean.

Charles E. Warren.

Died in the service.

Son of Eber H. and Miriam (Gibbs) Warren, and brother of Corporal Jonathan G. Warren of the 25th Mass., was born in Oakham, December 2, 1846.

While living in Hardwick on a farm, he enlisted, at the age of eighteen, in the 42d regiment. Soon after going South, he was poisoned while on a foraging expedition. He was sent home, and died in Oakham, November 28, 1864, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Blake.

44th Mass. Infantry.

John Adams.

Mustered in, September 12, 1862.

Discharged, June 18, 1863.

Reënlisted, April 6, 1864.

Mustered out, July 30, 1865.

Born in Oakham, April 4, 1827, son of Dr. Charles and Sarah (McAlister) Adams. Dr. Charles Adams was born in Brookfield, February 13, 1782, and was a descendant in the sixth generation of Henry Adams who came from England to America about 1630 and settled in what is now Quincy. He was educated at Leicester Academy and studied medicine with Dr. Asa Walker of Barre. Dr. Adams settled, as a physician, in Antrim, N. H., in 1807. On the death of Dr. Seth Fobes in 1816, he removed to Oakham, where he continued in practice till his death, March 6, 1875. John Adams was brother of Charles Adams, Treasurer of the State of Massachusetts. His sister Charlotte, born in Antrim May 21, 1813, married John F. Howard of Boston, November 1, 1835, and was the mother of Charles F. Howard of Co. H, 25th Mass.

John Adams was a bookkeeper for the North Brookfield firm of T. & E. Batcheller, at their sales room in Boston, when he enlisted for the term of nine months, from Winchester, Mass., in Co. G, 44th Regiment. This regiment was sent to Newbern, N. C., and took part in the expedition to Goldsboro in December, 1862.

After his discharge from the 44th, he enlisted again from Oakham in Co. K, 57th Mass. Perhaps no regiment suffered more than did the 57th between April, 1864, and July, 1865. They went through the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Courthouse, North Anna, Cold Harbor, and the first and second battles of Petersburg. The regiment met with terrible destruction in the crater at Petersburg, July 30, when four thousand Union soldiers were sacrificed through the incapacity and cowardice of the division commanders.

After the war, John Adams took up again his old occupation of bookkeeper with the Batchellers. Later he was with the woolen company at Dennyville (now South Barre), and for several years with the Lakeville Woolen Company at West Rutland, where he died, November 28, 1889.

He was married, October 14, 1860, to Marietta Pierce of Boston.

46th Mass. Infantry.

Payson Brainerd Humphrey.

Mustered in, September 25, 1862.

Mustered out, July 29, 1863.

Address, City Hospital, Springfield, Mass.

Born in Oakham, May 19, 1841, son of Nahum P. and Mariah Louise (Martin) Humphrey. His father, born in Littleton March 1, 1810, a carriage manufacturer in Oakham for twenty-five years, was a member of the Congregational Church and a prominent citizen. He was Postmaster under President Lincoln, Selectman in 1848 and 1850, and represented Oakham in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1856. In 1864 he removed to Springfield, where he was in the employ of the Boston and Albany Railroad. He died March 6, 1908, at the age of ninety-eight years.

Payson B. Humphrey went to Springfield in 1857 and became a salesman in the house of D. H. Brigham & Company, and had the reputation of being one of the best salesmen in the city. He enlisted in Springfield, September 25, 1862, in Co. A, 46th Mass. This regiment was ordered to Newbern, N. C., and took part in the Goldsboro expedition in December, 1862. It was sent to Fortress Monroe June 24, and after doing guard duty at Baltimore, joined the Army of the Potomac and moved with it into Virginia.

After leaving the army, Mr. Humphrey continued as a clothing salesman with D. H. Brigham & Company in Springfield.

He was married to Mrs. Orpha Fiske about 1869, and still resides in Springfield.

Joseph Joslyn.

Mustered in, September 25, 1862.

Mustered out, July 29, 1863.

Born April 13, 1839, at Perkins, Ohio. His father, James Joslyn, son of Joseph and Nabby Joslyn, was born in New Braintree, November 1, 1803. He went to Bethany, N. Y., and later to Perkins, Ohio, from which place he came to Oakham in 1840 and lived on the Joseph Chaddock place till 1852, when he went to California. He died in Springfield, Mass., in 1880. Capt. Joseph Joslyn, the father of James, was born in Lancaster, July 4, 1776, and died in 1814, in Pelham, Mass.

Joseph Joslyn went from Oakham to Springfield with his mother and brother Charles in 1854, and was employed as a bookkeeper in the business house of Tinkham & Company. In 1858 he came to Oakham and gave the young men of the town their first instruction in gymnastics. This resulted in improved physical development for many of them. He enlisted September 25, 1862, in Co. A, 46th Mass.

After leaving the army, he returned to his former occupation of bookkeeper in Springfield, Mass. November 12, 1863, he was married to Orianna P. Humphrey, daughter of Nahum P. Humphrey and sister of Payson B. Humphrey of Oakham, his tent-mate in the army. They had three children, born in Springfield:

Payson H., born November 24, 1864, died August 9, 1894.

George B., born May 19, 1866, married October 30, 1895, to Sophie Stebbins. Address, 60 Garfield Street, Springfield, Mass.

Edwin Sprague Gould.

Mustered in, October 14, 1862.

Mustered out, July 27, 1863.

Reënlisted, July 15, 1864.

Discharged, November 27, 1864.

Address, 226 Pine St., Providence, R. I.

Born in New Braintree, Mass., February 20, 1844, the youngest of eight children of Rufus and Mary (Henry) Gould, and brother of John Williams Gould of the 25th Mass.

Edwin S. Gould left Williston Seminary, where he had gone in 1861 with his brother John and a companion, L. D. Wood, and enlisted in Co. F, 51st Mass., at the age of nineteen. On December 11, 1862, while on the Goldsboro expedition, he had a severe sunstroke, from which he has never fully recovered. He was discharged at the expiration of his term of service. In the summer of 1864, he enlisted again, in Co. F, 60th Mass., and was made Corporal.

After returning from his second enlistment in the fall of 1864, he resumed his studies at Phillips Academy, Andover, but in 1865 gave up further study in preparation for college by the advice of his oculist. He did newspaper work on the Hartford Courant and Post, and on the Worcester Gazette and Advertiser, for about four years, when he entered the Hartford Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1872. He was ordained and installed as pastor of the Richmond Street Free Congregational Church in Providence, R. I., October 1, 1873. Subsequently he preached at West Brookfield for nearly five years, and was called from the church there to what is now the Humphrey Street Congregational Church in New Haven, Conn., but decided not to accept the call.

In July, 1883, he suffered severely from a railroad accident in New York, and since that misfortune has not felt equal to the full work of a pastor, but preached at Woonsocket, R. I., from 1886 to 1889, and at Athol, Mass., from 1890 to 1896. He was for many years Department Chaplain of the Rhode Island G. A. R., and visited and addressed nearly all the Posts in the state.

He was married, October 20, 1875, to Phebe S. Gladding, a teacher in one of the Providence schools. She died September 2, 1899, at Danielson, Conn., where Mr. and Mrs. Gould had spent much of their time when on vacation.

James Packard Macomber.

Mustered in, October 14, 1862.

Died in the army.

Born in Oakham, August 26, 1843, son of John J. and Abigail (Packard) Macomber.

James Macomber enlisted at the age of nineteen. He died of congestive chills at Newbern, January 17, 1863. The company was at Camp Sprague, a small log-house camp on the Neuse Road, three miles above Fort Totten, where Cos. F and B were stationed on picket duty. On the afternoon of Thursday, January 15, he was taken suddenly ill, and on Friday he was removed to the Stanley General Hospital at Newbern, where he died on the following day. He was the first man in Co. F to die in the service, and his sudden death from disease, when he had been apparently in perfect health, made an impression on the company that was not soon forgotten.

When there was need of more men, James Macomber followed his four brothers and enlisted. Like them, he was a good soldier, brave, prompt, faithful, never absent from duty, glad always to do more than his share.

William Henry Maynard.

Mustered in, October 14, 1862.

Mustered out, July 27, 1863.

Born in Oakham April 28, 1843, son of Artemas and Caroline Maria (Taylor) Maynard. His father was grandson of Francis Maynard, a tailor who came to Oakham from Rutland before 1777 and purchased the farm which has continued to be the home of the Maynard family till the present day. His mother was daughter of Roswell and Isabella (Hammond) Taylor, and was born in Spencer, Mass. After her mother's death, she lived with her aunt, Mrs. Aurelia (Hammond) Maynard (wife of Ezra Maynard), in a house on the old Turnpike, a little east of the schoolhouse.

William Henry Maynard was working with his father on the farm at the time of his enlistment, at the age of nineteen. In the spring following his return from the army, he went to Worcester and was employed for a time in a grocery store. In 1867 he began work with Burbank & Howland. Three years later he and Gough bought out Howland, and the business was continued under the name of A. L. Burbank & Co., till 1872, when Burbank withdrew and the firm of Maynard, Gough & Co. was formed. They were printers and blank book makers, and their specialty was hotel registers. After Mr. Maynard's death the business was incorporated under the name of the Maynard-Gough Company.

He was married January 16, 1889, to Dora Melinda Perham of Worcester, and had two children, both of whom died young: Marion, born May 25, 1890, died February 20, 1896; William Henry, born August 3, 1891, died December 25, 1891.

Mr. Maynard died of pneumonia, May 26, 1891. He was noted for his kindness and liberality toward the men in his employ. One day a workman came to him and asked to have a costly accident for which he was responsible charged to his account and the loss taken from his wages. Mr. Maynard replied: "You are a poor man, and have only what you earn by hard work. You are honest and faithful; we all make mistakes. Not a cent will be taken from your wages for this accident."

George Marshall Ross.

Mustered in, October 14, 1862.

Mustered out, July 27, 1863.

Stephen A. Boyden.

Mustered in, January 6, 1864.

Mustered out, November 15, 1865.

Address, 235 Pleasant St., Providence, R. I.

Born in what is now the town of Lincoln, R. I., October 13, 1844. His father, Samuel Boyden, was son of Stephen Bullen of Charlton, Mass. Six or seven generations of Bullens are buried in Charlton. Family records run back to King Henry VIII, when one of the line, Anne, became quite famous as the second wife of Henry VIII (Anne Boleyn). Samuel and his brother Adams, for local reasons, took the name of Boyden by act of the Massachusetts Legislature. Stephen Boyden's mother was Caroline Matilda Earle, daughter of Antipas Earle of Leicester. Antipas Earle married Amy A. Chase of Worcester in 1808 and had seven or eight children. After Mr. Earle's death, April 30, 1828, his widow married N. D. Bond of Oakham, on November 8, 1829. The Boyden children came in 1862 with their father and mother to Oakham. One of the daughters, Ione, became the wife of Mr. A. J. Holden, inventor of the Holden Wood Furnace and founder and first president of the Oakham Village Improvement Society.

son, Russell Steele, aged nineteen, died a few hours before his mother.

2d Mass. Heavy Artillery.

Gardner Milton Dean.

Mustered in, September 2, 1864.

Discharged, August 14, 1865.

Address, Oakham, Mass.

Born October 23, 1846, in Oakham, son of Luther and Emeline Mariah (Crawford) Dean. He traces back his ancestry through both parents to the first settlers of Oakham, his father, Luther Dean, being a descendant in the third generation of Deacon James Dean, who purchased the Dean farm in 1750 and built on it the first frame house in Oakham. His mother was granddaughter of Capt. John Crawford, whose father, Alexander Crawford, purchased of the Proprietors of Rutland the whole of Lot No. 4. James Dean and Alexander Crawford, with eight others, were the first settlers of the town. Mr. Dean and Mr. Crawford were both officers in the early Presbyterian Church of Oakham.

Gardner M. Dean enlisted in the summer of 1864, at the age of seventeen, in Co. B, 2d Mass. Heavy Artillery, for the town of Dracut. January 17, 1865, he was transferred to Co. D of the 17th Mass. Infantry. He served in Virginia and North Carolina, and was under Sherman in the campaign which terminated in the surrender of General Joe Johnston.

He was a charter member of Co. G, 2d Regt. Mass. Volunteer Militia, formed after the war, and a lifelong member of the Grand Army of the Republic, having served as Adjutant over twenty years, besides holding other offices of trust in the order. He was one of the original members of the E. K. Wilcox Post G. A. R. of Springfield, Mass., his name being twentieth on the record.

After the war, he was for eight years clerk in the dry goods stores of H. M. Bowers and of J. N. Hatch & Co. of Boston. He was later for several years successfully engaged in the milling business in Springfield, Mass. In 1881 he returned to Oakham, having purchased the Adin Bullard farm. This he has enlarged by the purchase of land adjoining, and has made a specialty of fruit and dairy products. Mr. Dean has been a very successful town officer, having been Chairman of the Board of Selectmen for several years. In 1907 he was chosen by the town a member of the Building Committee of the Fobes Memorial Library, and was made the Treasurer of the Committee. In 1912 he was Chairman of the Committee on the Celebration of the One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Incorporation of Oakham.

He was married, March 10, 1873, to Charlotte Emily Russell, daughter of Orlando Russell, and has had seven children:

Clarence Edgar, born March 5, 1874, married December 20, 1908, to Gertrude M. Tallis of Bristol, Conn.

James W. Caldwell was in the employ of the Van Amburg circus company, which was traveling in Pennsylvania, when at the age of twenty-eight he enlisted for three years in Co. E of the 116th Penn. Inf. After Caldwell joined the regiment, it went through the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, North Anna, Cold Harbor, Hatcher's Run, and Petersburg.

When the war was over he came back to his native town, where he worked as a farmer and shoemaker. March 24, 1888, he was married to Mrs. Rachel McLoud of Oakham. He suffered much from rheumatism contracted in the army and always used a cane.

Mr. Caldwell died in Oakham, October 18, 1893.

2d Michigan Cavalry.

John Gault Crawford.

Mustered in, October 2, 1861.

Resigned his commission, March 31, 1863.

Address, Manchester, N. H.

Born in Oakham, April 21, 1834, son of Hosea Willis and Caroline (Gault) Crawford, and brother of Henry Willis Crawford of the 25th Mass. Inf., and Charles Sumner Crawford of the 4th Mass. Cav. His father, Hosea Willis Crawford, received in 1833 from Governor Levi Lincoln a captain's commission in the Massachusetts militia. He was descended from Alexander Crawford, one of the first ten settlers of Oakham, through Capt. John Crawford of the Revolutionary Army.

John G. Crawford's education was obtained chiefly in the public schools of Oakham and North Brookfield, and in the select schools of Oakham. He developed into a strong debater by constant practice in the Franklin Literary Society, of which he became President. He also taught successfully in the public schools of Oakham and Wrentham, Mass., and studied law in the office of Martin Gorham in Barre.

In February, 1855, he went to Kansas, where he took an active part in the contest over the slavery question, and was with John Brown and Jim Lane. He was several times captured by the Pro-slavery bands and often in danger of being hung or shot by them, but was released on account of his youth, courage, and good nature. After the arrival of the United States troops at Lawrence, he returned East, bringing with him as his only souvenir the following pass, which he still carries, given him by "Dick" McCamish:

"Bull Creek, K. T., June 3, 1856.

This is to certify that the bearer hereof, John Crawford, is a reliable young man, and not injurious to the cause of Pro-slaveryism.

RICHARD McCAMISH."

In the spring of 1861 he went to Michigan on a visit. On September 2, 1861, he enlisted in the 2d Mich. Cav., and was appointed Sergeant Major. This regiment was commanded by Colonel Grainger till his promotion to Brigadier General, March 16, 1862, and after that by Colonel Philip H. Sheridan. September 9, 1862, Sergeant Crawford was commissioned Second Lieutenant and assigned as Battalion Adjutant. Adjutant Crawford went with Sheridan on the first cavalry raid of the Civil War and was in many engagements with the enemy before he resigned, on account of ill health, in the spring of 1863. General Hall of Iowa, who commanded a Brigade in Kentucky during the winter of 1862-63, wrote:

"Lieut. Crawford is a man of sterling integrity, great vigilance and bravery, and possesses all the necessary qualifications for further promotion, and I cheerfully recommend him for promotion."

He was given a commission of Captain in the 10th Mich. Cav. by Governor Blair, and raised a company. Through the influence of Senator Sumner, who had known him in the days of the Kansas contest, he was offered a commission of Major in a colored regiment; but his health did not allow him to go again to the front.

In 1864 he was elected to the Michigan State Senate and served two years, being at the time the youngest member ever in that body. He was admitted to practice in Pontiac, Mich., in 1865, and in United States courts in Detroit, September 17, 1867, and was located in Fenton and Holly till 1870, when he removed to Lancaster, N. H. In 1881 he was appointed, by President Garfield, American Consul at Coaticook, P. Q., and served till 1884. After a residence of five years in Worcester, Mass., he removed in 1890 to Manchester, where he still resides.

Comrade Crawford has done much talking during the past fifty years. It is said that he has done more campaign speaking than any other man in the State of New Hampshire. He has spoken in behalf of the Republican candidates in every presidential campaign, beginning with that of 1856, when Fremont and Dayton were the first nominees of the party. In national and state canvasses, he has spoken in over one hundred and forty different towns in New Hampshire, and has been campaign speaker in Massachusetts, in Vermont, in Michigan and in Kansas. In addition, he has made numerous addresses at meetings of the Grand Army, at the dedication of soldiers' monuments, and at patriotic gatherings on Memorial Day. Several of these addresses have been printed. He has also been a popular lecturer on temperance and on many other subjects. Agriculture has claimed enough of his attention to enable him to serve as clerk and President of the Coos and Essex Agricultural Society. By using spare moments, he has found time to make a thorough study of subjects outside his profession, and has published important articles, among which may be mentioned three in Vol. I of the Collections of the Manchester Historic Association, "Castle William and Mary," pp. 51-65; "Etymology of the Language of the Indians of New Hampshire," pp. 177-188; "Proclamation Money," pp. 212-216.

He was married, April 16, 1863, to Emma Tindall of Oxford, Mich., by whom he had one child: Emma Nita, born August 27, 1864, died April 1, 1866. His wife died June 23, 1866, and he was again married, June 30, 1867, at Buffalo, N. Y., to Abbie T. Stevens of Paris, Me., daughter of Simon Stevens, a descendant of Captain Phineas Stevens, who defended No. 4 against the Indian attack upon Charlestown, N. H. Two children were born of this marriage:

Cyrene S., September 1, 1868, died March 26, 1874.

Carrie E., September 30, 1870, married April 30, 1898, to John W. Chapman of Manchester. Children: Mirriam Stevens, born December 22, 1899; Perley Crawford, born March 22, 1901; John Wilbert, born March 7, 1903; Sara Rena, born July 9, 1904; Carrol Everett, born October 29, 1905; Carrie Ethelyne, born December 17, 1907.

Mrs. Abbie Stevens Crawford died February 2, 1882, and he was married April 30, 1885, to Mary A. Harrington of Worcester, Mass.

A son, Harry Calvin Crawford, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1909, with the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. He is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, and is in successful practice in New York City.

George Duffey came to this country about 1850 and lived for a short time in Smithville, Mass., now called White Valley. He moved west before 1857 and settled on a farm in New Oregon, Iowa, from which town he enlisted, August 22, 1862, in the 38th Iowa Regiment, Co. I.

After the war he returned to New Oregon, where he continued to reside till 1885, when he removed to Oakham and bought the place on which Stephen Boyden had lived for twenty years.

He was married in May, 1845, to Sarah A. Wilson of Oldham, England, and had five children: James, born in England, June 17, 1846; Mary Ann, born in Smithville, April 13, 1852; Lizzie E., born in New Oregon, October 9, 1857; Florence N., born in New Oregon, April 10, 1862; Ida Eveline, born in New Oregon, June 29, 1869.

Mr. Duffey died in Oakham, November 6, 1907.

6th Vermont Infantry.

George E. Green.

Mustered in, July 24, 1863.

Mustered out at the close of the war.

Address, Monument, Hinsdale, N. H.

Born March 5, 1829, in Oakham. His father, Charles Belcher Green, son of Elijah Green, was born at Stockbridge, Vt., August 2, 1803. His mother was Catherine Bryant of Orange, Mass. They were married April 29, 1828.

George E. Green removed from Oakham to North Brookfield about 1850, and later to Brattleboro, Vt., where he was living at the beginning of the war. He enlisted July 13, 1863, in Co. A, 6th Vt. Inf., and served in the Shenandoah Valley and in the Army of the Potomac from the Wilderness to Petersburg.

After the war he returned to Brattleboro, where he lived till 1886, when he removed to Hinsdale, a town across the river in New Hampshire. He has a farm about two miles from Brattleboro, and is engaged in market gardening.

He was married, October 25, 1856, to Helen S. F. Barrett of Hinsdale, N. H.

1st Vermont Cavalry.

George W. Haskell.

Mustered in, November 19, 1861.

Reënlisted, December 30, 1863.

Died in the service.

Born in Oakham, April 22, 1838, son of Nelson and Philena (Pepper) Haskell. His grandfather, Simeon Haskell, a farmer and blacksmith, son of Roger and Judith Haskell, was born in Middleboro, Mass., January 10, 1767, removed to North Brookfield about 1793, and came from North Brookfield to Oakham in 1804. He lived on the Belknap place and was a prominent citizen, having been five times Selectman. Nelson Haskell was born in North Brookfield, March 19, 1798. On April 29, 1830, he was married to Philena Pepper, daughter of John Pepper of Ware, and sister of Mrs. Thomas Haskell. Other sons of Simeon Haskell were Loring, Thomas, and Mark.

George W. Haskell was in the employ of Deacon Hartshorn, a farmer of Worcester, when the war broke out. On November 6, 1861, he enlisted in Co. F, 1st Vt. Cav., which did heroic service in Virginia. Adjutant General P. G. Washburn of Vermont said of the men in this regiment: "Dashing, daring, fearless men, accustomed to be almost constantly in the saddle, and to charge the enemy wherever seen, without much regard to the odds, they have fought their way to a reputation which entitles them to all the consideration which can be given them."

George W. Haskell died in the hospital at Washington, D. C., August 8, 1864, of wounds received in action, June 1, 1864, at Ashland, Va.

Contract Service.

Frank Eugene Loring.

Address, Oakham, Mass.

Born in Oakham, January 17, 1844, son of Augustine and Elizabeth R. Loring. His mother was Elizabeth Moore of Rutland. His father, who was born October 11, 1804, and came to Oakham from Spencer, was the son of Thomas and Chloe (Draper) Loring, who were married September 27, 1803.

Frank E. Loring enlisted in 1862 in a German regiment in Pontiac, Ill., but did not pass the examination. In 1865 he enlisted as a workman in the Quartermaster's Department, under Captain and Assistant Quartermaster J. S. Godfrey. He was stationed on Lookout Mountain, had charge of the Sadlery Department, and by contract was liable to be called on to fight in the trenches in case of an attack. Shortly before the close of the war he received the following discharge:

"This is to certify that the bearer hereof, Frank E. Loring, has been in the employ of the Quartermaster's Department under my direction, and has been honorably discharged this 13th day of May, 1865.

J. S. GODFREY,
Capt. & A.Q.M."

Since the war he has resided chiefly in Oakham, where he has had a machine shop and has sold and repaired all kinds of farming and household machinery. The work was carried on under the firm name of Loring Brothers till the death of his brother, Arthur L. Loring, February 7, 1896. Since that date he has continued the business alone.

2d Ohio Heavy Artillery.

Abraham Fay Robinson.

Enlisted, January 5, 1864.
Mustered out, June 8, 1865.

Born in Oakham, November 13, 1830. His father, Col. John Robinson, was son of John Robinson of Northboro, who removed from that town to Oakham about 1790 and purchased the farm on which George W. Stone, his descendant in the fourth generation, still lives. His mother, Susan (Stone) Robinson, was daughter of Alpheus Stone, a soldier in the Continental Army.

Abraham F. Robinson received his education in the district and select schools of Oakham and went west in 1856. At the outbreak of the war he was living in Newark, Ohio, from which place he enlisted in Co. M, 2d Ohio Heavy Artillery. The regiment was assigned to the duty of holding forts, protecting quartermasters' stores, guarding military prisoners, and policing the railroad from Chattanooga to Knoxville. Mr. Robinson was a fine penman and a skillful accountant, and was detailed for clerical duty for the greater part of the time of his service, first in Camp Nelson at Nicholasville, a few miles south of Lexington, Ky., where Confederate prisoners were kept, and later at the office of the Medical Director at Knoxville. He was discharged with the regiment at the close of the war.

He learned the machinist's trade by instruction extending over four years, two in Worcester and two in Newark. After returning from the war, he worked at his trade till he was about fifty years of age, when he left the shop for a farm at Newark, Ohio. He removed in 1892 to Utica, Ohio, where he resided till his death, December 5, 1912.

He was twice married: (1) to Mary A. Ball, April 8, 1860, who died in May, 1881; (2) to Lydia A. Young, February 16, 1882. He had eight children: Mary Geneva, born June 4, 1861, died January 10, 1868; John W., born December 29, 1862, died December 30, 1862; Hattie S., born December 3, 1882; Bertha E., born January 18, 1884; Susan M., born September 4, 1885; Charles F., born January 29, 1887; Carl D., born March 21, 1890; Walter M., born August 6, 1892.

Hattie S. was married November 11, 1905, to Stewart B. Caffee.

Bertha E. was married August 11, 1913, to Dan Solenbarger.

Susan M. was married August 20, 1908, to Rollin Kunze. Children: Ralph Glen, born December 2, 1909, died same day; Irma Imogene, born March 4, 1911.

Charles F. was married April 26, 1906, to Mary M. Ogle. Children: Beauford F., born June 27, 1906; Letha Hazel, born December 20, 1909.

Mrs. Lydia Young Robinson resides at Utica, Ohio. Post Office address, Box 115.

SUMMARY

This book contains biographical sketches of ninety-six soldiers in the Civil War who were born in Oakham or who lived here for a considerable part of their lives before or after the war. Of this number, twenty-seven are still living (1913) at the end of a half century.

Thirty were married before enlistment and thirty-eight after their return. Twelve were married twice and one three times. Thirteen of those who came back from the war were never married. The average number of children in the families of the sixty-eight who were married was 3.62.

A large proportion of these soldiers were mature men. Twenty-two were above thirty years of age at the time of enlistment, eleven above thirty-five, and four above forty, while only twenty-three were below twenty. Thirty-four, more than one-third, were between twenty and twenty-five. The average age of those who enlisted from Oakham was about twenty-four years.

During the Revolutionary War the military age was from sixteen to sixty, but boys under sixteen and men above sixty were accepted as soldiers. The population of Oakham in 1776 was five hundred and ninety-eight, and the number of males between the ages of sixteen and sixty could not have been much if any less than one hundred and sixty. At the time of the Civil War, the military age was between eighteen and forty-five. The population of Oakham in 1860 was nine hundred and fifty-nine. The number of males between the ages of fifteen and fifty was two hundred and twenty-seven, and the number between eighteen and forty-five was about one hundred and seventy-five. The number of men of military age in Oakham on the Provost Marshal's list dated November 23, 1863, not including thirty-eight soldiers already in the field, was one hundred and eighteen. On this list were several names of men not liable to military duty on account of permanent physical disability. Only five of the one hundred and eighteen on the list entered the army after that enrollment was made.

It would be difficult to find an able-bodied man in Oakham at the time of the Revolution who did not go on some campaign, and there were very few men of military age at this period who could claim exemption on ground of physical disability. But the soldiers from this town in the Civil War were supplied by a comparatively small number of families. Seven of the Civil War soldiers whose biographies are given in this book came to Oakham after the war, and eighty-nine were representatives of Oakham families, though twenty-seven of these enlisted from other towns. According to the state census, the number of families in Oakham in 1860 was two hundred and twenty-two. If men who reënlisted are counted twice, as they were on the quota, it will be found that twenty-three Oakham families furnished sixty-five soldiers to the Union army, from this and other towns. Twelve families sent two brothers each, four sent three each, and one sent five; forty-one men in all. Twelve of these soldiers reënlisted, increasing the number to fifty-three from seventeen families. The sons of six other families reënlisted and were counted as twelve, bringing the whole number of soldiers from these twenty-three families up to sixty-five on the official list.

Sixteen Oakham families whose sons enlisted for their own town furnished one-half of the Oakham quota of ninety men. Eight families sent two brothers each, two sent three each, and one sent five; twenty-seven men in all. Eight of these reënlisted for the town of Oakham, increasing the number to thirty-five from these eleven families. Five other families sent sons who reënlisted and were counted as ten, bringing the whole number of soldiers furnished by these sixteen families up to forty-five on the official list. The Oakham men who enlisted for their own town all came from forty-four families.

That Oakham sent its best young men to the Civil War is beyond question. Ten of the soldiers had been teachers before enlistment, and eight received before or after their military service a college or professional training. Two became successful lawyers, one became a minister in the Congregational Church, one a physician, one a dentist, and one a professor in a large university. Five served in the upper or lower house of state legislatures, and one was United States Consul in a Canadian city. More than one-third of those who survived the war have held important offices in the cities or towns where they have resided.

Mr. Peloubet's words to the soldiers of Oakham, at the reception given them on their return, have already been quoted on page 12:

"So far as we can learn, you have to a man returned at least as good as you went away, and many we know, and all we hope, a great deal better. Many backsliders were made in the army, but not one hails from Oakham; there were cowards, but none were nurtured among these hills; there were deserters, but no Oakham man failed in the hour of trial."

In reply to a circular letter from Adjutant General Schouler dated December 9, 1865, Moses O. Ayres, Chairman of the Selectmen, wrote:

"All our brave fellows on returning from the war have entered at once upon the peaceful employments of life, and feel a just pride in the part they have borne in subduing a wicked rebellion. I think I am safe in saying that not one has suffered in his moral or religious character by the service he has rendered his country."

Sergeant White's words in praise of the Oakham soldiers in the 25th Regiment might have been said of the men from the town in the other regiments:

"They were equal to the best in all respects. No better lot of men ever wore the Union Blue. The most of them were of the very highest standard of moral and physical worth; the most of them religious in the best sense. Not a man of them failed to do his full duty, and to maintain the best traditions of New England manhood."

The following citizens held the important town offices during the Civil War:

Selectmen:

Alexander Crawford, 1861, 1862, 1863, 1864.

VETERANS AT FIRST OAKHAM FIELD DAY

ADDENDA.

The Addenda include exact copies of several manuscripts of historic value discovered, after this book was in type, in the possession of Miss Mary A. French of North Brookfield, Mass. The Roll of Captain Abner How's company is one of the supposedly lost Revolutionary Pay Rolls of the year 1776 (M. S. R., i, p. V). The affidavits, taken over half a century later at the time of Lieut. French's application for a pension, reveal how the Pay Roll came to be in the possession of the descendants of Second Lieut. Asa French, rather than in that of the families of Captain How or of First Lieut. Packard. They also add new facts of interest regarding the campaigns of the years 1775, 1776 and 1777. Great care has been taken in the transcribing and analysis of the documents. On page 277 will be found a summary of the new material which the Pay Roll adds to what had already been published in Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolution. Through the gift of Miss French, this Pay Roll is now in the possession of the Oakham Historical Society.

The connection of John French, 2d, with Oakham was not established till after the discovery of the documents. His name adds one more to the list of Oakham men who served as soldiers in the Revolution, and his biography is given on pages 278 and 279.

Of the fifty-nine men whose names are on the pay roll only three, the commissioned officers Abner How, Joseph Packard and Asa French, are credited with this campaign in M. S. R.

Ten names, those of Enoch Boutwel, William Boman, Jacob Brooks, Roger Bruce, Thomas Burnet, Joseph Hatfield, Theophulus Pother, Samuel Slayton, Robert Stevenson and Ezra Torry, are entirely new, not appearing under any form or spelling in M. S. R. but all of these names except two, Jacob Brooks and Thomas Burnet, appear in the Brookfield Vital Records of the Revolutionary period. The name of Jacob Brooks is on the Oakham Town Records. Robert Stevenson appears to have been living in Oakham in 1775 (Brookfield V. R., 415, Oakham V. R., 100).

Of the remaining forty-six names, eighteen appear in M. S. R. as those of Brookfield men, credited with service either before or after 1776: Jesse Abbot, Joel Abbot, Eleazer Addams, Jesse Addams, Solomon Barns, Elisha Bartlet, William Deen, Henry Gilbert, Jude Hamilton, Ephraim Harington, Moses Hastings, Thomas Hathaway, Jonathan Lamson, Joseph Marble, Samuel Watson, Thomas Wedge, Israil Whitney and John Woolcut. Ten others can be easily identified by entries in M. S. R., as those of men who were connected either before or afterwards with Brookfield companies: John Cambel, Lemuel Gilbert, Samuel Hinkly, Nicholas McCluer, Jonathan Richardson, Silas Stone, Joshua Tylor, Samuel Walker, Samuel Wood and William Wood.

Three names appear in M. S. R. as those of Oakham men credited with service before or after 1776: Siles Bullard, James Forbush and Samuel Medcalf. Five other men whose names appear in M. S. R. for earlier or later campaigns unassigned to any town are known from the Oakham Town Records to have been from Oakham: Abraham Bell, James Bell, William Bothwell, Nathan Edson and John Forbush.

John Ayres appears in M. S. R. for earlier or later campaigns from New Braintree, Samuel Ball from Worcester, Asa Barns from Lanesborough, Comfort Barns from New Ashford, Lemuel Bryant from Middleboro, Ebenezer Goodail from Royalston, Benjamin Knights and Samuel Palmer from Essex Co., and Ebenezer Wright from Templeton.

Nathan Rude, who was reported on the pay roll as deceased November 13, is probably the Nathan Rood of Brookfield (Brookfield V. R., 392, 401) who married Rachel Streeter in 1770.

The eleven Oakham men on the roll, Abraham Bell, James Bell, Jr., William Bothwell, Jacob Brooks, Silas Bullard, Nathan Edson, James Forbes, John Forbes, Asa French, Benjamin Knight, and Samuel Metcalf, are easily identified, being the only men credited with 178 miles distance from home. All of these except Nathan Edson and James Forbes are credited with this campaign on the Oakham Town Records. James Forbes probably went in place of Ichabod Packard, the only man whose name appears on the Town Records and not on the pay roll.

John French, 2d.

Born in Berkley, Mass., August 11, 1735, son of John and Marcy French, brother of Lieut. Asa French, and descendant in the fifth generation of John French of Halsted, Essex Co., England, who settled in Cambridge, Mass., about 1637.

He served as a private from the towns of Berkley and Middleboro, in probably eight campaigns: (1) in November, 1776, in Capt. Joshua Wilbore's Co., Col. Ebenezer Francis' Regt.; (2) from December 8, 1776, twelve days on a Rhode Island alarm, in Capt. Joseph Burt's Co., Col. Edward Pope's (Bristol Co.) Regt.; (3) from October 2, 1777, twenty-nine days on an expedition to Rhode Island, in Capt. James Briggs' Co., Col. Freeman's Regt.; (4) from January 10, 1778, two months twenty-three days in Rhode Island, in Capt. James Nichols' Co., of Col. John Daggett's Regt.; (5) May 6-9, 1778, on an alarm at Dartmouth, in Capt. John Barrows' Co., Col. Ebenezer Sprout's Regt.; (6) August 25 to September 1, 1778, nine days in Rhode Island, in Capt. Ebenezer Paull's Co., Col. John Daggett's Regt.; (7) September 6-12, 1778, on an alarm at Dartmouth, in Capt. John Barrows' Co., Col. Ebenezer Sprout's Regt.; (8) on the Rhode Island alarm of August 1, 1780, nine days in Capt. Abner Bourn's Co., Col. Ebenezer White's Regt.

John French, 2d, came to Oakham from Middleboro about 1792 bringing with him his father John French, then over ninety years of age. He lived on the Cheney Adams place till 1809 when he sold his farm to his son Isaac and afterwards removed to Stockbridge, Vt. Both he and his wife probably returned to Oakham before the end of the year 1816.

He was married July 24, 1766, to Hayden Shaw of Middleboro and had nine children, all born in Middleboro: Rhoda, August 23, 1767, married Benjamin Green of Oakham in 1793; Hannah H., August 19, 1769, married Zenas Ripley of Oakham in 1805; Betsey, August 31, 1771, married her cousin John French, 3d, of Oakham, April 25, 1804; Nancy, July 6, 1773, married Woodward Berry of Stockbridge, Vt., in February, 1801; Isaac, June 1, 1775; Philena, March 5, 1777, married Alvin Lyon of Braintree, Vt., January 20, 1807; Abigail (Nabby), March 6, 1779, married Arunah Gilbert of Stockbridge, Vt., January 29, 1800; Sarah, May 25, 1781, died November 4, 1783; Sarah Eaton, July 9, 1785, married Alvin Lyon of Braintree, Vt., February 11, 1821. Mrs. Hayden (Shaw) French died July 18, 1787, and John French, 2d, was again married in 1797 to Patty Fitch of New Braintree.

Isaac French, only son of John French, 2d, married Catherine Davis of Oakham, January 14, 1808. Children born in Oakham: Charles, February 3, 1811, a lumber merchant in Cleveland, in whose honor French Hall on the Oberlin campus was named; Nancy Davis, August 10, 1813, married Samuel G. Henry; Edwin, June 18, 1817, who laid out the towns of Tippecanoe and Lancaster, Missouri, and was the first Representative of his county in the Missouri Legislature; Caroline Denny and Catherine Davis, twins, August 17, 1819.

John French, 2d, died at Oakham, September 11, 1823. His wife Patty (Fitch) French died, also at Oakham, July 2, 1836.

In accordance with a resolution of the Massachusetts Legislature the State has recently printed "Records of the Massachusetts Militia in the War of 1812-14." These records, which came into the possession of the State in 1881, were furnished by Mr. Z. K. Harmon, and were supposed to come from reliable sources, but Mr. Harmon's list of Capt. Crawford's Company of Grenadiers, given on page 93, seems to have been copied somewhat carelessly. Seven names of well-known members of the company appear on this list as follows: Michell Lincoln, Sylvester Marn, Ebenezer N. Bars, Hiram Bars, Jonas Brinkhall, Boswell Converse, and Charles I. Holmes. James Allen is ranked as Lieutenant and Michael Lincoln as Ensign. These officers did not receive their commissions till December 20. John Adams' name is not found here, and does not appear on Capt. Crawford's Pay Roll for the month of October, given above. He may have been discharged at Boston, before October 1, but it is more probable that he did not go with the company to Boston; see page 162.

33d Iowa Infantry.*John Rice Crawford.

Mustered in, September 6, 1862.

Mustered out, July 17, 1865.

Son of John and Sally (Moore) Crawford, was born in Rutland, Mass., September 29, 1833. His father, John Crawford, was son of Samuel and Huldah (Berdin) Crawford, who were married in 1793. This Samuel was the son of Capt. John Crawford who served in the Revolutionary War. Sally Moore was the daughter of William and Sally (Rice) Moore, of Rutland, who were married May 8, 1803.

John R. Crawford came to Oakham with his parents when about one year old, and lived in Oakham till the age of twenty, when he removed to Springfield, Mass., and later went West. About 1859 he settled in Marshalltown, Iowa, where he had a general store. In the summer of 1862 he joined Co. D of the 33d Iowa Infantry, and was appointed Second Sergeant. According to the Adjutant General's Report he enlisted from Oskaloosa, Mahaska Co., and his enlistment papers were dated September 6, 1862. He was promoted to Sergeant Major, April 16, 1863. The regiment was sent to Arkansas. In the battle at Jenkin's Ferry, on April 30, 1864, Crawford was severely wounded in the thigh, and left on the field by his own men. He was taken prisoner by the Confederates, and transferred to New Orleans, where he was exchanged not long before the close of the war. The regiment was mustered out at New Orleans, July 17, 1865, and officers not accounted for were mustered out as with the regiment.

After his discharge he returned North and located as a dentist in Davenport, Iowa. Later he removed to Nyack, N. Y., where he continued the practice of dentistry.

He was married at Nyack to Sarah Andrews of that place, and had one son, John Andrews Crawford, who was a musician.

John Rice Crawford never fully recovered from his wound. He died at Haverstraw, N. Y., February 21, 1892, in the fifty-ninth year of his age.

Mr. Crawford's military record was not known to the writer till the part of this book dealing with the Civil War had been printed. Another name is now to be added to the list of descendants of Capt. John Crawford born or brought up in Oakham who served in the Civil War. See page 71.

The General Index contains all names of Oakham soldiers, and of such ancestors and descendants of the same as are mentioned in this book; also the Regiments and Companies in which Revolutionary soldiers from the town served, arranged alphabetically by the names of their Colonels and Captains, under the general headings: Regiments in the Revolutionary War, and Companies in the Revolutionary War. The names of soldiers whose biographies are given, and the pages on which they are to be found, are indicated by full-faced type.

Following the General Index is a separate Index of Towns.
